THE HISTORY OF LIVE STOCK.

[By T. J. Bigstaff]

SWINE—(CONTINUED).

The last article written on this subject contained several typographical errors which the printers claim was my fault because I did not have opportunity of reading proof-sheets. I answer that I write such a plain hand that "he who runneth may read." The late Charles Dana, of the New York Sun, used to lay all errors on his office cat, but most editors, and especially preacher editors like brother Trimble, no doubt lay all their mistakes on the devil (in this case the printer's devil). The misprint makes me say that the Poland Chinas "were first advertised as the "Mazie" hogs, when it should be "Magie." Stranger still, one little letter changes the whole meaning of the sentence "but I would not advise the cross-bred for 'feeders,'" which should be "breeders." The first letter of the last word is changed to "b," making it read just the reverse of what was intended, for the cross-bred hog not only makes a good feeder, but the Poland China crossed on any other breed makes the very best feeder or shoat to follow cattle, and makes the quickest market hog.

On the other hand, no one should breed to any but a pure-bred sire. If you breed to a grade or a cold blooded animal as a sire you are deteriorating your produce instead of improving them.

So much for these errors in print that I hope from the extra accent on their correction may correct some errors in breeding. There are several breeds of but the most popular in this country of the fat-back and the bacon type are the Chester White and the Large Yorkshire respectively.

THE CHESTER WHITE

originating in Chester county, Pennsylvania, is supposed to be a union of the blood of the Bedford hog of England and the Chinese hog, both white in color. The result was a very large, coarse hog, and was later improved by adding the blood of the Norfolk Thin Rind, which were black and white or white belted. Later the blood of a Normandy or French hog was added by the Todd brothers, of Ohio, who called the result the Improved Chester White.

In 1865 L. B. Silver, of Salem, Ohio, tried to breed them to a fixed type and called them the "O. I. C. Strain" or the "Ohio Improved Chester White," and claimed that they were cholera proof, which we now know could not be true, as no hog can be bred cholera proof, and the only way to immunize a hog against cholera is by the serum treatment.

The Chester Whites grow to a large size, so large in fact that their feet and pastern joints are usually bad and not sufficient to support them well. They have good litters of pigs and make good mothers. They are rather coarse of ear, hair and feature. On account of their color it is claimed they sun-scald. The Chester White and Poland China cross make the best butcher hogs. Prices paid for pedigreed Chester Whites have never been more than $150.

THE LARGE YORKSHIRE,

although white in color, is the exact opposite of the Chester White, for it is the correct bacon type, originating in Yorkshire county, England, and is probably the largest breed of hogs, having been made to weigh at maturity over 1200 pounds. But they do not mature early and will not take on any fat until fully matured. In fact feeding a young Yorkshire corn is a waste, as they then do not utilize the most of the corn, which is starch and should make fat. They have been bred and raised for more than a century for their long, lean side meat, that makes superior bacon, in England and Canada, while the bacon as cured in Denmark brings the highest price, but whether it is the breed or the way Danish bacon is cured, I do not know. This breed raises large litters that do well on protein feeds, but not on carbohydrates. A peculiar feature is that their noses turn up, with a long under-jaw like an English bull dog, and like the imported English Berkshires, that makes the males look very pugnacious and the females most coquettish.

Says Brewer is Friend of Temperance Worker.

In Chicago, Henry Heinemann, editor of the American Brewers Review, digresses from the usual trend of argument used by brewers to check the prohibition wave. In suggestions to the society of Brewing Technology, for the betterment of the drink traffic, he says:

"If the use of brewed beverages is wrong, then the manufacture and sale of them is wrong, and I, for one, would not engage or defend the business. If the use of this beverage is right, as I believe it to be, we are compromising with ourselves and belittling our cause by admitting the manufacture and sale of it to be a necessary evil and complaining about property loss."

He advocates the limitation of the number of public drinking places, discrimination in favor of mild fermented beverages, suppression of impure drinks; wise discretion in licensing; the absolute suppression of the treating habit.

Cheap to Use.

One chicken saved will pay for enough Bourbon Poultry Cure and Bourbon Insecticide to keep a hundred healthy and free from lice and vermin. Bourbon Poultry Cure keeps fowls healthy and Bourbon Insecticide kills lice and vermin. Both sold by W. S. Lloyd.

Is Railroad Liable?

The question of the liability of an electric railway company, when the exhaust from an airbrake frightens a horse and causes him to run away, smashing the vehicle and injuring himself, was considered by a jury in Louisville. The case is that of Dr. Jones against the Louisville Railway Company for $333 damages.

DISTRESS FROM UPSET STOMACH.

Also Misery from Indigestion Vanishes 5 Minutes Later.

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangle and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your stomach trouble.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in the bowels, tenderness in the pit of the stomach, bad taste in the mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin. 38-4t.

Preacher Slain by Another Minister.

Rev. M. D. Johnson, of Lebanon, Mo., shot and killed Rev. Solomon O'Dell, also of Lebanon, following a quarrel. Rev. Johnson is pastor of the Free-Will Baptist church, and the man he killed is pastor of the Cumberland Christian church. Johnson surrendered.

He is a capitalist as well as a pastor. He is President of the Laclede County Telephone Company. Recently some of the subscribers, including the Rev. Mr. O'Dell, made complaint regarding the telephone service. This led to a quarrel between the two preachers.

REPRESENTATIVE JOHN W. LANGLEY

Had it Handed to Him Pretty Hard by Representative Payne of New York.

John W. Langley is an ardent advocate of a $2 duty on lumber, while Mr. Payne defended the course of the Ways and Means Committee in reducing the duty to $1 as tending to reduce the price of stumpage and check speculation in timber.

"If the gentleman from New York lived in the backwoods he would not want to reduce the price of timber land," said Mr. Langley.

"O, well," rejoined Mr. Payne, "if I lived in the backwoods, I think I would climb to the top of a high peak and learn that there were other people in the United States besides those in the backwoods."

There was laughter and applause at the expense of Langley, who took both good naturedly.

Senators in the South Will Be Consulted in Making Appointments.

There is indication at the White House that President Taft, in making Federal appointments in the South, intends to consult as far as possible the wishes of the Senators from the States in which the offices are to be filled. He had an interview with Senator Edley D. Smith, of South Carolina, and it was said he also would consult with Senator Tillman regarding South Carolina offices.

Mr. Taft has notified Senator Bailey that his wishes would be consulted regarding Texas appointments. The same rule, it is declared, will apply to all the Southern States.

Unequaled as a Cure for Croup

"Besides being an excellent remedy for colds and throat troubles, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is unequaled as a cure for croup," says Harry Wilson, of Waynetown, Ind. When given as soon as the croupy cough appears, this remedy will prevent the attack. It is used successfully in many thousand of homes. For sale by R. H. White & Co. 34-5t.

Pays Old Debt.

In New York Mary Garden, the opera singer, has paid David Mayer, a retired merchant of Chicago, $20,000 with interest, which Mayer and his wife advanced to her eleven years ago, in order that she might complete her musical education. She was at that time a choir singer in Chicago.

Judge Barker Hands Down Important Opinion.

A man's right to have whisky for his own use, if that use is without injury to the public, is sustained by the Court of Appeals in an opinion written by Judge Barker. The right of a city to fine a man for having whisky in his possession, when it is not shown that he had it for the purpose of selling it or giving it to another, is denied. The case came here on appeal from the Jessamine Circuit Court. Peter Campbell was arrested and fined $100 in the Police Court for violation of a city ordinance making it illegal for a citizen to take more than a quart of whisky into the city. He appealed the case to the Circuit Court, which dismissed the warrant against Campbell. In sustaining the verdict of the lower court, Judge Barker says:

"The right to use liquor for one's own comfort, if the use is without direct injury to the public, is one of a citizen's natural and inalienable rights, guaranteed to him by the Constitution. Under our institutions there is no room for that inquisitorial and protective spirit which seeks to regulate the conduct of men in matters in themselves indifferent and to make them conform to a standard, not of the citizen's choosing, but of the choosing of the law-giver."

The effect of the decision will be far reaching, as many towns in Kentucky where prohibition prevails have passed similar ordinances, and have sought to prevent the bringing into the town of whisky beyond certain quantities.

Prohibition Fight.

For the purpose of starting a vigorous prohibition movement in the District of Columbia, a crusade was opened at which a committee was named to draft a bill to be presented to Congress, the object of which will be prohibition in the district.

DEFIANCE OF THE LAW

Discredits Saloons and Makes Them the Center of Lawlessness.

The story every Sunday is of the belligerent attitude of certain of the saloonkeepers in this city toward the law, their determination to violate it, their defiance of the officers of the law. The purpose of these systematic efforts is to harass and wear out the police. The effect is to wear out public patience with saloonkeepers. These men grossly violate the law and then they claim that prohibition does not prohibit, and that regulation does not regulate, and that an order to close the saloons does not close the saloons if the saloonkeepers are able to prevent it.

There are more saloons in the city than there are policemen. It is evident that a number of these in different parts of the city on different days should be able for awhile at least to escape police vigilance. The Evening Post warns these saloonkeepers, Brewery Trust, liquor dealers generally, that this attitude of defiance discredits the saloons still further, makes them the center of lawlessness and arouses against them more and more the sentiment of society.

Every man who violates the law will have to be put out of business. They have been able through various devices heretofore to avoid this penalty, but they will find that the community is as much in earnest in this matter as they are. —Louisville Post.
