Sneak Thief Busy.

The appearance of a sneak thief caused some excitement among the residents along Duncan avenue Wednesday afternoon. He entered the chicken house of Dr. B. M. Shive and took a number of eggs and later visited the residence of Mrs. Mary Hedges, where he made an effort to enter the house without any success. He then tried to force an entrance into the home of Mr. Harry Clay through one of the basement windows, but was frightened away by one of the members of the family who sent in a call for the police. The intruder made his escape before the police arrived but was traced for some distance along the railroad track leading from the city.

No Betting on Ball Grounds.

Wagering money on the result of base ball games will no longer be permitted on the local base ball grounds. During the games of this week knowledge of several wagers has come to the officials of the Paris club and they have determined to put a stop to open betting in the stand and bleachers. President Bacon appealed to the city officials for protection against gambling on the grounds and has enlisted the co-operation of Police Judge E. B. January, Chief of Police J. C. Elgin and Mayor Hinton in his efforts to eliminate betting. During the games in the future at the local park an officer will be stationed in the bleachers and stand with instructions to arrest any person who openly offers to wager money on the games.

Beginning To-day.

Manhattan Shirts at reduced prices. All sizes, 14 to 18.

Slips from Train and Breaks Leg.

While endeavoring to mount the steps of the L. & N. train leaving Paris for Lexington Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock Mr. Henry C. Kimbro, of Lexington, until recently Master Commissioner of Nicholas county slipped to the ground and his left leg was broken above the knee. Mr. Kimbro had been in Carlisle attending the Democratic Convention and when the train arrived in Paris he got off and was taking to some friend when the train began to pull out. He attempted to board the fast moving train with a suitcase in one hand. In so doing he lost his balance which he was unable to regain with the suitcase in his hand, and was in danger of being thrown beneath the wheels of the car.

Seeing the danger in which the man was placed Watchman Jerry Shroat ran with the train for several hundred feet and finally succeeded in getting a hold on his coat and pulled him from his perilous position. The presence of mind of the watchman no doubt saved his life. The bone of the fractured member was protruding from the skin.

Mr. Kimbro was taken to Lexington to the St. Joseph's Hospital, where he is given immediate attention. He is reported to be resting well and although the leg is badly broken it is thought by the surgeon that no amputation will be necessary, unless unexpected complications arise.

Flood Does Damage in Mason.

Wednesday morning Maysville was visited by another cloudburst which was even of greater force than the one of April 1, 1908, when over $50,000 worth of damage was done in and around the city.

Early in the morning the heavy clouds began to gather over the city, and about eight o'clock they were so dense and black it seemed as if it were night. About 8:30 the pent up waters let loose their flood gates and the town was enveloped in sheets of rain. Its houses were damaged, cellars were flooded and sewers broken up.
