FOR PRESIDENT,
That uncrowned King of every Democratic heart,

SAMUEL J. TILDEN.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
Mr. Tilden's companion in Victory and in Humiliation,

THOMAS A. HENDRICKS.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Richard Reid, of Mt. Sterling, is a candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, to succeed Judge Hargis—subject to the action of the Democracy of the First Appellate District.

The defense in the Frank James trial give indications of an effort to prove an alibi.

Returns from all the counties in the State except Perry, give Gov. Knott, a majority of 44,500.

Twenty companies of State Militia are at Frankfort to-day to take part in the inaugural exercises to-day.

The Bowling Green Southern Progress a Republican paper, has put on golden slippers and gone whence.

HON. JAMES G. BLAINE has been endorsed for the Presidency by the State Republican Convention of Virginia.

Twenty-seven thousand three hundred and eighteen deaths have occurred from cholera since its out-break in Egypt.

The telegraphic strike is a-thing of the past. The operators have given up. The rich corporations were too much for the 15,000 poor men.

[Gov. BLACKBURN is being sharply criticised for pardoning George Kennard, one of the murderers of the Foster family, near Maysville, in 1868.

There has been no yellow fever at Pensacola this season. The disease is at the navy-yard, thirteen miles away. The city is healthier than usual.

The public school law requires that each pupil shall be vaccinated before entering the school unless they have been vaccinated effectually before.

There is one thing the critics have not done. They have not prevented Oscar Wilde from getting $7,500 for a play which would be dear at $3.—[World.]

MARY ANDERSON made her debut in London Saturday evening, in "Ingomar." She had many recalls and made a good impression. The house was crowded.

WILLIAM WEBER, under arrest at New Haven, Ky., charged with horse-stealing, jumped from a second-story window thirty feet to the ground and escaped.

The Governor pardoned four prisoners Saturday—among them Johnnie Lenoard, sent from Newport for thirteen years, for murder. He had served thirteen months.

The scientists have a poser in the statement that enormous masses of ice were thrown up in the recent tremendous convulsions in Java. Where did that ice come from?

A VERY large rattlesnake was captured by B. E. Richardson, of Hartford, Ky., a few days ago. He has extracted the fangs of the snake and is endeavoring to make a pet of it.

We want nothing to do with the North or "the South" in politics. We have ordered these two baleful terms stricken out of our new American Geography.—[Danville Tribune.]

The dedication of the monument and unavailing of the statue of Gen. Zachary Taylor, twelfth President of the United States, will take place at the Taylor burial grounds, near Louisville, September 20th.

It is said that where a dollar's worth of goods pass the custom-houses on the Niagara river, $1,000 worth are smuggled, either one way or the other. Protection, itself dishonest, produces dishonesty.—[Courier-Journal.]

JOHN G. THOMPSON and ex-Congressman John P. Leedom, of Ohio, are in Washington looking after the position of Sergeant-at-Arms in the next House. Both are confident of getting a majority of the Ohio delegation.

SATURDAY 250 colored passengers passed down the road from Virginia, en route for Iowa, to work on a railroad and vote the Republican ticket at the coming State election. This will not, however, keep the State from going Democratic.

The Texas cattle fever has broken out in Detroit in the herd of a milkman in the western part of the city. The whole herd of twelve is infected. Several have already died. A herd of forty-one steers bought by a Genesee-county farmer for feeding some two weeks ago have also been attacked by the disease and five have already died.

To-day at 12 o'clock, the Hon. J. Proctor Knott will be sworn in as Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. It would be folly for us to add words of a eulogium character to his national or local fame. We will be content to simply say that the proud old Commonwealth will have a Governor whom she will be proud of—one whom we can safely cite as the peer of any of the thirty-seven States in the Union—one who will be respected both home and abroad.

To him shall we look with confidence during the next four years as the ruler of the whole people, with an abiding faith that he knows his duty, and that he'll perform it well. He has seen the error of precedents, and knows the will of the people, and will rule accordingly—not harshly, but well.

He has our utmost confidence—that's all we can give. He needs no advice, therefore it would be presumptions for us, even anyone to offer suggestions. Our heart is with him in his reign as Chief Magistrate—we know that he will not cause a pang of regret to pierce it while it is in his keeping, and he's welcome to it.

In bidding adieu to his predecessor, let us draw the veil of charity. 'Tis human to err—all men make mistakes; even Moses is said to have made mistakes, and many of them have not been clearly refuted, to the minds of many. It cannot be denied that Governor Blackburn made mistakes—mistakes of the head, and not of the heart, let us hope. He was too good at heart to rule from a moral standpoint; he was overbalanced with good. He made many mistakes, but they were all on the side of mercy. We admire him for his goodness of heart, yet we condemn him in behalf of justice; but we forgive him freely, and give him our best wishes that his private life may be one of peace—sweet, silvery peace, and that his sincerity of heart at knowing that he has done what he thought to be his whole duty, will not permit one pang of remorse or regret to enter that sacred abode, while calm reflection passes in review of his career as Chief Magistrate of Kentucky.

Bill Nye's Hornets.

[Lamarie Boomerang.]

Last fall I desired to add to my rare collection a large hornet's nest. I had an embalmed tarantula and her porcelain-lined nest, and I desired to add to these the gray and airy home of the hornet. I procured one of the large size after cold weather and hung it in my cabinet by a string. When warm weather comes something reminded me of it. I think it was a hornet. He jogged my memory in some way and called my attention to it. Memory is not located where I thought it was. It seems as though whenever he touched me he awakened a memory—a warm memory with a red place around it.

Then some more hornets came and began to rake up old personalities. I remember that one of them lit on my upper lip. He thought it was a rosebud. When he went away it looked like a gladiolus bulb. I wrapped a wet sheet around it to take out the warmth and reduce the swelling so that I could go through the folding doors and tell my wife about it.

Hornets lit all over me and walked around on my person. I did not dare to scrape them off, because they are so sensitive. You have to be very guarded in your conduct toward a hornet.

I remember once when I was watching the busy little hornet gathering honey and June bugs from the bosom of a rose, years ago, I stirred him up with a club, more as a practical joke than anything else, and he came and lit on my sunny hair—that was when I wore my own hair—and he walked around through my gleaming tresses quite awhile, making tracks as large as a watermelon all over my head. If he hadn't run out of tracks my head would have looked like a load of summer squashes. I remember I had to thump my head against the smoke house in order to smash him, and I had to comb him out with a fine comb and wear a waste-paper basket two weeks for a hat.

Much has been said of the hornet, but he has an odd, quaint way after all that is forever new.

The Governor has pardoned among many bad ones recently, Austin Fleetwood (white) sentenced for life from Scott county, for the murder of Constable Mefford, while the latter was trying to quiet the former, who drunk and raising a disturbance at a picnic. Others pardoned the same day were: Sam Wilson (a negro), sent up from Shelby county in 1882 for two years for house-breaking; Geo. Kennard, sent up for life for kukluxing. Jos. Taylor (a negro), sent from Jefferson county, March 1882 for four years for grand larceny; Dave Curtis (white), sent from Madison county in 1881 for nine years for horse stealing.

The Danville Tribune demands for the people of Kentucky, a silver-plated State House, a double-back-acting revised Constitution, a ten-dollar-a-day job for every white Republican, and forty acres of watermelons a brass band for every colored man that has two good hind legs and a vote—all others to have a reserved seat in the pearly Kingdom.

The remains of Shakespeare are to be exhumed for the purpose of comparing the skull of the poet with the busts and portraits of him. This is all nonsense—why not compare the bust skull to that of any ordinary poetic shoemaker.

MILLERSBURG.

The new iron fence still stands.

Miss Sallie McIntyre will open a private school Monday.

Nearly 100 persons from here, went to see Jumbo Saturday.

Johnnie Miller has arrived here to remain until after the fair.

The public school will open next Monday, with Miss Lou Warford as teacher.

"Foxy" Mann has a sun-flower which is eight feet tall, and contains thirty-eight large blooms.

The will of Abraham Barton was not offered for probate yesterday, as it was understood that it would be contested.

Joe Batson shot a chicken thief Saturday night, and it is thought that the buzzards or John Mock will find out who the thief was.

Jas. Conway and James Hutsell were refused admission to Barnum's circus Saturday, in consequence of 20,000 already being in the tent.

Sam Martin sold 56 of the finest yearling mules last week, to Riddle & Howard, of Columbia, Tenn. They came to buy the finest lot in the State, and after looking all around, were satisfied that this bunch was the finest, by large odds.

The "Old Slate Furnace," in Bath county, is said to be the oldest furnace in the West. It went out to blast 1791, and continued running forty-seven years. The cannon balls used against Packenham's host, by General Jackson, at the battle of New Orleans, were manufactured at Slate Furnace. Many balls made at the time, but not shipped, are on duty in Eastern Kentucky as door stops.

Hon. J. C. S. BLACKBURN will be unable to deliver the address at the Reunion of the First Kentucky Confederate Brigade, in this city on the 5th inst. It would give him great pleasure to do so. As he has neither the data for the address nor the time to get it up in, and it is also probable that he will not be able to be here at all that day.—[Lexington Press.]

The Presidential party have wound up their lines, smashed their bottles, thrown away their bait cups and are pulling for home as fast as the iron horse can pull them. This is nothing but right; they are badly needed at the county fairs just now.

Rev. J. W. Asbury's nomination for Register of the Land Office cost the Republican State Ticket fully 25,000 votes. We told his warmest supporters what the result would be, but they would not listen to us.—[Danville Tribune (rep).]

PUBLIC SALE
—OF—
LAND, STOCK & CROP.

On Thursday, September 13th, will sell at public sale, on the premises near Shawhan's station, Bourbon county, all of my real estate and personal property, as follows:

470 ACRES OF LAND,

which can be divided into tracts as follows: 280 acres lying together, can be sold into two tracts; 200 acres in one tract; 150 acres containing a GRIST MILL, DISTILLERY and comfortable dwelling; 84 acres with improvements, and 44 acres lying in the edge of Harrison county on a pike from the Paris to Lairs Station, with moderate improvements. There is a good turnpike running through the main body of the lands from Shawhan's Station to the Mt. Carmel pike where it intersects the Paris & Cincinnati pike. The body of land lies well, highly productive, well watered, and well sustained the wide-spread reputation of old Bourbon from the agricultural as well as the alcoholic standpoint.
The personal property sold on same day, consists in part of:

NINE HEAD OF MULES,

A lot of brood mares and colts, cows, calves and yearling cattle, 60 sheep and 40 hogs; also my FARMING IMPLEMENTS, consisting of a self-binding reaper, three wagons and gearing, horse-cart, plows, farm tools, crops, &c., &c.

Terms made known on day of sale.
Sale will commence at 10 a. m., sharp.
