Social Events.

The Capital City Literary Society was entertained Tuesday evening by Miss Lucy Phythian at her home on Mero street.

Miss Marie Louise Averill, of the county, gave a birthday party Saturday, which Misses Lillian and Genevieve Lindsey, Mary Kieth Miles and Cordelia Bull, of this city, attended.

Mrs. G. M. Adams and Miss Fannie M. Trabue entertained the Ladies Afternoon Euchre Club yesterday. A large number of the members and a few invited friends were present but the late hour at which the game was concluded prevented a full report of the entertainment.

Mrs. A. D. Reid, of Indiana, who has been in the city for a week or more, has secured a class of young ladies who are interested in the science of Delsarte, or, in other words, the study of physical culture, which promotes the grace of natural poise and movement and the development of the human body. The class meets every afternoon at Prof. Wayland Graham's hall for practice, and as soon as the members become proficient in the exercises, it is proposed that a public entertainment for the benefit of Mrs. Reid be given at the Opera House about the 22d of this month.

The following ladies are now members of the class, but it is said that others will join it next week, viz:

Mrs. J. M. VanDerveer, Mrs. C. M. Walcutt, Misses May Pepper, Minnie VanDerveer, Nellie Orbison, Florence Stanton, Carrie Holt, Mary Hale, Bettie Keenon, Sallie Holt, Nellie Theobald, Maggie May Thomason and Annie Hall.

The first meeting of the Ladies Afternoon Whist Club was held Thursday at the residence of Mrs. John W. Rodman. There were four tables and eight games. Mrs. E. Polk Johnson, in winning seven games, received the first prize, a Japanese basket filled with a great number of Japanese chrysanthemums, and Mrs. Kate Mauer, in winning six games, carried off the second prize, a silver call bell.

The membership of the club includes the names of a great many who were not present at the first meeting, but those present were as follows: Mrs. John W. Rodman, Mrs. Fanny M. Trabue, Mrs. W. F. Dandridge, Mrs. R. P. Pepper, Mrs. J. S. Collins, Mrs. John W. Headley, Mrs. Chas. E. Hoff, Mrs. Wickliffe Chapman, Mrs. G. M. Adams, Mrs. J. Swigert Taylor, Mrs. Kate Mauer, Mrs. E. Polk Johnson, Mrs. Will Saffell, Mrs. Nannie Duvall, Miss Marie Haldeman, of St. Louis, Misses Todd Saffell and Joe Murphy. The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mrs. Kate Mauer, next Wednesday afternoon.

The reception by Mrs. J. Proctor Knott and Mrs. Wickliffe Chapman Wednesday night was an elegant affair and largely attended, despite the inclement weather. It was an occasion in honor of Miss McElroy, of Bowling Green, and Miss Jennie Knott, of Lebanon, to meet whom, the invitations included all the young ladies and gentlemen in the social circle of the city. The two brides of the city and their husbands were the only married couples to whom the invitations were extended. The rooms were beautifully decorated, the predominating colors in the parlors being yellow and in the dining room pink. Miss Jennie Gaines and Miss Maggie Taylor assisted Mrs. Knott and Mrs. Chapman, the duty of hostess, however, on account of the indisposition of Mrs. Knott, devolving chiefly on Mrs. Chapman. The honored guests of the evening were most becomingly attired, Miss

McElroy wearing a blue moire dress, trimmed in white lace and ornaments of pearls, and Miss Knott a salmon pink silk, trimmed in black lace and ornaments of diamonds. Mrs. Chapman's dress was a white silk. Her ornaments were natural flowers and diamonds. Miss Gaines and Miss Taylor both wore white silk and diamonds. The hours from eight until twelve were delightfully passed in social converse and the enjoyment of an elegant repast. Those invited were Misses Virginia McAteer, of Louisville; Marie Haldeman, of St. Louis; Annie Hines, of Bowling Green; Mary Dudley, of Louisville; Miss Pilkington, Mrs. Fanny M. Trabue, Mr. and Mrs. Will P. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Ben G.
