

A FEW FACTS!

Longfellow could take a worthless sheet of paper, write a poem on it and make it worth $5,000. That's Genius.

J. P. Morgan can write a few words on a piece of paper and make it worth $1,000,000. That's Capital.

A mechanic can take a pound of steel and work it into watch springs, and make it worth $300. That's Skill.

We can write a check for $1,000,000 and it would not be worth a dime. That's Rough.

Your wife can buy a coat worth $10 but prefers one that cost $50. That's Natural.

There may be merchants who will tell you that they have better stock than we have. That's Gall.

We have a good stock of all kinds of Lumber that we are willing to sell at a reasonable profit. That's Common Sense.

ELECTRIC ANESTHESIA.

Temporary Loss of the Motor Senses Through the Application of the Current.

A French investigator has been experimenting with the electric current to produce anesthesia. After duly fortifying himself with a number of experiments upon animals he extended his researches to the human body, experimenting at first upon himself. He finds by applying a current, the exact character of which is not stated, to the body, through moistened electrodes, placed one on the forehead and the other over the small of the back, that with a voltage of 50 complete inhibition takes place. The faculty of speech is first lost, followed finally by the inhibition of the functions of the other motor senses. It is asserted that its only disagreeable feature is that which accompanies the gradual loss of the faculties, resulting in a sensation of a nightmare. The heart is said to be unaffected, but the breathing is somewhat obstructed. The current strength is gradually applied, about five minutes being occupied in reaching the maximum. When the current is switched off the subject awakens at once and with a "feeling of invigoration."

Lazy Man's Hat Raiser.

The newest invention is a hat which salutes ladies automatically. By means of a clockwork, the poor man who is too fatigued to raise his hat to a lady friend is able to escape an imputation of impoliteness. He has simply slightly to incline his head and the hat raises itself gracefully. On his head resuming the perpendicular the hat goes back to its proper position. Of course, the owner has to wind up the hat every night like a watch.

SANTIAGO, SPANISH STYLE.

The Great Sea Battle Faithfully Described by a Historian of the Heralds.

An American who was touring Europe last summer came across a new version of the naval battle of Santiago when he reached Madrid. It was written by a Spanish historian, who said: "When our fleet steamed out, the enemy at once sought to run away, as a matter of course, but our ships dashed among them firing right and left."

"Some 20 of the Yankee vessels had been sent to the bottom, and the rest of the fleet were flying in terror from the awful missiles flung from our guns, when Providence willed it that every Spanish officer and man should be overcome with exhaustion."

"In this awful emergency there was nothing left for our brave admiral but to signal to each of his ships to run ashore. They accordingly sought the beach, and being very sleepy and discouraged our gallant men waded ashore and concluded to stay there."

"Spanish honor was saved again, and the queen regent ordered the bells rung in every town in Spain for three successive days. It is rumored that three of Senor Sampson's ships got away, but this cannot be verified."

In a Reverential Sense.

According to President Harris, of Amherst, a word that is looked upon as profanity in Boston may express the deepest sentiment out west, in proof of which he tells the following story: "A rough miner died out west and was laid away by his fellow laborers, with a common slab of stone to mark his resting place. On the stone was this inscription: 'Bill Jenkins; died June 12, 1901. He done his damndest. Angels could do no more.'"

TIMELY CORN NOTES.

Have the Soil Well Disked Before Planting and Fertilized with Stable Manure.

But even corn succeeds better if the soil is well disked, before planting, and will respond profitably to an ample supply of stable manure.

Corn breeding has had great attention of late, and there is a wide difference in the value of seed corn, even of old and well-known varieties.

Corn succeeds better on newly turned sod than any other crop, because it is at first a surface feeder, and can wait for the under soil to become compact and the sod rotted.

Plant as soon as ground is warm (May 10 to 20) in rows three to four feet apart—18 inches apart in row—leaving one stalk to the hill. This is a good rule for either grain or silage. It pays to buy the best of seed. One bushel of seed will plant eight acres. That which will produce five additional bushels per acre is therefore worth about $20 per bushel more for seed than the inferior article.—Rural World.

Curious Old English Custom.

An old custom for which Wotton churchyard, England, is famous, was observed recently for the one hundred and eighty-fifth time. Twelve boys of the parish assembled in the churchyard, and, with their fingers upon the tomb of William Glanville, repeated the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments and afterwards read the fifteenth chapter of the First Epistle to the Corinthians, and wrote two verses of the same. William Glanville left in his will $10 each for five boys who should successfully perform the task. This number was afterward increased to

AMAZING STATISTICS.

The Tremendous Monetary Force Wielded by United States Insurance Companies.

Probably very few people who live and work outside the money markets have ever paused to consider the tremendous monetary force wielded by the insurance companies of the United States. The amount of money that these concerns handle is enormous, says Success. One may read that at present the 67 leading life insurance companies of the United States hold securities of all kinds that aggregate more than $1,500,000,000. Imagination fails to grasp such figures. It is equivalent to saying that there are 1,500 banks in the country, each of which has $1,000,000 which it must keep invested.

Striking as these figures are, they do not include the holdings of the lesser insurance companies, and they pay no heed to the money controlled by the little multitude of large and small fire insurance companies.

Of course, the bulk of the money held by an insurance company has to be invested; that is to say, every dollar not needed for running expenses and for the prompt payment of claims. It is like a fairy tale of finance when one reads what use is made of the millions on millions paid to insurance companies.

During the year 1901, for example, the total of the incomes of the 67 leading life insurance companies was something like $376,000,000. Of this money about $175,000,000 was paid to policy holders or to their heirs. More than $77,000,000 was disbursed for operating expenses. Still, more than $120,000,000 was left.
