MAKE THIS UP AT YOUR HOME.

Hundreds of People in Vicinity Here Welcome This Advice, Says Local Druggist.

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, which is said to be a positive remedy for backache or kidney or bladder derangement, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Sargol, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here at home, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic afflictions with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial. 14-3t

GROWING CHILDREN

Need a Strength Building Tonic. Daughter of Mrs. Simmons of Lakewood, N. J., was

RESTORED TO HEALTH BY VINOL

"Our daughter, who is twelve years of age, was in a very run-down condition from fast growing. We were advised to try Vinol to build her up, and after using four bottles she has a good healthy color, is free from nervousness and has gained eight pounds. She is now full of life and ready for outdoor exercise, where previously she moped in the house. I can cheerfully recommend Vinol as a first-class tonic reconstructer and one that will do rapidly growing children a world of good." Mrs. T. Simmons, 250 Main St., Lakewood, N. J.

This is because Vinol is the best cod liver and iron tonic in the world, does not taste of oil, and has no equal to create strength and build up health for delicate children, feeble old people, weak run-down persons, and after sickness, and is a remarkable cure for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis.

Try Vinol. If it does no good your money will be returned on demand. That's your guarantee, but we know it will benefit any such case. Wm. S. Lloyd, druggist, Mt. Sterling.

Did Not Come.

The expected mass meeting in behalf of the Anti-Saloon League was cancelled. The league State representative had urgent call elsewhere and wired the cancellation.

DEWEY HAS YOUTHFUL CHUM.

Ten-Year-Old Charlie Taft is Admiral's Gr. at Friend.

Wouldn't it be nice, boys, to have a real, sure enough, big, live admiral for your best chum? That is what Charlie Taft, ten-year-old son of the Republican candidate for president, has in Admiral George Dewey of Uncle Sam's big navy. The admiral is Charlie's next door neighbor. They're great chums, says the Toledo News-Bee.

Charlie went to the Philippines with his father just when the admiral's fame was at its zenith. There he heard a whole lot about the admiral. The first thing he did when he returned was to go down to his home and ask for his autograph.

He got it. More than that he won a staunch friend in the admiral. Since then he has visited him often, and they've taken many a carriage ride together. About a year ago the admiral moved down town next door to the Tafts. Since then Charlie and the admiral have become real chums.

Charlie doesn't think half so much of the army as he used to, and he is disgusted with the idea of his father being elected president.

"I'd rather be in a big battle like you were," he told the admiral the other day. "I want to be president a dozen times. I don't think much of being president, anyway. If we were to have a war do you think they'd be the president fight? Not much. All he could do would be to sit in the White House and read the dispatches."

BISHOP POTTER HAS PARABLE

Bogus Coin the Equivalent of Under-taker's Affliction.

Bishop Potter did not approve of recidive almsgiving. Once he was stopped on the street by a beggar as he was hurrying home to his dinner. However, he was never in too much of a hurry to give his time when there was a possibility of his being useful, so, although he was hungry and he knew that a savory meal awaited him, he stopped to listen to the man.

"What's the trouble?" he asked. "Can you help a poor blind man to a night's lodging?" came the tremulous voice of the man. "I haven't a penny in my pocket, sir."

The bishop sized him up for a moment, and noted that he was a rugged-looking specimen, inclined to the Bowery type. One eye was closed, and a patch was over the other. Something attracted the bishop's attention, and he looked away for a moment, and then, turning quickly back, he caught the beggar in the act of giving a nearby friend a wise wink with the closed eye.

Instantly the bishop put his hand in his pocket and drew out a bogus piece of money that some one had passed to him in change during the afternoon. Holding it out toward the man, he said:

"If I should give you this particular coin don't you think that my alms would just about suit your affliction?"

Lord Wolseley Lacks Cash.

Lord Wolseley, who used to be known in England as "our greatest general," is in straitened circumstances and has given up his residence, the Farmhouse, Glynde, Sussex, owing to the expiration of his lease, and the furniture and contents of the modest little mansion have been disposed of by auction. The distinguished soldier has received in his time several liberal grants from a grateful country for services rendered to it, but it is understood that his lot has now fallen on rather evil times—the more so as his state of health has prevented him from completing his "Life of Marlborough." Still, the suite of apartments that was granted him and Lady Wolseley at Hampton Court palace remains at their disposal.

Driven Out of Berlin.

Miss Anna Morgan, heiress to $100,000,000, says a Vienna paper, was driven out of Berlin, where she hoped to study politico-social conditions, by the beggars, high and low, nobility and others, who no sooner heard of the arrival of the rich American girl than they set siege to her dollars. Individuals, societies, churches, charitable institutions and promoters of business schemes wrote, telegraphed and sent messengers. It all looked funny to the young woman at first, but it became a nuisance, from which she escaped by means of her automobile, in which she hastened to a nearby summer resort.

Wanted a Hatched Baby.

Manager Knight of the Scottish national exhibition at Edinburgh has received the following from a little girl: "I heard you hatch babies in incubators. Do you give any away? If you don't, I'd like one about 3s (75 cents); one that has been hatched for a week or two. I would like a fair-haired and blue-eyed little girl; one that is nice and healthy and does not squeal much. If you have no fair-haired at 3s, a brown-haired and brown-eyed girl will do. It must be healthy and a girl. I will not have a boy."

Turtles Furnish a Business.

Capturing giant turtles seems to be a profitable business along the Maine coast. A 1,500-pound one was recently taken in those waters, and so great a curiosity was it that the two captors promptly exchanged it for a perfectly good check for $250. The purchasers, present day P. T. Barnums, hope to reap a small fortune by exhibiting the turtle at county fairs.

IS AN AUTO-STIMULANT.

cat Head on Table and Ideas Flow Anew.

"An auto-stimulant, a self-stimulator, something within yourself which instantly will turn your tired and jaded brain to a fresh and vigorous one."

The speaker, a reporter, increased the power of the electric fan.

"Yes," he said, "I am the inventor of the auto-stimulant, and I'll give you the recipe. It is simply to work with your head lying on the table."

"The discovery, like all great discoveries, was accidental. I was surprised on a murine storm. I wanted to write a line poem, but I was tired, and staid. I hadn't slept the night before, and out of my tired-up brain not an idea would flow."

"In disgust and weariness I laid my cheek on the table. My mind at once seemed a little brighter. I took my pen again, and in that ridiculous position I dashed off easily the brilliant and strong introductory paragraph on which, upright, I had worked vainly for an hour. I kept on writing. My thoughts flowed well, my mind seemed quite fresh."

"If, however, I lifted my head I was again weary and jaded and unable to write anything commensurate. So I wrote all my story with my cheek on my desk, and a better story I never turned out, nor one that flowed more easily."

"My doctor says that bowing the head thus way sends the blood to the brain, the same as a stimulant does, only more so."

"That is the explanation, and there's your recipe—an auto-stimulant, worth all the alcohol or cocaine or coffee in creation."

HIS WAS A NATURAL ERROR.

Alrship is Mistaken for His Sataelic Majesty by Negro.

A group of seamen were telling balloon stories in the smoking room of a Chicago hotel. Capt. R. E. Honeywell, who, with the Fielding-Antonic balloon was later to break all long-distance records, laughed and said:

"The great Elyot made a balloon ascent from Charleston one hot summer afternoon. A thunderstorm came up. Elyot, amid buckets of rain, the roar of thunder and the flash of lightning, was blown about like a thistle-down. On toward midnight he found himself over a plantation and threw out his anchor—a grapnel at the end of a long rope."

"It happened that a colored man had died in one of the huts of this plantation. The funeral was to take place in the morning. A dozen friends of the dead man sat in the soft summer night before the hut telling ghost stories."

"Suddenly in the darkness above them, they heard strange noises—a flapping as of great wings, menacing cries. And they saw dimly a formless black shape."

"All but one man ran. This one man, as he cowered on his stool, had the ill luck to be seized by the grapnel."

"The grapnel, going at a great pace, whirled him up four or five feet in the air and jerked him along at the rate of 15 miles or so an hour."

"Oh, massa, massa," he yelled, squirming and kicking in that strange flight, "I se not de one! I se not de cawpse! Dick's in de house dah! In de house dah!"

"Oh Lawd, How Long?"

In the course of a speech not long ago Representative John Sharp Williams illustrated his point by a story of an old colored woman in Alabama whose extreme age and helplessness were such that her neighbors felt called upon to supply all her needs.

The aged negress was very grateful for all such attentions, and never failed to express her gratitude therefor in original language.

It appearing one day that she could not sufficiently thank the son of an old friend who had brought her some choice fruit, the old woman said:

"You is powerful good to a pore ole woman like me, wid one foot in de grave an' de odder a-crying out: 'How long, oh Lawd, how long?'"

Cheerful Ignorance.

"You'd be surprised," said the woman who is supposed to be wise, "how many people are perfectly ignorant of the correct way to write acceptances and regrets when they are asked to entertainments. It would pay some enterprising woman to go around writing them for those who don't know how. You'd be amazed to see the people who come to me to ask how it is done or get me to write them. And," she admitted, "if the truth must be told, I don't know so awfully much about it myself."

The Stay-Away Cure.

Mrs. Exe—Good-bye. I'm sorry my husband isn't in. I wish I knew some way of keeping him at home a little more.

Mrs. Wye—Let him buy a motor car.

Mrs. Exe—Why, he'd be out more than ever then.

Mrs. Wye—Oh, dear, no! Mrs. Dasher tells me her husband bought a motor a few days ago, and the doctor says he won't be out for six weeks.—Illustrated Bits.

THEIR MONEY IN OLD BOOTS.

How Russian Farmers in Kansas Hid Their Wealth.

"Ellis county has more money hidden in tin cans and old boots than is deposited in the banks," said Val E. Gross, a banker and broker of Hays City, Kan., to a correspondent of the Washington Post.

"Old boots are the proper things," continued the Kansas banker, "because the people who hide their money in our county, as a rule, have no old socks to use for that purpose. They do not wear socks. They are Russians, who have no working knowledge of our banking system, and who show no disposition to learn much about it."

"They do their own banking. Their savings box consists of a tin can or an old boot, and their safety deposit vault is a hole under the barn or in the cellar. When they want to buy something they pay cash for it. When they sell something they demand the cash and hide it."

"It is a conservative estimate to say that more than half of the actual cash of Ellis county is hidden. Our deposits come chiefly from the Americans. Comparatively few of the Russians do any banking business. We have conducted a campaign among them for years, and some of the younger element are beginning to patronize us. But the old-timers are still holding off, and probably will continue to do so for the rest of their lives."

"Perhaps 70 per cent. of the people of Ellis county are Russians. More strictly speaking, they are German-Russians. Originally they went from Germany to Russia, and later came to this country. They are a sturdy, honest people, industrious, very religious and great money-savers. They never hide behind the statute of limitations. If a Russian buys a horse or a farm, he is just as sure to pay for it as he lives. Mortgages are only used as protection in case of death."

UNIQUE DIVING FOR FISH.

Curious Method Employed by the Natives in Panlaung River.

A unique method of fishing is employed by natives along the Panlaung river, says the Rangoon Gazette.

Two dugout boats are employed about 20 feet long, with two men with long poles, one in the bow, the other at the stern puncting the boat along.

They stretch a long rope made of bamboos and plaited grass about 100 yards long and weighted about every ten yards with big stones. This they let down into the water and the fish are frightened toward the bank.

The divers then jump in three at a time, remaining down about 20 seconds.

They carry gaffs about 18 inches long and fishhooks with cords attached. When they strike a fish they let go the gaff and the fish is hauled up in the boat.

Motoring in Palestine.

Apropos of the trip of American tourists who were the first to enter Palestine with a motor car, the consul at Jerusalem, Thomas R. Wallace, reports that the tour was made with ease, even roads that had been pronounced impracticable for motor cars being traversed without difficulty. He says that great interest has been aroused throughout the district, and that a number of people are talking of investing in cars. He recommends a light, strong car, with good clearance, a good hill climber, and of medium price, and suggests that a repair and supply shop would add greatly to the chances of sales. At present permission from the Turkish imperial government must be obtained to travel through the country in motor cars.

Lead in Pottery.

A committee has been created by the British government to consider the dangers attendant on the use of lead in pottery, and to report how far these can be obviated by improved appliances and methods in lead processes; by the limitation of the use of lead by the substitution of harmless compounds for raw lead, or of other materials for lead, and by other means. The committee is also instructed to consider the danger and injury to health arising from dust or other causes in the manufacture of pottery, and the special rules regulating the decoration of earthenware and china.

Drawing Sparks from Belt.

To show how great may be the generation of static electricity in German factories, Prof. M. M. Richter has drawn sparks an inch to an inch and a half long from a five-inch belt on a wheel making 10,000 revolutions a minute. The risk of explosion in dust of gases seems to have been overlooked. Coating with bronze or aluminum powder prevented static charges while a weekly application of acid-free glycerin was a remedy, and added durability to the leather.

Miss Ann Teek Chased.

"Since Miss Ann Teek has her electric phaeton she speeds so that she catches the bicycle cops busy." "Why does she do it?" "She says it's so exciting to be chased by a man."—New York Evening Sun.

"Colonel, did you ever know the office to seek the man?" "Yes, sir; and it stumbled over him and hurt itself!"—Atlanta Constitution.
