Equity and Farmers Union.

A joint convention of the Farmers Union and the American Society of Equity is to be held in St. Louis, beginning May 2 and continuing till May 28. The Farmers Union has extended the invitation which has been accepted by the directors of the Equity Society. It is hoped to make the convention one of the largest gatherings of the kind ever held anywhere in the United States, and farmers from all parts of the country will be invited to attend, including those who are not members of either association.

In numerical strength these two bodies represent the principal farmers' organizations now in existence. The membership of the Society of Equity is mainly in the North while that of the Farmers' Union is largely in the South. Both are working along practically the same lines, the chief end being an effective co-operation among farmers in marketing the products of the farm. The advisability and the possibility of amalgamation will be considered at the St. Louis meeting. If a merger should not be effected, it is likely that efforts will be made to reach a working agreement for extending the power of the respective bodies.

In the event of consolidation, the resultant organization would be well nigh nation wide. Should there be obstacles to a combination of forces an amicable division of territory probably would be to the advantage of both bodies. The Society of Equity has had a state organization in Kentucky for a number of years, with a large membership. The Farmers Union is of more recent establishment in the State, but has made material progress in some localities.

The pooling idea appears to have come to stay. In one form or another, it is in practice in various parts of the United States. As an economical method of handling the products of farm, orchard and garden and vineyard, and as a means of procuring the best returns, it appeals strongly to producers. The joint meeting of the two large organizations devoted to the pooling plan will be of interest as indicating the progress that has been made, or is likely to be made, toward the elimination of the "middle man," that ancient enemy of farmers, both organized and independent.
