AMUSEMENTS.

"THE TWO JOHNS."

"The Two Johns," which was one of the big farce comedy hits of a few seasons ago, opened an engagement of a half week at the Grand Opera House last night, to standing room only. Aside from the reputation of this clever fun-making vehicle, there was additional interest in the production here, arising from the fact that Wheeling's favorite dramatic tenor, Mr. Herman Steinmann is a member of the company. His friends were in evidence last night, and heartily applauded his meritorious work, and the singing of the Garden City Quartette, of which he is a member. Messrs. Cannon and Begley sustained the title roles, and proved themselves fitted by nature and talent to equal the work of the creator of the funny parts. The company is large, and the music and comedy is of an order that is certain to dispel the most aggravated case of the "blues."
—Wheeling Register.

At the Grand Opera House, Paris, Oct. 21th.

Especially care will be taken with regard to the costuming of F. R. Hallam's great revival of "Damon and Pythias," which will be seen at the Grand Opera House, Oct. 22d. Not only will the costumes be correct models of the period, but they will be far more elaborate and beautiful than any that have been seen in previous productions of the play. Manager Hallam recently accepted the designs submitted to him by an artist who is celebrated for his knowledge of classical costuming and the making of the costumes has been entrusted to one of New York's most famous costumers. The magnificent scenery, combined with these elaborate costumes and augmented by brilliant calcium light effects, will result in a series of beautiful and spectacular stage pictures.

LEZLIE EVANS IN "COZY CORNERS."

Few theatre-goers have never seen or heard of Lizzie Evans, the famous little comedy star, who was last season five years ago in such plays as "Foggy's Ferry," "Our Angel" and "Coon's Hollow." Since that time Miss Evans has been playing her short sketches in the vaudeville theatres of the large cities. The return to the drama in "At Cozy Corners," a play that has proven one of the big successes of the day, Miss Evans' breezy, refreshing style of acting has found a better opportunity in this play, according to the little actress herself, than any in which she has ever appeared. Claxton Wilstach, her manager, has surrounded her with a large company, including a quartette of boy singers and some wonderful dancers, the Henninga Trio, by way of special features in the production. The scenic display carried by the company is described as being very complete and is augmented by elaborate light effects. Miss Evans will be seen here Friday, Oct. 23. The advance sale opens October 19th.

DANCING CLASS.—My dancing class will be organized Friday night, at Odd Fellows' Hall. Pupils will please be on hand promptly. All new pupils can meet me there and get any information desired.
