Col. Flood to Lecture on Possibilities of Oklahoma Real Estate.
 Col. Richard Flood, the well known townsman of Oklahoma, who conducted a most successful sale in Paris last Saturday, and who has conducted similar sales in different parts of the country, will deliver a lecture at the court house door in Paris Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.
 Col. Flood is a gifted speaker and extends a special invitation to the ladies of Paris and vicinity to be present.
 He will tell you about the Osage Nation in Oklahoma, and the wonderful possibilities of making money buying building lots in Blackland, a new town that is being developed. This town has a first-class railroad and other advantages that are sure to enhance the value of the property there.
 Col. Flood, through his local representatives, Harris & Speakes, will sell a number of these lots at public auction immediately after the lecture. The terms will be very liberal and all titles to be sold will be guaranteed by a regular abstract and title company.
Oklahoma Lots Sold.
 Harris & Speakes, the real estate dealers, through their auctioneer, George D. Speakes, sold publicly at the court house door Saturday morning for Richard Flood, twenty-six building lots in a new townsite being developed in Osage county, Oklahoma.
 The following were buyers at an average price of $17 per lot: James H. Haggard, 6; Dr. J. M. Lacock, 2; William C. Gentry, 2; W. S. Hughes, 4; William E. Kane, 2; James H. Moreland, 2; Harris & Speakes, 2; and Squire L. J. Fretwell, 2.

Tramps Capture C. & O. Train.
 Tramps boarded a C. & O. freight train Monday just after it left Louisville and held possession of it, intimidating the train crew until the train reached Frankfort. The police routed the tramps at Frankfort and one was shot in the arm by Policeman Fred Gordon. The arm was shattered and an amputation may be necessary. The police arrested six of the tramps and they were sent to the workhouse.
 The tramps were discovered, seven of them on one car, a short time after the train left Louisville, and the trainmen tried to drive the men off the car. One of the men had a revolver, it is said, and they defied the trainmen. When West Frankfort was reached one of the trainmen called up police headquarters. He told of the predicament of the train crew, and asked that the police meet the train at the depot in Frankfort and arrest the tramps.
 Policemen Gordon and Hayden met the train and were shown the car in which the men were hiding. When the men saw they were dealing with the police they jumped from the car and ran in all directions. The police gave chase, and Gordon calling to one of them to halt, fired when his command was ignored.

Lynching Feared.
 The trial of James Ellis and Fount Helton for the murder of Judge A. J. Bratty and Constable William F. Heath at Somerset, was continued until September 11 because of the absence of witnesses Judge Bethurum entered an order removing the prisoners from the Somerset to the Danville jail for safekeeping until the trial in September. Feeling is so high it was feared an attempt would be made to lynch the two men.
