LAUGH IT AWAY.

Don't put on your far-off glasses hunting lions in the way. Don't go probing for troubles—just ignore them, day by day. Don't go sighing. Yes, 'tis pleasant just at present, but—ah—me!

Mystery of the Bayou Woods

By WALKER KENNEDY.

Copyright, 1913, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.

CHAPTER IV.

Col. Franklin was a man of strong traits and prejudices, and it was evident to Irving Wardle that if he interested himself in the Wright case he would come nearer perhaps than any one else in solving the mystery involved in it.

CHAPTER V.

The Wright place was one of the oldest homesteads in the country, but neither time nor war had dismantled it of its old-time grandeur.

HE TALKED A GREAT DEAL WITH THE CORONER.

When he entered Col. Franklin's law office he found that gentleman smoking a cigar and reading Byron's poems, a book which he was excessively fond of. He seemed to think it necessary to explain that whenever he did not feel like working he liked to read Byron; "the greatest of all the poets," he would say, with a half-cursing touch upon the worn volume.

He talked a great deal with the coroner and whispered with the police and the sheriff, and occasionally he could be seen interrogating some person who appeared to have light upon the tragedy. When the coroner was ready to take up the examination the crowd repaired to the apartment where the body had been deposited. There were two parlors, which by means of sliding doors could be merged into one room almost large enough to accommodate those present.

Bluffton, Ind., July 13.—John Terrell, a wealthy farmer living near Petroleum, nine miles north of the city, killed his son-in-law, Melvin Wolfe, Sunday afternoon, firing both barrels of a shotgun into his head as Wolfe lay on the doctor's operating table to have a leg amputated, necessitated by a wound from Terrell's gun fired a short time before.

RUINED THE ECHO.

The College Students Had Been Praising Their Yell and Had Torna To the Ground.

"What has become of the splendid echo we could hear from yonder bluff last summer?" asked the returned guest of the summer hotel last night. "The echo is dead," he said. "I'll tell you. One day you were all full there was a bunch of these here college students come out here and they got all over the bluff. They were all full of love for Almy Mater, or some other woman, so they said, and was likewise full of something else. They got out here in front of the hotel, all at once and all together, they cut loose with the daddled echo about 'Boh, rah, rah' and a whole lot more to the same effect, 'at that there echo just naturally must give up the ghost an' quit, for the next morning the three men were over there on the bluff, an' he said the ground was torn up for space of 50 feet square, an' there seemed to have been a terrible struggle. At any rate, we never heard nothin' of the echo since."

Supreme Court Sustains the Foot-Ease Trade-Mark.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Justice Laughlin, in Supreme Court, has granted a permanent injunction with costs, against Paul B. Hudson and others, of New York City, restraining them from making or selling a foot powder which the court declares is an imitation and infringement on "Foot-Ease," now so largely advertised and sold over the country. The owner of the trade-mark, "Foot-Ease," is Allen S. Olmsted, of Le Roy, N. Y., and he immediately attempted to profit by the extensive "Foot-Ease" advertisements. Similar suits will be brought against others who are now infringing on the Foot-Ease trade-mark rights.

A Good Story.

Frederick, Pa., July 13.—Mr. A. S. Grover, of this place, tells an interesting story showing how sick people may regain their health. He had a very bad case of kidney trouble, which affected his urinary organs so that I had to get up every hour of the night. I could not retain my urine and my feet and limbs began to float up. My weight was quickly running down.

"After I had tried many things in vain, I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, a medicine which had cured some other very bad cases. This remedy has done wonders for me. I have gained eight pounds in two months. The blood has gone from my feet and legs, and I don't have to get up at night. I took in all about ten boxes before I was cured."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The real heroines of every day are in our homes. Frequently, however, it is a mistaken and useless heroism. Women seem to listen to every call of duty except the supreme one that tells them to guard their health. How much harder the daily tasks become when some derangement of the female organs makes every movement painful and keeps the nervous system trembling? Irritability takes the place of happiness and amiability; and weakness and suffering takes the place of health and strength. As long as they can drag themselves around, women continue to work and perform their household duties. They have been led to believe that suffering is necessary because they are women. What a mistake!

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN.

If there is anything in your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. No man will see your letter. She can surely help you, for no person in America has such a wide experience in treating female ills as she has. She has helped hundreds of thousands of women back to health. Her advice is free, and her medicine is free. You are very foolish if you do not accept her kind invitation.

For proof read the symptoms, suffering and cure recited in the following letters:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to express to you the great benefit I have derived from your advice and the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My trouble was female weakness in its worst form and I was in a very bad condition. I could not perform my household duties, my back ached, I was extremely nervous, and I could not eat or sleep, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. My husband spent hundreds of dollars to get me well, and all the medicine that the doctors prescribed failed to do me any good; I resorted to an operation which the physician said was necessary to restore me to health, but I suffered more after it than I did before; I had hemorrhages of the womb that nothing could stop."

"I noticed one of your advertisements and wrote you for advice. I received your reply and carefully followed all instructions. I immediately began to get stronger, and in two weeks was able to do my household duties. I had bought bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and continued following your advice, and today I am a well woman. Your remedies and help are a Godsend to suffering women, and I cannot find words to thank you for what you have done for me."—Miss LOTTIE V. NAVLON, 1238 N. J. Ave., N.W., Washington, D. C.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was suffering with falling of the womb and could hardly drag about, but after taking five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was completely cured. I am now a well woman and able to do all my work."

"I think your medicine one of the best remedies in the world."—Mrs. J. M. LEE, 141 Lyndon St., Newcastles, Pa.

"I began taking your medicine and I took it long before I was feeling better. My husband said that I should keep right on taking it as long as it gave me relief from my suffering, as I could not expect to be cured by one or two bottles. I did so and am now able to be on my feet and work hard all day and go to bed and rest at night. Thanks to your Vegetable Compound I am certainly grateful for the relief it gave me. It is the mother's great friend. I would not be without it in my house, for when I feel tired or out of sorts I take a few doses and feel all right."

"I would recommend your medicine to all tired mothers, and especially to those suffering as I was."—Mrs. R. F. CHAMBERS, Bennet, Neb.
