DR. GROVER C. PRICE
WHO DIED IN FRANCE

Grover C. Price, oldest son of Thomas Jefferson and Mattie Price, was born in Woodstock, Ky., Feb. 23, 1888, and died in Toul, France, Oct. 30, 1918, age 30 years, 8 months and 7 days. He attended the public schools in his home community, and later attended the Brown Memorial school at Mt. Vernon, Ky., from which he graduated in 1910. He then entered the Sue Bennett Memorial school at London, Ky., and completed the course with exceptionally high grades. When seventeen years of age he began to teach and taught three successful terms at Wabd, Ky. He decided to take up the study of medicine to become a physician and entered the Nashville Medical college in 1904 and later entered the Louisville Medical college, graduating in the year 1909. He located at Mt. Vernon, Ky., and began his profession, but upon the death of his father in 1910 he moved to Level Green and took up his father's practice, remaining there until 1912, when he came to Judson, Ind., where he built up a good practice and erected a beautiful home.

He was united in marriage to Laura Baker, of Plato, Ky., July 18, 1908, to this union was born one child, Sallye Jefferson Price. He became a member of the Church of Christ when he was 12 years of age and as he lived so was he prepared to die, with a faith in Him who doeth all things well. Doctor Price was a kind, just and loving husband and father. He especially loved his home and was always pleased when it was filled with friends. He was loyal and intensely patriotic and felt that he must serve his country in the ranks. He volunteered his services in the Medical Corps shortly after America entered the war. He was commissioned First Lieutenant and called into service in January, 1918. He received his training at Camp Greenleaf, Georgia, and Camp Greene, North Carolina, and sailed for France with the Base Hospital Unit No. 78 in September of this year, and it was while he was on duty in Toul, France, that he was stricken with pneumonia and died after a week's illness.

His was a life of well spent service for others and in passing he leaves pleasant, loving memories to his relatives and friends. To them his death has brought a sense of personal loss and grief. Those who enjoyed his acquaintance and friendship will long remember his brave and cheerful spirit and his loyalty to duty. He is greatly missed in business and home circles, which knew him so favorably. In looking backward over his life we know he stood for only those things which are enduring and which will promote friendship. These things he took as inspirations to develop the fraternal feelings which he deemed necessary to the welfare of every individual. There was born within him a power that carried an influence upon those with whom he associated. He was a splendid physician, thoughtful, obliging and patient and many are the praiseworthy acts he did at the risk of personal safety, which is an evidence of his true nobility and his high traits of truth, honesty, bravery and charity. He had deep faith in his friends, faith in his country and its people and faith in his God. Fraternal-ly he was a consistent member of Judson Lodge No. 518, F. & A. M. True his star has turned to gold but his death was a most glorious one, in the service of his country and for the sake of humanity.

He leaves to mourn his loss, the widow and daughter, Sallye, 6 years; old mother, and five sisters, Misses Sallie, Hazel, Gladys and Joyce, and three brothers, Swannie and Lieut. C. V. Price of Level Green, Ky., and Estel of Marshall, Ind., and a married sister, Mrs. Fred Mullins, of Withers, Ky., and a large circle of friends.

RED CROSS NOTES.

The people of this county responded to the Christmas Roll Call about on an average with the other counties in this section of the state. None of them did what they should have done. It was a hard matter for workers to get the people to separate Red Cross activities from the war. They thought when fighting ceased, the job was done. This is not strange when we consider there was no Red Cross organization in the state of Kentucky before the outbreak of the present war. The United States War Work Campaign which was conducted just before the Roll Call and after fighting had ceased, possibly, caused people to be more reluctant about joining the Red Cross.

The aim of the American Red Cross is to relieve suffering from any cause. During war and following war there is more demand for their service, and the program mapped out by the National Red Cross to assist disabled soldiers, look after war orphans; help reconstruct Belgium, France and Italy. This immense job falls more directly on the Red Cross than on any one Government or organized body. The organization is so complete in all of its departments that it can do more reconstructive work than all other relief institutions combined.

All newspapers and magazines of the country have been full of advertising matter explaining the value of co-operation in this work. All who have given the matter a thought should know the significance of standing together until the war wounds have healed, and the allied powers as a people are on their feet again.

Now that the campaign for membership is over, it is to you to decide whether you wish to join your home Chapter, and thus uphold the great army of reconstruction, or say by your acts that you have not a heart and a dollar to help the people outlive the effects of the past war.

World Supremacy

Boston, Dec. 30—Germany's wartime plans for after-the-war commercial supremacy were described by A. Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian, to-day at a luncheon of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, with a warning that danger from German ambitions is not past and cannot be ignored.

Mr. Palmer told of what has been accomplished by the United States in weeding out Germany's hold on America's commercial interests, gained for the purpose of furthering this plan, and declared for a "decree of absolute divorce between German capital and American industry."

Before this country's entrance into the war, he said most of the great German-owned industrial establishments were spy centers "filled with agents of Germany, long plotting against the safety of the United States."

"They were a part of the great German plan for the military and commercial domination of the world," he continued. "I hope to be able to say when peace is finally declared that there is no longer any influential German interest in this country; that every particle of German ownership in our important industries has been wiped out, and that American industries have been restored to their rightful owners."

"The sale of German owned or controlled businesses in this country is one of the most important battles in the commercial war that Germany has planned. With all German interests in this country eliminated, the American business man still has a fight on his hand. I have it from German sources that Germany's plan for commercial aggression, once the treaty of peace is ratified, has been prepared with such minute detail that no market in the world has been left untouched."

Mr. Palmer said there can be no question of the legality of the policy of the alien property custodian to continue to sell and liquidate enemy-owned businesses in the United States. Germany and the United States are still at war, he said, and as the trading with the enemy act is still in full force the selling of enemy-owned property is fully justified.
