

CANADIAN CUSTOMS OFFICERS COLLECTING DUTY AT LAKE TAGISH.

The rich gold mines of the Klondyke are in Canada. Duties averaging 25 per cent. of the cost of every outfit bought anywhere in the United States must be paid by every person going to these mines upon entering Canadian territory.

A CHILD'S LONG JOURNEY.

Travels from Finland to Alaska Un- able to Speak English. Traveling from Finland to Alaska without speaking a word that anyone understood, without a single traveling companion, or without meeting a person who knew him from one end of the journey to the other, is no small undertaking, but it has just been completed by an eight-year-old boy, says the Seattle Times.

MET FIRST IN YOKOHAMA.

Though in New York They Had Lived for Years in the Same House. "It is a familiar saying," said a New Yorker, as reported by the Sun, "that people may live next door to each other in New York and never know each other at all, and it's quite true; and the same is true also of people living in even closer proximity in flats. I have lived for years in a flat and have never known even by sight the people living above or below me.

NATURE'S OWN PROTECTION.

Explanation of Why a Swelling Follows from a Blow. The swelling which follows from a blow is nature's effort to protect the part from further injury and to keep it at rest while repair is going on, says the Philadelphia Times. What actually takes place at the seat of injury is not even now quite understood. The injury to the smaller blood vessels interferes with the flow of blood through them and the white corpuscles, with part of the serum, the watery part of the blood, escape into the surrounding tissues.

Once Had Earthquakes.

Southern Scotland and northern England are visited by multitudes of strangers each year, and many get as far as the Western Isles. Few of them, however, are reminded of volcanic phenomena, though columnar basalts, such as those of Fingal's cave, may sometimes suggest the thought of lava. Yet for long periods of time in the far past this region has been covered with volcanoes like Hecla, and lava sheets like those of the Snake river. Japan is not more plagued with earthquakes than England has been, and the quiet little island has had its Krakatoas. It may have them again, but there is no immediate danger.

Queen Victoria's Voice.

Queen Victoria's voice is exceedingly winning when she chooses to be gracious, although it can be sharp and imperious in reproof. It entirely lacks that species of harsh guttural tone and accent which is so remarkable in the voice of the prince of Wales and of his brothers and sisters.

Irish Guards.

It is quite possible that her majesty's jubilee year will be still further marked by the creation of a regiment of Irish guards, consisting of two battalions, one of them to be always on duty in London, with Dublin for its headquarters.

IF YOU WOULD BE CORRECT.

Here Are Some Things to Observe and Some Others to Avoid. It is right: To make visits of ceremony after four in the afternoon. When calling upon a mother and daughters to leave two cards, one for the mother, the other for the daughters. To eat vegetables from the same plate as the meat. The custom of serving vegetables in saucers is no longer in vogue.

To offer congratulations to a gentleman upon the announcement of his engagement. To write letters to one's relatives and intimate friends announcing a marriage engagement. To send a congratulatory note to a gentleman upon the announcement of his approaching marriage; to call upon a young lady within a few days after receiving the announcement of her engagement or to send her flowers, with a note expressing wishes for her future happiness.

HIGH-PRICED LIVER.

When He Wanted a Thing to Eat He Wanted It Badly. Some years ago a well-known Cincinnati had a penchant for river traveling. But he was not satisfied with the accommodations offered nor with the routes of the lines then on the river. As he was wealthy, he fixed matters to suit himself, and had a small steamer built to meet his fancy. With this he covered most of the western rivers.

Fig Cake.

Two cups of sugar creamed with half a cup of butter, one cup of sweet milk, two cups of flour and half a cup of corn-starch sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add the whites of six eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Bake in two layers in long tins. Take six or eight figs, according to size; stew till very tender, chop fine, mix with a frosting made of one cup of sugar and two whites of an egg. Spread between the two layers. Use a boiled icing for the top.—Detroit Free Press.

A Mean White Man.

Rev. Amindah Bledso, of the St. Louis Blue Light tabernacle, met Jim Webster a few days ago near the Grand Union depot and asked him how he was off for firewood. "I reckon I has got about five cords laid up for do winter."

Misery by the Wholesale.

Is what chronic inactivity of the liver gives rise to. Bile gets into the blood and imparts a yellow tint, the tongue fowls, and so does the breath, sick headaches, pain beneath the right ribs and shoulder blades are felt, the bowels become constipated and the stomach disordered. The proven remedy for this catalogue of evils is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a medicine long and professionally recommended, and sovereign also for chills and fever, nervousness and rheumatism.

WOMEN DO NOT TELL THE WHOLE TRUTH.

Modest Women Evade Certain Questions When Asked by a Male Physician, but Write Freely to Mrs. Pinkham.

An eminent physician says that "Women are not truthful, they will lie to their physicians." This statement should be qualified; women do tell the truth, but not the whole truth, but this is only in regard to those painful and troublesome disorders peculiar to their sex.

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions when those questions are asked, even by her family physician. This is especially the case with unmarried women.

This is the reason why thousands and thousands of women are now corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham. To this good woman they can and do give every symptom, so that she really knows more about the true condition of her patients through her correspondence than the physician who personally questions them. Perfect confidence and candor are at once established between Mrs. Pinkham and her patients.

Years ago women had no such recourse. Nowadays a modest woman asks help of a woman who understands women. If you suffer from any form of trouble peculiar to women, write at once to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and she will advise you free of charge.

And the fact that this great boon which is extended freely to women by Mrs. Pinkham, is appreciated, the thousands of letters which are received by her prove. Many such grateful letters as the following are constantly pouring in:

"I was a sufferer from female weakness for about a year and a half. I have tried doctors and patent medicines, but nothing helped me. I underwent the horrors of local treatment, but received no benefit. My ailment was pronounced ulceration of the womb. I suffered from intense pains in the womb and ovaries, and the backache was dreadful. I had leucorrhoea in its worst form. Finally I grew so weak I had to keep my bed. The pains were so bad as to almost cause spasms. When I could endure the pain no longer I was given morphine. My memory grew short, and I gave up all hope of ever getting well. Thus I lagged along. At last I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. Her answer came promptly. I read carefully her letter, and concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking two bottles I felt much better; but after using six bottles I was cured. My friends think my cure almost miraculous. Her noble work is surely a blessing to broken-down women."—GRACE B. STANBURY, Pratt, Kansas.

MAN WHO WORE A DAISY. HE CONQUERED IT. Awful Struggle with a Monster That Finally Yielded. All was silence for a moment. Then a loud, shrill shriek rent the startled air. There was the sound of a heavy body falling, a crashing of timbers, a noise as of sinful spirits wailing in despair.

They were giddy girls of the kitchin age, and, being out on a lark without chaperons, they spoke their thoughts aloud and made game of everyone and everything they saw, on the principle that all was fish that came to their nets.

One passenger on the elevated railroad particularly amused them, from the fact that although it was the month of bleak November he wore a white daisy in his buttonhole, a fine specimen of the ragged edge variety. It was conspicuous from its size, and the girls regarded it as a legitimate object of sport.

"It isn't genuine," she suggested to the others, in a loud whisper. "W-h-a-a!" they trilled in chorus. "It's a base counterfeit."

"Yes, it's a cloth daisy." By this time the man upon whom all eyes were focussed was ready to leave the car. Before he went he touched his hat to his tormentors.

Another Hind. The following story proves what hardly needs proving, that a man may handle boob without being a scholar. It wasn't in the book stall of a department store; it was in a real bookstore; a bookstore, moreover, where you would expect to find salesmen who know books.

A GREAT REMEDY.

Greatly Tested. Greatly Recommended.

The loss of the hair is one of the most serious losses a woman can undergo. Beautiful hair gives many a woman a claim to beauty which would be utterly wanting if the locks were short and scanty. It is almost as serious a loss when the natural hue of the hair begins to fade, and the shining tresses of chestnut and auburn are changed to gray or to a faded shadow of their former brightness.

Mrs. Herzmann, of 336 East 68th St., New York City, writes: "A little more than a year ago, my hair began turning gray and falling out, and although I tried ever so many things to prevent a continuance of these conditions, I obtained no satisfaction until I tried Dr. Ayer's Hair Vigor. After using one bottle my hair was restored to its natural color, and ceased falling out."—MRS. HERZMANN, 336 East 68th St., New York City.
