Passion Play.

At this season of the year the early approach of Christmas, suggests to the mind the meaning of that word in all its significance. It is a celebration of the advent of the Christian era. The majesty and beauty of the word will appeal to you more strongly than ever before, and a newer and truer meaning of Christmas will come over you with overwhelming force, if you see the beautiful Passion Play Monday night the 14th. To the student, the geologist, the antiquarian, the sight-seer, the theologian, the folk lore of the old countries has ever appealed strongly to their inmost nature. Perhaps by none is this desire more forcibly felt than by that large class the students of Bible history. There is an intuitive feeling of religion in every heart and to the laymen of the church the desire to know and view sacred scenes amid their actual surroundings amounts to almost a frenzy of feeling.

Sherlock Holmes in his monologues has met with instantaneous success to vast audiences night after night, in his lectures on travel in foreign countries, illustrating the same by the latest motion pictures. In such scenes as the Holy City, trips to Palestine and the Passion Play his success has been phenomenal. He (Holmes) showed these scenes to 1500 people nightly for a period of three weeks. The Passion Play was originated by the peasants of Ober-Ammergau, a province in Austria-Hungary, and that place has now become famous by reason of it. The Ober-Ammergau is the only genuine Passion Play. Secure your seats early.
