

CATARRH A NATIONAL CALAMITY.

[Prominent members of Congress that owe their health to Pe-ru-na.]

INTERIOR OF UNITED STATES SENATE CHAMBER.

Our nation is passing through a great political crisis. Whether our national policy is to be one of territorial expansion, or whether we are to remain aloof from international complications, is the supreme question confronting our Congress. The attention of the world is directed toward us. The deliberations of our Congress have come to be of international importance.

But this consideration affects only our external welfare. Our domestic problems are not one bit less important. We have serious questions before us that relate only to home interests. Chief among them is the health of our people. Catarrh has already become a national curse. Its ravages extend from ocean to ocean. More than one-half of the people are affected by it. It has become such a serious matter that it has passed the boundaries of the medical profession and become a national question. Senators are talking about it; Congressmen are discussing it. They are not only considering the extent and chronic nature of the disease, but the possibility of finding a national remedy to meet this national calamity.

Congressman Brewer.
Hon. Willis Brewer, Representative in Congress from Alabama writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman:
"I have used one bottle of Pe-ru-na for lassitude, and I take pleasure in recommending it to those who need a good remedy. As a tonic it is excellent. In the short time I have used it, it has done me a great deal of good. Willis Brewer, Hayneville, Ala."

Congressman Meekison.
Hon. David Meekison, Member of Congress from Ohio, says of Pe-ru-na: "I have used several bottles of Pe-ru-na and feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head and feel encouraged to believe that its continued use will fully eradicate a disease of thirty year's standing. David Meekison, Napoleon, O."

Congressman Meekison.

United States Senator Sullivan.
"I desire to say that I have been taking Pe-ru-na for some time for catarrh, and have found it an excellent medicine, giving me more relief than anything I have ever taken. W. V. Sullivan, Oxford, Miss."

United States Senator McEnery.
Hon. S. D. McEnery, United States Senator from Louisiana, says the following in regard to Pe-ru-na:
"Pe-ru-na is an excellent tonic. I have used it sufficiently to say that I believe it to be all that you claim for it. S. D. McEnery, New Orleans, Louisiana."

Congressman W. P. Brownlow.
"I have suffered with catarrh of the stomach for several years and for the past twelve months was in an exceedingly critical condition. My attention was called to your Pe-ru-na and I began to use it, and my improvement was noticeable after the first three days. I have taken three bottles of the medicine and I feel satisfied that I am now almost if not permanently cured. In connection with the Pe-ru-na, I have used your Man-a-lin for biliousness and torpid liver. I regard it as the best medicine for this purpose that I have ever used. Having been benefited so much myself, I give you this statement that others may be likewise benefited. W. P. Brownlow, M. C., Jonesboro, Tenn."

Congressman Howard.

Cong. Howard from Alabama.
"I have taken Pe-ru-na now for two weeks, and find I am very much relieved. I feel that my cure will be permanent. I have also taken it for the grippe, and I take pleasure in recommending Pe-ru-na as an excellent remedy to all fellow sufferers. M. W. Howard, Fort Payne, Ala."

Congressman Worthington.
Hon. H. G. Worthington, Congressman from Nevada, and Ex-Minister to Argentine Republic, says in a letter written to Dr. Hartman:
"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from your remedies. I have taken one bottle of Pe-ru-na and it has benefited immensely a case of catarrh of some months standing. I cordially commend its use to all similarly afflicted. H. G. Worthington, Washington, D. C."

Congressman Snover.
"I have found Pe-ru-na a very efficient and speedy remedy for a persistent and annoying cough resulting from catarrhal troubles. Horace G. Snover, Port Austin, Mich."

Important Rules For All People.

"The longer I live," said Chas. Simeon, preacher and founder of the Church Missionary Society, "the more I feel the importance of these rules.

1. To hear as little as possible what is to the prejudice of others.
2. To believe nothing of the kind until I am absolutely obliged to.
3. Never to drink in the spirit of evil reports.
4. Always to moderate, so far as I can, the unkindness which is expressed towards others.
5. Always to believe that, if the other side were heard, a very different account would be given of the matter."

This season there is a large death rate among children from croup and lung troubles. Prompt action will save the little ones from these terrible diseases. We know of nothing so certain to give instant relief as One Minute Cough Cure. It can also be relied upon in grippe and all throat and lung troubles of adults. Pleasant to take. F. C. Duerson.

Another Residence Burned by an Exploded Lamp.

On Tuesday evening at 7:15 o'clock a lamp exploded in the dining room of the residence on Locust St. owned by J. P. Gaines and occupied by A. T. Crouch and wife. Mrs. Crouch was clearing the table when the fire occurred. The flames spread rapidly and cut off the approach to the second floor. The house a two story, five room frame was soon doomed. It was not insured. The household goods were insured for $300. The loss above insurance is estimated at $330, as the family saved about one third of their furnishings. When we get water works probably such losses will not be so frequent.

In pulmonary trouble, the direct action of Ballard's Hoarhound Syrup upon the throat, chest and lungs immediately arrest the malady, by relieving the distress, cutting the phlegm and freeing the vocal and breathing organs. Price 25 and 50 cents. Thos. Kennedy.

THE COCKSURE AMERICAN.

An Appreciation and a Deprecation from the Other Side

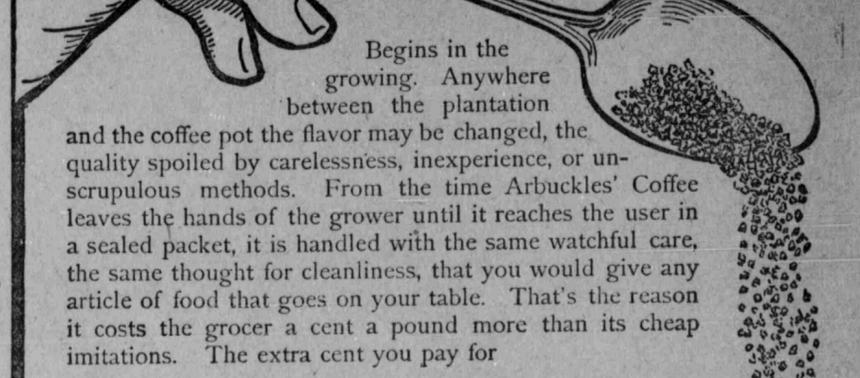

In Rudyard Kipling's "From Sea to Sea" there may be found, side by side with the very free and outspoken criticism of American manners, a most intense admiration of the American people. Especially the writer takes note of the American "cocksureness," or "cocksurity." "I love this people," he says—you will find the whole passage in vol. ii., p. 130-132—"my heart has gone out to them beyond all other peoples. * * * Cocksure they are * * * but I love them. * * * They be the biggest, finest and best people on the surface of the globe. Just wait a hundred years * * * the American will be the finest writer, poet and dramatist that the world has ever seen. * * * There is nothing known to man that he will not be, and his country will sway the world with one foot, as a man tilts a see-saw plank. * * * Sixty million people, chiefly of English instincts, who are trained from youth to believe that nothing is impossible, don't slink through the centuries like Russian pensantry." They do not, in fact. Well, these are my sentiments, put better and more plainly and with greater knowledge than lies in my power, says Sir Walter Besant, writing for the London Queen. That the people are cocksure is an excess of the great virtue of free thought. Every virtue, you know, has its defect and its excess. We incline to too much dependence on authority; the American to too little. Hence he is cocksure.

Now for my little story about one cocksure American. I have recently written a paper for the Forum on the aims and objects of the Atlantic Union, which is an attempt to bring together more closely all the English speaking races. I ventured to point out the part which prejudice plays when the American traveler, without any introductions to English people, comes over here to survey the land. I quoted a man who recently pointed with scorn to our cottages, where, he said, there are no windows on account of the window tax—he was not aware, you see, that this tax was abolished 50 years ago, who actually saw—this you will hardly believe—in the ruddy cheek of a young curate hurrying across the churchyard for the service the outward and visible signs of strong drink, who says that the Church of England is a branch of the aristocracy, filled with younger sons, and rolling in enormous wealth. I instanced another man who, in writing of the suburb of Hampstead, described it as consisting of miserable hovels, which the pigs and the fowls shared with the tenants. And I pointed out that prejudice, and not deliberate falsehood, was at the bottom of these absurdities; that prejudice can only be removed by getting at the facts; and that the facts cannot be found except by intercourse with the people. Also, I deprecated the interference of one people with the politics of another. Very good; I have received several letters in reply to this article from Americans. Most of them seem to be in full agreement with my position. One man, however, writes accusing me of introducing politics; but what has the Church of England to do with American politics? He quotes, triumphantly, three "facts"—first, that a certain noble lord did once bestow a benefice upon his illegitimate son, and then upon that person's son; next, that he himself has seen an English clergyman drunk at dinner; and, third, that high church clergymen are sometimes imposed upon by low church congregations. Therefore, you observe, this man's prejudices are proved in his own mind, up to the hilt, by "facts," and he is more cocksure than ever.

PERSONAL DAMAGES.

This Bill is One of the Biggest Items in the Expense Account.
One of the items of cost not usually considered by the public in connection with railway operation is the bill for personal damages. This is emphasized by some figures recently published in connection with the Texas railroads, where it appears that in that state during two years ended June 30, 1900, the railroads paid to persons for injuries received $1,674,576. It is not the cost of railroad operation, strictly speaking, that makes the line between profit and loss so very fine; it is taxation, personal injury bills, expensive wrecks and the various other collateral expenditures that worry the management. These cannot be provided against, and amount to a sum that is startling in the aggregate.—Railway and Engineering Review.

The Making of Good Coffee

Begins in the growing. Anywhere between the plantation and the coffee pot the flavor may be changed, the quality spoiled by carelessness, inexperience, or unscrupulous methods. From the time Arbuckles' Coffee leaves the hands of the grower until it reaches the user in a sealed packet, it is handled with the same watchful care, the same thought for cleanliness, that you would give any article of food that goes on your table. That's the reason it costs the grocer a cent a pound more than its cheap imitations. The extra cent you pay for buys much more than a cent's worth of quality and strength. A pound of Arbuckles' Coffee will give you more cupfuls of better coffee than you would get from other package coffees.

ARBUCKLES' Roasted Coffee

Be sure you get Arbuckles' Roasted Coffee. Other package coffees are but imitations of Arbuckles'.
In each pound package of Arbuckles' Roasted Coffee there is a list of articles. With each package in which the list is found the purchaser has bought a definite part of some article to be selected by him or her from the list, subject only to the condition that the signature on the package is to be cut out and returned to our Notion Dept. You should see this list. Address all communications to

J. S. Head, Jr., of Jackson, has been in town for several days attending to banking interests.
The past year has been a successful one with the Bank of Morehead. The volume of business for November was above 90 per cent more than November in preceding year. A dividend of 9 per cent will be declared January 1.
Henry Watson, of Mt. Sterling, was in town on Wednesday looking after the telephone plant in which he is interested. He says the town will have a fine system.

To Cure a Cough

Stop coughing, as it irritates the lungs, and gives them no chance to heal. Foley's Honey and Tar cures without causing a strain in throwing off the phlegm like common cough expectorants. F. C. Duerson.

Movement Against Polygamy.

The national movement to make polygamy a felony through an amendment to the Constitution, has reached Lexington. The women of the city will lead the work. The Woman's Club, church societies and other organizations open the crusade, the authority and requisite papers for the same having been received.
