A DANGER

A danger that confronts the United States is that the force of public opinion aroused by a jingo press of no judgment may carry the Administration from its safe base and precipitate war with Germany. With a man of the iron nerve and courage of Woodrow Wilson in command the danger is remote, it is true, but it is a danger just the same. This country is not prepared for war. It will require several years to bring the country on a basis in any degree equal to that of European countries now fighting. It is perhaps true that Germany has a system of spies covering the United States who are better acquainted with the country's war footing than are the citizens of the country themselves. Perhaps it is true also that there are over two million German reservists in this country who could be relied on to take up the cause of the Fatherland in the event of a rupture. Germany is likewise buying and storing ammunition and other war supplies here, perhaps to use against us. All this may be true and it counts. It may be well for citizens to tie themselves to camps like that at Plattsburg, N. Y., and enter upon military training. It will at least be good for the tired business man's health. BUT—all of this is well-known to the authorities at Washington, better known than it is to the excited newspaper writers. Even more is known to President Wilson and his advisers. As a matter of fact, they have the WHOLE SITUATION before them and know exactly what they are doing and what the country ought to do. The vast majority of our people have confidence in the Administration, and believe it should be left unhampered to work out its delicate problems. If left alone there can be no doubt of a correct solution of every difficulty. So far as we are concerned, therefore, nobody can scare us or work up a war frenzy in this neighborhood until Woodrow Wilson gives notice that there are breakers ahead. Until then, war editors and correspondents and Theodore Roosevelt and Lexington Herald may howl their heads off, but sweet slumber these delightful August evenings shall go undisturbed.—Cynthiana Democrat.

RUTH LAW LAWLESS SKIMMER OF THE SKY

With George Mayland, the "Miraculous Human Fly"

RUTH LAW.

RUTH LAW is "such a little queen," but she makes her big brothers of the wide blue sky sit up in their mono and biplanes and take notice when she sails into the far reaches of the empyrean and does stunts that even a bird would not dream of doing. And yet she has been flying only two years, is one of only two women fliers in the country and is still in her teens. She is just an ambitious, daring, feminine little slip who has become enamored of aerial work, does not know the meaning of fear and who, while modestly deprecating what is known as "insane" or sensational flying and who preaches the beauty and commendability of scientific flying, yet skims and darts and spirals and dives and drives through the air in such dizzy fashion that her every appearance is the supreme sensation of the day.

Daredevilry evidently runs in the Law family, for Ruth is a sister to the famous Rodman Law, champion air man, high diver and motion picture sensationist, whose doings have furnished the press with special stories galore. Not satisfied with the achievements she accomplishes alone, Ruth has secured another intrepid soul in George Mayland, a parachute jumper, who goes up for 2,000 feet or over in the "Air Queen's" machine, creeps out on the crossed wires under the plane, cuts loose his chute from the body of the car and, with the airship going sixty or seventy miles an hour, drops 500 feet before he dares let his frail support umbrella open and carry him to the earth 1,500 feet.

Rushing at a rate too terrific for even an express train to rival, the effect of this sudden lightning of the madly careening airship, outlined like a shooting star against the far sky, is absolutely awesome, and spectators momentarily lose breath and speech until the little flier and the big car right themselves and triumphantly continue their journey—for that time at least.

Going over Niagara falls in a barrel or smoking in a gunpowder factory is inconsequent compared with this feat, which sends shivers up the spine at the mere description and which is in reality one of the most spectacular, sensational, electrifying and tremendously thrilling ever witnessed and which no other flier is duplicating or attempting.

Every day Ruth Law and her nerve tingling turn will be the supreme attraction at the Kentucky State Fair, and on two afternoons of the week George Mayland will make his death-defying dive.

BANNER TOBACCO YEAR

Early Crops Insure Great Show For Thirteenth Annual Kentucky State Fair

FOR the first time in the past several years conditions are entirely favorable for tobacco growers, and the crop for 1915 will be an unusually early one. In view of this fact it is more than probable that the tobacco exhibit at the Kentucky State Fair this year will be an interesting and extensive one, with growers of every county competing for the interesting premiums offered. E. S. Rees, superintendent of the department, is making an appeal to growers throughout the state to do their sections proud this season by entering the banner leafage of their crops, and the rivalry will be keen.

Entries for the tobacco department will close Sept. 8, and in the interim application blanks and further information may be had from Evan S. Rees, superintendent, Springfield, Ky., or J. L. Dent, secretary, Kentucky State Fair, Louisville, Ky.

The various crops and leafage eligible for entry are as follows:

Handsome Programs For State Fair. Handsome programs for all the daily and nightly events of the thirteenth annual Kentucky State Fair, to be held in Louisville Sept. 13-18, are being prepared by Pat Clark and Harry Leslie, two of the liveliest advertising experts in Louisville.

The books list every special feature, and each of the daily track and horse show events, giving entries, riders and time and place of showing and cover the Midway amusements, the Hippodrome show, band concerts and the great free outdoor affairs, which include the world's wonder, Ruth Law, in her flying exhibition, during which George Mayland dives from the airship with only a parachute between him and instant death.

Advertising space in these programs is choice and may be spoken for by addressing the above named representatives or the Kentucky State Fair offices in Louisville.

State Fair Season Tickets.

Season tickets in book form are being prepared by the Kentucky State Fair management and will go on sale from Aug. 15 to Sept. 11. The books are decidedly economical to Fair visitors, comprising as they do a half dozen day tickets which sell singly at 50 cents at the Fair gate, but the half dozen go for $2. The night tickets, which are good after 6 o'clock and may be used both at the admission gates and the Hippodrome show in the Pavilion, sell for $1 for six. Books will be forwarded to out of town purchasers upon the receipt of postage money orders for the number of books desired. Address all applications and inquiries to J. L. Dent, secretary of the Kentucky State Fair, Louisville, Ky.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES IN VACCINATING HOGS

When hogs or pigs are heavily infested with worms, vaccination may result in considerable loss. Hogs that are excessively fat are not as good risks for vaccination as animals in medium condition. Farmers must provide proper care of hogs before and after treatment to reduce the risk to a minimum. Many of the undesirable results following vaccination are due to the condition of the hogs, or to the surroundings under which they are kept. These factors are in a majority of instances under the control of the owner.

The following points in hog management should be carefully considered:

1. Ascertain beyond a doubt whether or not cholera is present in the herd.

2. Animals stand the excitement and shock of vaccination better if the intestinal tract is empty; if free from parasites; if in medium flesh; if kept cool during the operation and confined in a clean, disinfected stall, bedded with straw while awaiting the injection of serum.

3. The point of inoculation must be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. The animals must not be allowed access to dirty, filthy wallows before or after treatment. It is impossible to clean a dirty hog with a small amount of antiseptic so that serum can be injected with any degree of cleanliness. Abscesses are most often the results of the filthiness of the hogs and not to any fault of the operator who employs proper precautions with his syringe and serum.

4. There must be a clean, dust-free enclosure for the hogs at the time of inoculation.

5. Following vaccination hogs must be kept in clean quarters for at least two days. Dirty wallows should be avoided. A good plan is to keep hogs in a well bedded stable. The feed should be laxative in nature. Losses sometimes follow vaccination in the winter months because animals are placed in damp, filthy quarters.

6. Great care is employed in preparing pure, potent serum. There is little risk in injecting good serum into hogs that are properly prepared for the operation and properly cared for followign it.

In summing up the factors which contribute to irregularities, it has been observed that in a great many herds the owner is negligent in providing the care necessary before and after treatment, especially those essentials herein mentioned.

STATE-WIDER IN LINE

We are for Stanley, teeth and toe nail, now. We are no less for State-wide than before the primary, but we are going to wait until another opportunity to fight for it, and then we will be in the game stronger than ever. We fought for the County Unit for more than a dozen years and we can fight that long or longer for State-wide. There is a principle involved as eternal as the hills and as true as gospel and this question will be finally settled by the popular vote of the people in favor of closing the saloons in Kentucky. Let the question rest and elect the Democratic ticket for we are no worse beat than we suffered many times while we were trying to get County Unit. We should stand by the Democratic party because that party has given us all the temperance legislation we have and will give us all we ask when we carry on the campaign sufficiently long to educate the masses.—Smithland Enterprise.

WALTON WILL START LEXINGTONIAN AGAIN

Col. W. P. Walton is preparing to resume the Lexingtonian, which he suspended a short time ago, to make as he says, "a wild goose chase after the phantasmagoria of office," and expects to issue in a week or two. A sadder and he hopes a wiser man, he says he will be able to get out a much better paper than ever before and help to elect others to office that was denied him and for which he will run "never again." The paper is soon to be issued semi-weekly and as soon as possible appear as a low priced daily.
