It Pays To Advertise.

The lost horse advertised in a recent issue of The News by Sidney G. Clay, was found in Huntington, W. Va., after a long and arduous chase, following up clues. Thus the News demonstrates its excellence as an advertising medium, and the value of advertising is proven.

Another instance of the value of printer's ink was brought to light yesterday when a ring bearing a ruby set, valued at $500, having been an heirloom in a prominent Bourbon county family for half a century, was found through an advertisement in The News, and left at this office.

His wife and daughter are in Paris, France, and were at once cabled the news.

To each County Chairman: At a meeting of the Executive Committee held in Lexington, Ky., on Thursday, April 11, 1907, the following being present, C. S. Williams, S. T. Prewitt, R. B. Thomas, J. R. Bassom, G. W. McMillen, and C. LeBus, it was unanimously agreed that a full Board meeting be called to meet in Lexington, Wednesday, April 24th, at 9 a. m., at the Phoenix Hotel, being the day before the barbecue, so that we will get through in time to attend the Barbecue.

You must work every day and insist that each precinct chairman put in every possible minute toward securing the 1907 pledges; and, if you have a precinct chairman who is not pulling as he should, get someone else to canvass his precinct, and report it accordingly to the full Board meeting. Be sure and call in all your pledges and have them copied in book form, and bring all these pledges and book to Lexington April 24th next.

As Others See Us.

The Washington Post says: "A curious lawsuit has been concluded in Bourbon county, Ky., and the plaintiff has been awarded $10,000 in damages because the Republican County Committee read him out of the party. He sued for $25,000, and thus paid his party a high compliment. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says: 'It is very significant that a jury, undoubtedly composed mainly of Democrats in a county called Bourbon, should estimate that a man read out of the Republican party is entitled to as heavy damages as this jury awarded.' Strictly speaking, there can be no such thing as reading a man out of the party. Any voting citizen is always free to cast his ballot for the candidates of any party. It is his right, also, to believe in the policies of either of the various parties and to search for any party's alleged principles. There are, however, party organs that undertake to determine whether or not conspicuous members of their party are orthodox in faith. Now and then a bumptious committee-man essays this role. It will, perhaps be recalled that a standpat daily in New York 'read out' President McKinley and Secretary Root, appending to each of them the tag 'Free Trader,' because the strove to secure fair treatment for the Porto Ricans. For a long time after the demand for tariff revision began to be heard on the Republican side of the fence every prominent National Republican was tagged, and the ridiculous practice still obtains to a limited extent. For example, Gov. Guild, of Massachusetts, is pictured as a black sheep wearing the 'free-trader' brand. No Republican can be a free trader, and very many Democrats are protectionists."

The Hospital Site.

Lexington's Big Meeting.

Everything is shaping up nicely for the spring meeting which will be held at the Kentucky Association course, Lexington, from Saturday, April 27, to Saturday, May 4, both days inclusive. The programme book, which is now on the press, calls for the distribution of $2,400 daily for the six races. Every inducement will be offered for the best inductments quartered at the track to sport sills, and from the number of applications for stable room, it is believed that more horses will be there than can be accommodated. There are already quartered at the track close to four hundred horses, and the majority of them are in splendid condition.

The Winchester City Council has elected Mal B. Tarpy, Chief of Police to succeed the late John C. T. arpy, and ex-Jailer James H. Boone was elected to the vacancy on the police force made by Mal B. Tarpy's promotion.

Cattle Breeders To Organize.

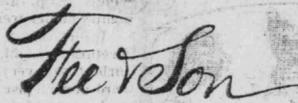

A very important meeting of the beef cattle breeders of Kentucky has been called for today at Lexington to organize a State Association of Beef Cattle Breeders and for the discussion of vital matters concerning the beef cattle interests of the State. The objects of the Association will be to promote the interests of beef cattle in all its respective branches and to encourage by educational means and other influences the use of pure-bred beef bulls by the general farmer.

Some years ago Kentucky held the premier position as a beef cattle breeding State, and it was the common practice among the leading breeders in the United States to come to Kentucky to secure fine animals to head their herds, but of late because of some lack of interest and the consequent use of scrub and half-bred bulls the stock has degenerated and the State has lost much of its former prestige. Today farmers are producing a large number of common steers, and, finding the business unprofitable, are losing interest in the business and by degrees disposing of their cattle.

A New York judge is said to read his own poetry to prisoners at the bar. If it were at any other bar, it would doubtless drive his listeners to drink. A New York man trying to prove his sanity conducted his own case in court, and the judge came to the conclusion that he had a fool for a client. Some men seem to think they are doing a great deal toward righting the world's wrongs by fussing with their neighbors.
