Four Important Cases.

Heavy fines were imposed in four important cases which were tried Saturday in Judge Webb's court.

Thos. Owsley, charged with failing to report a case of smallpox at his house about two weeks ago to the Board of Health, and leaving house after it was quarantined, without permission from health officer, was fined $19.25.

Charles Owsley was fined $19.25 on the same charge.

Lydia Wilkins, colored, was fined $19.25 for harboring a case of smallpox.

Emma Allen, colored, was fined $19.25 for leaving her house when it was infected with smallpox, without permission of health officer.

These fines were the lowest that could be imposed. It is likely that the next offenders will get the limit—$500 fine, with a six months' jail sentence.
