Missing the Praise.
"Yes, it's a pity," remarked the man with the absent hair, who seemed to be thinking aloud.
"What's a pity?" queried the party with the rubber habit.
"That a man can't hear his widow telling her second husband what a noble, kind and generous soul he was," explained the noisy thinker.

Ice Box Repartee.
"Huh!" sneers the plate of ice cream to the piece of limburger cheese. "You needn't give yourself such airs. Didn't you see in the papers where there are a million microbes to each drop of ice cream?"
"I did," retorts the limburger. "That's nothing. Compared to me you are a sparsely settled territory."

Burley Society Wins in Court of Appeals.

The Court of Appeals Friday by unanimous vote reversed the decision of Circuit Judge J. M. Benton, who appointed Lee S. Baldwin and Julius Lisle receiver for the Burley Tobacco Society's pools of 1906 and 1907 and in an opinion written by Judge Ed. C. O'Rear declares that the action of the lower court was premature.

No decision is rendered as to the ownership of the $301,000 fund realized from the outage fees of $2 a hoghead in the sale of the pooled crops of 1906 and 1907 which were sold to the American Tobacco Company and the independent manufacturers in the fall of 1908.

The money of the Burley Tobacco Society show deposited in Clark county is released from the hands of the receivers and probably will be immediately withdrawn from Winchester banks and deposited in Lexington.

The opinion of the higher court that the decision of the circuit tribunal is premature is based upon the fact that while 90 per cent of the $20,000,000 received for the two pools has been paid out, there are still pending suits against the Burley Society filed by the independent manufacturers and suits on behalf of the Society against the independents for damages arising from their failure to take the pay for the crops assigned to them in the meeting at Louisville, which ended the long tobacco war and in which the growers won practically every point which they had contended.

The opinion of the court in the case is in full as follows:

"The Burley Society vs. J. E. Gaitskill, etc.

"A receiver was appointed by Judge Benton of the Clark Circuit Court, for certain money, books and other property of the Burley Tobacco Society, at the suit of J. E. Gaitskill and others, four members of the society who complained that it had failed to distribute as it should all the proceeds of sales of the 1906 and 1907 pools of tobacco.

"The Burley Tobacco Society is a corporation organized in January, 1907, without capital stock, for the purpose of promoting the interests of the growers of burley tobacco in certain counties of Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana to sell the tobacco of its members.

"The crops of 1906 and 1907 pooled with it sold during the fall of 1908 and summer of 1909. The sum realized was nearly $20,000,000, 90 per cent of which has been disbursed to the members of those pools.

"Certain features of the business are yet unsettled; some claims on the part of the society amounting to $130,000 and which are pending in court have not been adjudged; and certain suits against the society and some of its members for damages arising, it is alleged, out of the course of the business, have not yet been disposed of. Those suits involve about $900,000.

"The expenses necessary to defend them has not yet been ascertained, other items of expenses connected with the pools of 1906 and 1907 have not yet been ascertained or settled. In this state of affairs complaint by members for an accounting in court is premature.

"The appointment of the receiver was unauthorized by the state of the record or by the situation disclosed by it. No other question was reconsidered or determined. The judgment is reversed and the case remanded for proceedings consistent herewith. Whole court sitting."

Warning to Husbands.

A terrible warning to husbands who are over indulgent with wives is conveyed by the story coming from New York telling us that Mrs. Katherine Jausrieder ended her life because her husband was "just simply too good" to her. Disappointed because her partner never abused her, the unhappy woman after enduring his kindness as long as she could, took a quaff from a bottle of tincture of iodine. How many of her poor sisters are suffering from the same cause, nobody knows.

To Support the Government.

Kentucky may be far behind some of her sister states in the manner of manufactures, education and some other things, but when it comes to furnishing money to run the Government, Uncle Sam needs Kentucky in his business. Of all the States in the Union she stands third in the list of States in Internal Revenue. Illinois is first by a large sum, New York is second and Kentucky is third, only a few dollars behind New York.
