—The Lyceum Course consisting of four numbers will open at the opera house Thursday evening, Nov. 19 at 8 o'clock, with the Gertrude Miller Concert Company. Tickets go on sale Monday afternoon at the drug store of Smith & Wadell. Reserved seats 50 cents; general admission 35 cents. Season tickets $1.00; 10 cents extra for each number if you want reserved seats. All school children who attend with either of the colleges can get reserved seats for $1 on a season ticket. These rates are extremely low and we placed them within the reach of all. You surely will not hesitate to give up the dollar for four entertainments of a high class in which all the participants are artists.

—Miss Gertrude Goodwin Miller is best described by the Maud Adams of the Lyceum. Her charming personality and intense earnestness are only incidental to her complete transformation to the various characters she assumes. So perfect is her art, so well modulated is her strong full voice, so graceful and natural her every movement, that you do not see Miss Miller on the stage you see only the creatures of her imagination and your joy, or sadness, or anxiety is her joy or sadness or anxiety. Miss Miller will be supported by an exceptionally strong company. Mr. Johann Mayer, is a pianist of unusual brilliancy and we predict that his piano numbers will be one of the popular features of the program, completely refuting the time-honored idea that piano solos don't go in town.

—Mrs. W. A. Miller left Wednesday for a ten days visit to her brothers, Messrs. Ben D. and Wm. Best, in Cincinnati.

Former Senator Killed in Duel.

Former Senator Edward Ward Carmack, editor of the Tennessean, was shot and killed at Nashville Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock by Robin Cooper, a son of Col. Duncan B. Cooper. Mr. Carmack was going north on Seventh Avenue and Col. Cooper and his son, Robin, were approaching Seventh Avenue on Union street. Soon after the came in sight of one another the shooting began, Robin Cooper, it is said, firing three shots and Senator Carmack twice.

Col. Duncan B. Cooper drew his pistol, but did not fire. Senator Carmack fell to the ground, dying instantly. Robin Cooper was shot in the right shoulder, but was not badly hurt. The trouble is one of the results of the recent Democratic gubernatorial primary in which Carmack was defeated.

The tragedy was the absorbing topic in Tennessee Tuesday. Robin Cooper, who fired the fatal shots and was himself wounded, is under arrest at a hospital. Col. D. B. Cooper has been removed from police headquarters to the jail. Friends of Carmack are loud in their condemnation of the Coopers.

Thousands of people from all over Tennessee attended the funeral of former Senator E. W. Carmack at Columbia. The number of floral offerings probably was the largest ever seen at a funeral in Tennessee, and there was marked manifestation of popular grief. After simple services at the Methodist church the body was buried with Masonic honors.

John D. Sharpe, an ex-sheriff, was arrested at Nashville, yesterday charged with murder and aiding and abetting in the murder of Senator Carmack. It is alleged that Sharpe was seen with the two Coopers shortly before the killing and also at the scene of the tragedy immediately after Carmack fell to the ground.
