NOTICE.

From what we can gather, some of the boys, who have been spending a good deal of their time seining and dynamiting the creeks for fish, are going to feel just a little uncomfortable, and right they should. A man, who usually knows what he is talking about, told us yesterday that the people who live along the creeks are determined that such dirty work shall be stopped, and we trust how soon.

I have received the Common School Law. The chairman of each school district please call at my office and get a copy. I also sent out the notices, blanks etc, for the various districts, by the teachers, institute week. I would like for every district to hold their elections in next month. If you do not have your notices posted, poll sheets, etc, hold one any way and I will receive the returns. Remember the outgoing chairman will hold over, if no election is held. So let every patron turn out on election day and have a trustee in each district elected.

Respectfully,
G. M. BALLARD,

FISH.—Mr. Ab. T. Fish, son of Mr. A. T. Fish, of Wildie, died at his home in Berea last Saturday morning of heart failure. For several days he had been in a very serious condition and the end was feared. At 1 o'clock Friday night, he became very much worse and the family physician was called in, but in a short time was again resting easy. Feeling very much better he insisted that his wife go to sleep, which she did, but to wake two hours later to find her husband dead. Mr. Fish was one of the most prominent business men in the town of Berea; he was an extensive timber dealer and was president of the Berea bank. He was a Mason and a member of the Richmond Lodge of Elks, both orders officiating at his burial, which took place in the Berea cemetery Sunday afternoon.

A. Herrin, W. H. Albright, Pleasant Hampton, Samuel Parson, Pur Adams, W. M. Kirby, J. J. Brown, J. C. Wood, J. A. Mullins and G. T. Thompson.

But few cases were tried Monday, most of the forenoon being consumed in selecting the juries and the afternoon, the Hon. William Lawson Sumrall, the republican nominee for Congress was given an hour in which to make a speech, followed by Judge Morrow, who, in a most happy and pleasing speech, announced to the boys that he would be a candidate for election for Circuit Judge. With the exception of a few cases, passed over until next court and the filing away of some, the following included the first day's business:

Joe Dickerson fined $25 and cost, for carrying concealed weapons; Pete Rose $100 and cost each, in two cases, for selling liquor unlawfully, and Jobe Smith $20 and cost, for gaming.

TUESDAY.

E. F. Hoskins for shooting and wounding a Mr. Blanton, on Copper creek about a year ago, was acquitted. The case against Wyatt Allen was then called and passed until Thursday, as a special jury had to be summoned.

WEDNESDAY.

Mrs. P. J. Hall was fined $20 and cost for selling liquor unlawfully; Mose Adams $25 and cost for carrying concealed weapons. John Burnside, colored, who stole engineer Sturgis' overcoat and other wearing apparel, at Livingston, some several months ago, was given one year in the pen. The case against Hamp Mize, for the killing of Robt. Whittaker, was called and will go to the jury about noon to-day. A large number of witnesses were examined. Two speeches were made, C. C. Williams for the defense, closing with Commonwealth's Attorney Sharp for the prosecution. The jury in the Wyatt Allen case for the killing of Squire Gatliff has been secured and the trial commence about 1 o'clock to day.

EDUCATION BY CORRESPONDENCE.

Among the changes introduced by modern methods in this world of progress, none is more marked than those along educational lines.

The correspondence method is one of the developments which is surprising in its attainments. There are now about one million students in the United States who pursue this course of study at home and recite and get their credit marks by corresponding with their college.

This plan is used with good effect especially in taking a business course of study. Many educators regard the correspondence method as superior to oral recitation. Dr. W. R. Harper, of Chicago University, expresses the opinion that students who have pursued the preparatory course by correspondence and then entered this University are more thorough than others.

We are authorized to say that if any of the teachers of the county, or any other persons should wish to take a Business Course of Study, that Dr. Hunt, of our College, will cheerfully place them in touch with first-class correspondence schools.
