State Convention June 11

The Democratic State convention to select delegates to the National convention which meets at Denver July 7th to nominate a Democratic candidate for President and Vice President, has been called to meet at Lexington June 11th. County mass meetings will be held at the various county seats on Saturday June 6th at 2 p. m. to select delegates to the State convention.

Entertainment May 28.

The people of Jackson are to have the opportunity to hear Miss Madge Wilson, a graduate of the Cincinnati School of Expression, in presenting Tennyson's "Enoch Arden," a melo-drama, with music setting by Richard Strauss, at the college chapel Thursday, May 28. She will be accompanied by Miss Georgia Heikens, pianist, a graduate of the Cincinnati College of Music. This is a rare chance for the people who are lovers of poetry and drama to hear one of the greatest poems in all English literature.

The Lights Are On.

The light plant resumed operation under the management of the new company after a preliminary test Tuesday night. F. C. Pickeral, the engineer in charge of the light and ice plant, announced that the machinery was in order for permanent service. A canvass will be made as rapidly as possible to enable all persons having their houses wired to contract for lights, after which new wiring will be begun. A great many houses and stores are anxious to install lights.

A flat rate will be found in another column of The News. It has been made as low as possible with safety to the company.

The ice plant machinery is now nearing completion at the factory and will be coming in right along. The company expects to be ready to furnish customers ice by July 1.

New music at the rink

U. S. Court for Breathitt.

Congressman Langley's bill for a United States court at Jackson passed the Senate almost unanimously Monday. Mr. Langley promised during his campaign that he would have a court established here and he has been working at it unceasingly ever since his election. He succeeded in getting it passed by the House several months ago, but when it came to the Senate it was vigorously opposed by Senator McCreary, who tried in every way to defeat or delay the passage of the bill, but Senator Paynter came to the rescue and made a speech on the floor of the Senate answering all the objections of Senator McCreary and gave his reasons why the bill should pass. This court will be of incalculable value to Jackson and Breathitt county and a benefit to all Eastern Kentucky. Great credit should be given to Representative Langley and Senator Paynter.

Sessions will be here on the first Mondays in March and September of each year.

The Head Citizen.
A small community in New York has just re-elected the village blacksmith mayor. It tried him once and liked the brand well enough to re-elect him again. Persons who have only the role of a merry villager in real life will not be a bit surprised. If there is one Sir Oracle in the village it is the blacksmith. What he doesn't know about politics, literature and things sick hens isn't worth knowing.

His intellect usually towers above the thinking machinery of the village lawyer as much as his fire outsmokes the blazes of a blizzard. When he isn't mayor, he usually tells the mayor what to do. On a side line, his time in a quiet country is not being taken up in studying horses. Doubtless the sagacious members of the community had noticed these things and thought he might as well be drawing the salary.

Judge J. J. Osborne, of Cynthia, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge in his district. He presided at the Jett and White trial when they were sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of J. B. Marcum.

Alex. P. Duff, of the U. S. army, who is stationed at Fort Thomas, is visiting his cousin, Dr. H. P. Duff, and other friends here.
