300 PUPILS.

Now Attend Paris Public Schools—
Night Schools Established—The Monthly Honor Roll For September.

Although our schools are scattered about over the city, they are largely attended and the work being done is of a high degree of efficiency.

At the close of the fourth week, September 27, 431 pupils had been enrolled, in the white schools, and 269 in the colored. Since that date about 30 new pupils have enrolled in each, making a total enrollment of 451 in the white schools, and about 300 in the colored schools.

The most encouraging features are: Practically all who have been enrolled are in daily attendance and good substantial work is being done.

Our standard is high both in marking grades and deportment, and as a result of this high standard, especially in deportment, some grades failed to win a place on the coveted "Honor Roll."

Before presenting the Honor Roll permit us to state that the Night Schools are doing good work. Twenty-three pupils have enrolled in this much-needed school, now being conducted for the white boys and girls who are compelled to work during the day, and 26 have enrolled in the colored school. Adding these to the pupils attending the day schools this gives a total of 800 pupils now attending the Public Schools every day; and evening—more than were ever in attendance at once in the history of the schools.

"Pneumonia's Deadly Work"

had so seriously affected my right lung," writes Mrs. Fannie Connor, of Rural Route 1, Georgetown, Tenn., "that I coughed continuously night and day and the neighbors' prediction—consumption—seemed inevitable, until my husband brought home a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, which in my case proved to be the only real cure and restorer of weak, sore lungs. When all other remedies utterly fail, you may still win in the battle against lung and throat troubles with New Discovery, the real cure. Guaranteed by O. Bredorfer, the druggist, 50c and $1.00. Farming Pays.

Mr. D. B. Chatham, of Mercer county, bought one hundred acres of land in the east end. This year he put forty acres of land in clover and harvested eighty tons of clover hay, worth $12 a ton from the first crop, and from the second crop he got 95 bushels of clover seed that will sell for $10 a bushel.—Georgetown Times.

Who Or What?

John Sharp Williams recently defined a Democrat as a man who occupies a safe (and sane) middle ground between plutocracy and mobocracy. This addition to the crop of answers that has sprung up since the New York World's enquiry does not help matters much. It takes in too many people. We never met a man who would admit that he had any affiliation with either mobs or plutocrats. But while the patient and pathetic Democratic ass has been lashed into a fence corner and compelled to confess that he doesn't know but that he may be a zebra or a spotted gyastricus after all, it seems unfair not to call attention to the fact that the other parties likewise have many men of many minds within their organization. It is easy to answer the question: "What is a Republican?" If President Roosevelt, who chops down a trust every morning before breakfast (letting the chips fall where they may) is a Republican, what then is Senator Aldrich? If Cummins of Iowa is a Republican, what is Uncle Joe Cannon, to whom the very thought of tariff revision is a monstrous one? If Secretary T. Ft. who would like to see the Filipinos have an American market for their products, is a Republican, what are the Representatives and Senators who oppose that just policy? Democrats, Republicans, Populists, Socialists—so far as we can make out, they have all chewed up their tags. John Temple Graves, who is a prohibitionist, says Mr. Roosevelt looks like a pretty good Republican-sort-of-a-Democrat to him. Tom Watson opines that the Populists are the only real blown-in-the-glass Democrats in existence; and if you don't believe him he will prove it to you by Thomas Jefferson, who was the Tom Watson of this day. E. H. Hariman thinks Mr. Roosevelt is a Socialist and an undesirable citizen. Mr. Bryan's Democrat will tell you that such men as Alton B. Parker and Grover Cleveland are a great deal more like Republicans than most Republicans are. And the Hurst-Family-Brisbane, which was bred in San Francisco but in Boston it is beans, has described itself as divers times and places by divers sweet and lovely names, and been described by every edged adjective in the political thesaurus. Three is even some doubt concerning Mr. Fairbanks, for while he admits that he is just like Abraham Lincoln in most respects, yet Lincoln told stories that even that winsome, naughty cut-up, Mr. Bok of the Ladies' Home Journal, would hesitate to print. It is becoming almost as pertinent to ask: "What is a party?" as it is to ask: "What is a Democrat?"—Don Marquis in Uncle Remus's Magazine for October.

Doing Business Again.

"When my friends thought I was about to take leave of this world, on account of indigestion, nervousness and general debility," writes A. A. Chisholm, Treadwell, N. Y., "and when it looks as if there was no hope left. I was persuaded to try Electric Bitters, and I rejoice to say that they are curing me. I am now doing business again as of old, and am still gaining daily." Best tonic medicine on earth. Guaranteed by Oberdorfer, the druggist, 50 cents. oct

Dennis Hanley's Will Probed.

The will of the late Dennis Hanley was probed before Judge Dundon Friday. After expressing the desire that his executors pay all just debts and funeral expenses, the testator bequeaths all household and kitchen furniture to his sister, Annie Hanley, to hold absolutely. He provides a payment of $350 to the Rev. Father James Cusack, his pastor, and appropriates not to exceed $500 for the erection of a granite monument on his grave in the Paris Catholic cemetery. He directs his executors after meeting the above requirements of his will, to convert all property of every kind and description into money, and reinvest same in Bourbon real estate, or if such is not available to purchase dividend paying securities in the form of bonds and stocks, the income in either event to go to his sister, Annie Hanley, to use and enjoy during the period of her natural life. At the death of his sister, he directs that $2,000 be paid to Bishop C. P. Maes, or his successor, to be used for the benefit of the Mountain Mission of the Covington Diocese of the Catholic church; $250 to the Home of Good Shepherd, Highlands, near Newport, Ky.; $250 to St. John's Orphan Society, of Covington; $250 to St. John's Asylum, of Campbell county, and $150 to the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin for the Protection of the Homeless and Destitute children, a corporation created and existing under the laws of New York.

After the death of this sister, and compliance with the above bequests, he directs that if his brother James is still living he shall receive one-fourth of the remainder of his estate. The remaining three-fourths to go to the children of his deceased brothers, Patrick Hanley and John Hanley, and his deceased sister, Mary Slattery.

In the event his brother, James Hanley, does not survive his sister, then at her death the remainder of his estate shall be divided equally share and share alike between his nieces and nephews, children of his deceased brothers, James, Patrick and John Hanley, and his deceased sister, Mary Slattery.

The will is dated Sept. 9th, 1907, and is witnessed by Wm. Kenney and Jo. S. Varden. P. I. McCarthy and Edward Slattery are named as executors of the will.

The Fall Tailor-Made Girl.

"This is the way the tailor-made girl will look when she steps out from her home this autumn," writes Grace Margaret Gould, the Fashion Editor, in the October Fashion Number of the Woman's Home Companion. "Her skirt is short—a good five inches from the ground. She will tell you that she wears it this way because it is the very latest fashion, but perhaps it may be because her foot is small and her shoes worth looking at and she knew it. It's the new walking skirt—a flare skirt, band-trimmed with self material. The pattern is made with eleven gores, and two narrow bands and one wide one are used for the trimming, which are piped with velvet just a trifle darker than the cloth.

"Her smart coat is seim-fitting, half revealing and half concealing the trim out-line of her form. It is a thirty-inch length coat, which is quite the most approved coat to wear with the new short skirt. It is very mannish in cut and finish, and the sleeves reach straight to the wrist—just the conventional two-piece coat sleeve is used with a velvet cuff. The turn-down collar is of velvet, but the lapels are of cloth.

"A novel feature of the coat is its pockets. There are four of them, much to the delight of the wearer, and she is quick to tell you that she rebelled at being known as the pocketless woman, and that henceforth she is going to have just as many pockets in her clothes as she wishes.

"The material of this particular suit is dark blue serge, with blue velvet a tint darker for the collar, cuffs and pipings. Worsted, cheviot or mannish suitings are all good-style fabrics to use, as well as the serge, for the tailor-made suit of this sort. Braid in black or self color may be used to outline the bands."

Reports to the effect that electric lights are detrimental to the eyesight are pronounced unfounded by an electrical expert in the London Times. He says that the trouble arises from the too direct exposure of the eye to the light, and that effect would be the same or worse with any other light.
