Cure for Hay Fever.

That the "cold storage" cure for hay fever is effective was the testimony of twelve men and four women afflicted with the disease for several years, that have been spending half an hour daily during the last week in the storage room of a brewery at Evansville, Ind., in which the temperature was 38 degrees. All the patients declared they had been entirely relieved.

Funny Isn't It?

Only last week the Lexington papers in speaking of the championship series between Paris and Winchester base ball clubs, said that with Mr. Kane, the best umpire in the league, handling the indicator, the public could rest assured that they would certainly get a square deal on a complimented him to the skies. Wednesday in speaking of Wednesday's game, which was won by Paris, they cry, "umpire was responsible." Lexington, Maysville and Winchester always "win" on their merits and "star ball playing" and always lose by "raw" decisions of the umpire. It's really amusing.

Cumberland to be Extended.

That the Cumberland Railroad will shortly be extended from Barboursville to the Jellico coal fields from its present terminus at Warren, Ky., eleven miles from Barboursville, is confirmed by reports of big deals in coal and timber lands in the Brush creek district of Knox and Whitley counties. The Cumberland Railroad Company is closely identified with the development of these coal districts, and has just finished a survey for the extension of twenty-seven miles into what is considered one of the richest mineral sections of Kentucky. The Interstate Coal Company, one of the largest coal mining concerns in the State now has investments of over $1,000,000 in this district.

THEATRICAL.

COBURN'S GREATER MINSTRELS.

Manager Porter, of the Grand met Joe Coburn, manager and owner of Coburn's Greater Minstrels, who will appear at the Paris Grand next Saturday night, in Cincinnati a short time ago and asked him "How's the show Cobe?" He answered "Gano's the show, I reckon."

It developed that Charley Gano, principal fun maker with the big show, really is putting it over on some of the boys, and keeps them working nights to keep up. Gano is an old timer in minstrelsy though still a young man, and new to the south, but his happy go lucky manner of delivery, his seemingly careless method of singing, his genuine interpretation of the easy living, ambling, shuffling darkey, instantly individualizes his work, insalls him in the appreciation of his audience, and characterizes the artist, to lovers of minstrelsy. Among the other funny men, Billy Burke, Tom Post, Spike, Du Ross, Allen Settle, Sonnie Dinkins, Jack Lynch, all are clever in their work, and secure well merited recognition, but "Gano's the show" seems to be feoned even by the manager himself, so far as the comedy end goes. The company is said to be very strong this year and entirely new.

THE MAN ON THE BOX.

Harold McGrath's fascinating little story, The Man on the Box, loses none of its interest in Grace Livingston Furniss' dramatization or in its production by the Herbert Bethew Company was given last night at the Masonic Theatre. The role of Lieutenant Robt. Warburton, made famous by Henry Dickey and Max Figman is well handled by Mr. Herbert Bethew. He injects none of the bombastic into his lines but does his work in an easy, simple manner, making the very best of a difficult part, that could be easily overdone, and by overdoing be ruined. Mr. Herbert Bethew in "The Man on the Box" will be the attraction at the Paris Grand Monday night, Sept. 11.
