

Stubborn Case

"I was under the treatment of two doctors," writes Mrs. R. L. Phillips, of Indian Valley, Va., "and they pronounced my case a very stubborn one, of womanly weakness. I was not able to sit up, when I commenced to take Cardui.

I used it about one week, before I saw much change. Now, the severe pain, that had been in my side for years, has gone, and I don't suffer at all. I am feeling better than in a long time, and cannot speak too highly of Cardui."

Marvelous Mechanical Work.

A Berlin inventor has succeeded, after years of toil, in making an artificial man who can walk, make all movements, speak, sing, laugh and whistle. It is a life-size figure and so natural an imitation as to be completely deceptive a yard away. "Ocultus," as the figure is named, obeys words of command such as "march" and "halt," and he answers any question put to him. It is not an illusion or a trick, it is a piece of pure mechanical work.

Made Himself Immune.

Mithridates, great ruler of Pontus, gradually hardened himself against every known poison by taking tiny doses; that no poison could catch him napping.

Getting Acquainted

When Henderson stepped into the big dining room of the golf club, which had been converted into a dancing hall for the occasion, and saw Florence Tracy standing opposite the door he made up his mind that he wanted to know her. He put forth a big muscular hand and plucked by the sleeve the first man that passed him.

"Introduce me to the girl over there talking to Matthews," he commanded. "Don't know her," responded the other man. He turned and stared at the girl for a moment. "A good deal of a peach," he commented, "but I never saw her before. Sorry I can't oblige you." And he dashed off in pursuit of his own partner.

The next half hour Henderson passed looking for some one who would present him to the girl, but none of his acquaintances seemed to know her. Finally, however, he came upon Filkins, who was popularly supposed to know everybody in the world. "Say, Filkins," he said, "if you don't know the girl in white who has just been dancing with Trenton I want you to make it your business to get to know her so that you can introduce me."

Henderson eagerly followed in Filkins' wake, with his eyes fixed on the willowy creature who was the object of his admiration. Thus he just escaped climbing up Filkins' broad back when that unreliable person stopped in front of a pudgy blond creature and with a beaming smile introduced Henderson.

"That wasn't the girl I wanted to meet!" he exploded to Filkins a few minutes later. "Nice enough girl, I don't doubt, but not the one. The girl I want to know is the tall girl who stepped out on to the veranda just as you turned around then. Now, do you know her?"

Filkins shook his head. "No, I don't," he admitted. "But I think she's Mrs. Peterson's sister and is visiting her. I'll try to find out for you."

"No, I'll do my own pioneering, thanks," said Henderson.

Three times during the course of the evening he discovered men who knew the young woman in question, and three times did he and the mutual acquaintance wander about vainly in search of her. As the dancers were beginning to leave Filkins rushed up to Henderson.

"I've met her and danced with her, and she is a peach," he announced. "You just wait here half a second and I'll cut her out of the bunch as she comes down and introduce you."

Once more Henderson waited patiently but vainly. When all the guests had departed Filkins gave a sigh of mingled weariness and disappointment. "Honest, old man," he said, "I didn't mean to give you the wrong steer, but she must have gone out the other way."

Henderson from that moment set his teeth and made up his mind that he would achieve Florence Tracy's acquaintance even though the heavens fell. With this purpose in view he attended three lawn parties—festivities which he loathed—and a church bazaar. In vain.

One evening on his way home he saw her sitting in the front of the car with a girl whom he had once known, but never liked, and had consistently avoided for years. Wandering past them with a bland, slightly embarrassed but wholly humble and propitiatory smile upon his face, he was met with such an icy stare from the girl he had once known that he hastily bolted into the forward car without attempting to renew the acquaintance.

However, several days later, when he had almost given up hope of accomplishing his object, he woke from a surreptitious nap on the evening train just as it was pulling into the station. In spite of the fact that his vision was somewhat blurred with sleep he suddenly became aware that Miss Tracy had just stepped into the aisle from a seat about half-way down the car.

Trying to look as much as possible like a man who has just been sitting with his eyes closed to rest them, he stumbled into the aisle. Then he glanced back as he did so, actuated by the suburbanite's instinct for gathering up stray packages. In the rack just above the seat which Miss Tracy had been occupying his eyes fell upon a small, dainty parcel. Instantly he was wide awake.

He dashed back to the seat, secured the parcel and then dropped off the platform of the car just as the train was pulling out of the station. Determined to see the thing through, he hailed the village taxicab and ordered the driver to follow the automobile which was carrying Miss Tracy swiftly out of sight.

As Miss Tracy stepped out of the car in front of her sister's house Henderson, hat in one hand and parcel in the other, stepped out of the taxicab. Somewhat heated but perfectly game, he advanced toward her and held out his bedraggled offering. "If I am not mistaken," he said suavely, "you left this in the train." Miss Tracy looked at him in surprise. Then her eyes fell to the parcel. She half advanced her hand as if to take it, but withdrew it again. "It was good of you to bring it," she said hesitatingly, "but you are mistaken. It isn't mine. Why did you think it was?" Henderson laughed shamefacedly. "I must have wanted it to be yours," then the whole story of his efforts to get acquainted with her came out.

Exhibitions of Shooting Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Topperwein, the celebrated marksmen, will give an exhibition of expert and fancy shooting here today at the base ball park at 2 o'clock which everybody ought to see, as no such marvelous shooting has ever been done in this section. It will be a revelation to all of the wonderful possibilities of modern arms and ammunition in the hands of the greatest experts. Mr. Topperwein is the acknowledged dean of fancy and trick shots, and his many feats are of a highly sensational character. Mrs. Topperwein has no equal among women for adeptness in shooting. Ladies are especially urged to attend and witness her astonishing skill with shotgun, rifle and pistol. Admissions will be free to all.

Some idea of the unusual character of the exhibition given by the Topperweins will be gained from the following remarks: Adolph Topperwein the greatest living fancy and flying target shot with a rifle, lives in San Antonio, Texas. His native state has long been noted for its expert shooters and this penchant for shooting among Texans, added to his natural ability, undoubtedly accounts for the wonderful skill he displays. He uses no special equipment, but ordinary Winchester rifles, shooting regular cartridges with solid ball; or in other words cartridges such as are sold by all dealers. He shoots at oranges, apples, bits of coal or brick, walnuts, small marbles, empty cartridge shells, and many other tiny objects which are all thrown in the air and hit with either rifle or revolver.

Mr. Topperwein is the originator of many marvelous fancy and trick shots and also of the feat of drawing the outlines of Indian chiefs and other pictures with bullets shot from a rifle. Rifle shooting is not his only acquirement, as he does wonderful work also with revolver, pistol and shotgun.

Mrs. Topperwein is undoubtedly the premier lady shot of the world. Although she took up shooting only a few years ago, she has startled the shooting world and entertained many thousands of people by her great skill with rifle, shotgun and pistol. Shooting comes natural to her, as without seeming difficulty she masters various kinds of shooting quickly.

Besides being a wonderful wing and fancy shot Mrs. Topperwein is a consistent shooter at the traps and has won many high averages in open competitions, shooting against the best professional and amateur shots in the world.

At the Pacific Coast Handicap, held at Seattle in 1910, Mrs. Topperwein won high general averages over a large field of the best shots of the Pacific Coast and Canada. At the Grand American Handicap, held at Chicago in 1910, she was the only lady shooting and is the only lady in the world who ever had the honor to qualify as a national marksmen in open competition.

WOULD PUZZLE ANY SOLOMON

Pennsylvania Judge. Finally Decides That Goose Must Be Cooked and Divided Between Two Women.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—A dispute over the ownership of a goose was settled the other day by Ald. John F. Donohue, who is famous locally for his common sense adjustments of lawsuits.

Mrs. Alice Kreiger of Shickshinny charged Mrs. Louis Pellius with the theft of a goose. Each woman claimed the goose had belonged to her ever since it was hatched, and the evidence on both sides was of equal weight.

"Well," said the alderman, after puzzling over the case, "there is but one way to settle it. Each of you women will go home, will get your flock and each bring one here. Then you will place the ganders on opposite sides of the courtroom and the goose in the middle and let her choose to which flock she belongs.

"Of course," he added, "there is the danger of her being a flirt."

The women objected to this plan because it involved an outlay in railroad fare of more than the value of the goose.

"Then," declared the alderman, "the defendant is sentenced to take the goose home, kill it, divide it exactly in half, and give one half to the prosecutrix."

Caviar Is Antidote.

St. Petersburg.—The Ottoman Bacteriological Institute has found that caviar is an antidote for cholera. The discovery is the result of a protest against the Turkish government's exclusion of Russian caviar from Turkish territory for fear of cholera infection. The institute after Turkey's ban experimented with a pot of caviar which had been infected with cholera bacilli. In four days' time it was found that all the cholera germs in the caviar had been destroyed.
