Jailer Judy Identifies a Thief.

Our efficient Jailer, Geo. Judy, went to Lexington, Friday, to deliver to Miss Maud Miller the watch he found on the burglar, Harry T. Moore, after he had been searched several times before. While at Lexington he made a visit to the workhouse and while going through recognized Charles Green, wanted here for robbery of Link's grocery several months ago. The Lexington officials turned Green over to Jailer Judy and he was brought home for trial at the November term of court, being already indicted for the crime.

A Popular Man.

There were thirty-seven relatives and friends accompanying the remains of Dr. J. T. Pritchard from Huntington, W. Va., to this city, Friday, for interment. Dr. Pritchard was held in the highest esteem by his fellow-townsmen, every business house in Huntington closing its doors on the day of his funeral. His wife, nee Miss Annie Fretwell, of Bourbon, was in California when notified of his illness and had a race across the continent, but death won, as her husband died about an hour before she reached his bedside. Dr. Pritchard left a life insurance of $85,000.

Nev-ee, Nev-o.

Paris and Georgetown, which advertised "wide open towns," reaped a harvest Sunday, between 2,500 and 2,800 from Lexington, who objected to conditions resulting from enforcement of Sunday laws, spending the day in those towns."—Lexington Herald.

Paris never advertised a "wide open town" in Lexington, the only thing we advertised is that we have wide-awake merchants and that you can buy in Paris on week days up-to-date goods in all branches of trade as cheap as you can in Lexington or any other city.

The interurban people scattered circulars in Lexington advertising Paris as a wide open Sunday town, but if they carried 2,800 people out of Lexington, Sunday, Georgetown caught them. We heard of eight from that city taking supper in Paris Sunday night. The largest number of Lexington people ever in Paris at one time was about 40, members of a Lexington opera company who came down after supper and returned after the performance. If anybody thinks that 2,800 people of Lexington will leave that town at one time to visit any neighboring town, you will have to show us, for "we are from Missouri." The Woggle Bug says, nev-ee, nev-o.

Visits Her Wayward Son.

Mrs. Higgins, of Ohio, arrived here Sunday to visit her son in the county jail. With the true motherly love she called on our officials yesterday, having certificates from the officials of an insane asylum at Columbus, Ohio, stating that her son had escaped from that institution just three weeks before he was arrested in this city for burglary. It will be remembered that Harry Higgins was one of the two burglars arrested here on circus day. Mrs. Higgins also had certificates from several doctors stating her son was insane. Our officials could not help the poor woman out of her trouble and her son will have to stand trial in November. They have several sure cases against the young man. It is but another instance where it is shown that a mother's love is the truest of all, prison bars do not keep her away from her boy, or doing whatever she can to secure his release.

Fatal Shooting Affray.

Lighter made good his escape and has not been captured at this writing.

Paris Defeated.

Paris and the Blue Licks, of Covington, crossed bats Sunday afternoon, and for six innings it was a fast game of ball, not a hit or run being made up to that time. Paris scored one run in the seventh and in the seventh and eighth let the visitors score five runs. The Covington boys put up a good game of ball throughout. Cooper, for the home team pitched winning ball, but his support was miserable.

Earl Ashbrook, of this county, and three daughters, Mrs. R. B. Hutchcraft, of this city, Mrs. J. C. Dedman, and Miss Sallie Ashbrook, of Cynthiana.

The DePew-Burdette Stock.

The DePew-Burdette Stock opened at the Grand, last night, in "The Senator from Kentucky," to a good audience. It is a meritorious company, giving a first-class entertainment.
