Old King Cole To-Night.

When the K. U. boys got together and decided to give "Old King Cole" a burlesque operetta in three acts, they certainly did the proper thing, and the people were treated to one of the best amateur performances ever witnessed in this city last evening.

From the time the curtain went up until after the performance, people leaned far over in their seats to catch every word or note, and only when the curtain went down did they again gain their equilibrium.

Lindsay South certainly demonstrated the fact that he is a very clever actor.

Mr. Winter is certainly up-to-date, and the way he handled his flock, made several of the girls in the audience grin with envy, especially when the American beauties were showered at his feet. Mr. Foxhall Daingerfield's shape and general appearance made several of the boys think K. U. had made a mistake and several of the boys were seen standing around the stage entrance after the performance.

Mr. Frank Craft, Cecil Cantrill, Karl Wilkin, and last, but not least, the queen, C. W. Turner, deserves special mention. All during the performance requests were sent in to the manager for a repetition of the play. It was finally decided to give a matinee on Friday, April 17th.—Lexington Democrat.

Hal Woodford Interviewed.

The Commercial-Tribune of Cincinnati says:

Hal Woodford, of Paris, Ky., the well-known land owner and turfman, was a guest at the Grand Hotel yesterday. Mr. Woodford's health has been somewhat on the decline for some time past, and his visit here was to see a physician. "There is practically no land in the Blue Grass region now fit for farming purposes, simply because it is too valuable to pay on an investment of kind," said he. "I was told by Hal Headley of Lexington, the other day that he had been offered $300 per acre for 600 acres of his land recently. Mr. Headley did not say so, but I am of the opinion that the offer was from W. C. Whitney, of New York. I know that Mr. Whitney is trying to secure a farm of about that size in that part of the country. Mr. Headley's tract has a good sun mer mortgage on it, and excellent improvements in the way of equipments for breeding and training purposes, but otherwise the improvements are not above the average. Of course, farming can't be made to pay on such costly farms as that. As farms for horse breeding and training purposes, of course, the expenses can not be excelled. The outlook for the turf I consider more flattering, therefore, than ever before. The coming season promises to be the best this country has ever seen."
