Big Suit Against Burley Tobacco Society.

More than 40,000 farmers of Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio who raised Burley tobacco and pooled it with the Burley Tobacco Society in the 1906 and 1907 crops are drawn into a suit that will be filed in the Federal Courts in Covington, Ky., probably today. Attorney Smith Hickenlooper, of Cincinnati, announced the case Saturday. The proceedings, to be brought under the Sherman anti-trust act, will directly involve alleged damages of $130,528,48, and, if the suit is successful, approximately $4,000,000 and the life of the Tobacco Society are at stake. It may mean also a reopening of the great tobacco war. Clark & Scott Co., Scranton, Pa., tobacco manufacturers, are to bring suit through their brokers, W. D. Collins & Bro., Louisville and Cincinnati, represented by Attorneys Outcalt Hickenlooper.

The direct charge in the suit to be filed is that the Burley Tobacco Society is a combination in restraint of trade. The proceedings are the most vital and far reaching that have been filed in this sort of alleged violation of the law since the far famed $29,000,000 fine administered to the Standard Oil Company by Federal Judge Landis and reversed.

In the pooled crops of 1906 and 1907 there was an estimated amount of at least 115,000,000 pounds of Burley tobacco. Following this pool, the night-rider deceptions came on. The storm broke over Kentucky and strife and bloodshed were continued for a long time.

Gradually the price of tobacco advanced. Sales were made at Winchester and the Burley Society, it was conceded, controlled the future manipulations of the great crop. In November, 1908, there were 80,000,000 pounds of tobacco still in the warehouses. The American Tobacco Co., known as the Tobacco Trust, bought 75 per cent. of this amount. The remainder was to be taken over by the independents. It was directly a result of this last sale at Winchester that the suit of Clark & Scott is to be brought.

It is alleged that $43,506.80 in excess of a reasonable price was charged by the Burley Society for the tobacco shipped to the Scranton, Pa., concern. The manufacturer, under the terms of the anti-trust act, has a right to sue for three times the amount of damages and attorney's fees. This sale and others were negotiated by contracts with the Burley Society similar to the ones by which the tobacco trust got its big scare.

The independent manufacturers say that they were forced to buy this last of the 80,000,000 pounds of tobacco or else shut down. It is alleged the independents were forced to pay as high as 11 cents per pound for scrap tobacco that formerly sold for about 3 or 4 cents a pound.

The majority of the growers of Kentucky are involved. If the suit is won by the manufacturers the matter will be presented to the United States District Attorney for procedure against the Burley Society to cease further operations. In addition, should the suit be successful, all the other independents will no doubt follow in the path marked by the Scranton, Pa., men. This will involve the sum of at least $4,000,000 in damages.

Sale of Baptist Church Closed.

The sale of the old Baptist church property, on Main, between Fifth and Sixth street, was finally closed on Friday, when Master Commissioner Russell Mann paid to the trustees of the church the sum of $3,800, the sum of $200 having been previously paid when the property was first negotiated for with Lee T. Beall, the real estate dealer. The purchasers are S. H. Kress & Co., of New York, who will next spring erect a mammoth retail store. The size of the lot is 66 feet and 5 inches wide and 101 feet and 8 inches deep. The property is immediately in front of the furniture store of J. T. Hinton and is considered one of the most valuable corners on Main street. The Baptist congregation will continue to use the church until the completion of the new church structure on Main street, between Ninth and Tenth streets, which is now under roof and rapidly nearing completion.
