McCall's Magazine is one of the best periodicals published for ladies. It makes a specialty of styles and each issue contains articles and "cuts" of the latest out. It has much valuable reading, and the hints on cutting and making is well worth the price of the book. Dress makers can not do without it. Address McCall Magazine, 236 to 246 West 37th St. New York.

The Columbia baseball team left here this morning for the Lebanon Chautauqua Grounds where it will play Lebanon, Greensburg and Campbellsville. The first game will be to-morrow afternoon against Lebanon, Thursday against Greensburg and Friday against Campbellsville. Our boys are going up to win the prize, and about thirty rooters from the town and county will be with them.

Saw Mill Burned.

The Hugh McLean Saw mill which was located on the old Springfield road, three miles to the right of Cane Valley, was consumed by fire last Wednesday morning about 4 o'clock. It is not known just how it caught. All the machinery was destroyed, but the fire did not reach the lumber yard. The loss of the mill-house and machinery is considerable.

A large audience was at the Court-house Thursday evening to witness the contests, four, Reading, Writing, Composition and Spelling. There were quite a number of entries and the prizes were awarded as follows: Reading, Miss Celeste Shirley; Penmanship, Miss Mag Walker; Composition, Miss Estelle Willis; Spelling, Eld. Tobias Huffaker. The Judges were Prof. J. C. Willis, Prof. Harrison and Prof. A. H. Ballard.

The wheat contest for 1910 will be a success if our farmers will do their part and from present indications every section of the county will be in it to win. If you want to stir up an interest in the production of wheat this is the place that will bring it about. No good farmer, large or small, should hesitate to contribute to the plan. The importation of wheat and flour into this county ought to be checked and entirely eliminated by home spun goods. If we all pull together it will be done inside of a few years.

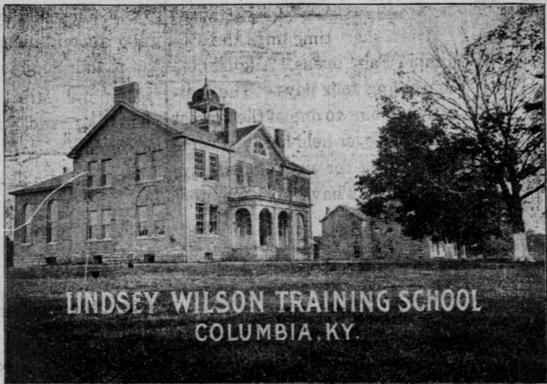

Dr. S. A. Taylor, who lives eight miles from Columbia, on the Jamestown road, arrived in Columbia last Thursday about the noon hour, having with him his little son, about five years old. The boy is the owner of a small black dog, but he was left at home. Three hours after the doctor and his son had reached town, the dog made his appearance on the square and soon found his little master. This is another evidence that a child's truest friend is his dog. As a reward for his faithfulness, the doctor permitted the little dog to ride home.
