WHY I BREED THE AMERICAN SADDLE HORSE

(By W. E. Stilwell.) I was born to love a horse, and at the age of five years I owned fifteen sick horses. One was a fine show horse, with an arched grapevine neck and a leatherwood tail. When nine years old I was employed by Dr. W. Smith of Leesville, Ind., to take him to and from the B. & O. S.W. terminal station. He always rode a saddle horse, and it was then that my heart and mind became fond of the equine.

They possess great beauty; they are the finest horse living, with a long, bony, well-tapered head; his neck an arch of pride and grace; a flash of spirit in his face; a tail like that of a squirrel, that is a wonder of the world, and when in action it is pleasing to the eye, and the sound of gait is music to the ear, and his wonderful greatness fills the soul with a lifting power. There is no machine that can fill the place of an intelligent horse; they are a companion to us.

"Traveler" was a companion to General Lee and his soldiers. His great courage and faithful duties, where others failed in the hardships of war, won the hearts of the soldiers and when he came into the camp or on the field of battle he brought sunshine to the hearts of the brave men, and they cheered him, as they did his kind master, General Lee.

A BUSINESS HORSE. They far excel as a business horse. They are at ease under the saddle; while not so swift in harness as the rottet they make up in beauty and information. As a farm horse they are active and quick to learn. While they lack in weight they make up in step and endurance. It is upon the gentle saddle horse that our great horsemen and women take their lessons.

THE GREATEST SHOW HORSE The saddle horse has forged to the front as America's greatest show horse. They can win more money and show in more rings than any other horse; such as the five-gaited ring, walk, trot and canter, combined model, fine harness ring, heavy harness, roadster, breeders' class, chargers, cavalry, jumpers, champion horse any breed. These classes have been won by saddle horses, with strong competition by other breeds.

AS A MONEY PRODUCER When you can sell a weanling filly for $800 and win $700 in premiums, and get $1,000 worth of pleasure, that means $2,500 for a saddle filly six months old. When you sell a yearling for $1,500 it makes your bank book shine, and when you sell a three-year-old for $5,000 it makes it sparkle. This has been done in the great Blue Grass Nursery, where the champions are bred. Garrett Bros. refused $5,000 for "Black Squirrel" when 18 years old, and $7,000 was refused for "Dandy Jim," Rex McDonald sold for $5,000. Twelve thousand dollars was refused for Bourbon King. Dinah 'o the Lea, a great granddaughter of my horse, Pat Washington, sold as a three-year-old for $5,000. Poetry of Motion is the greatest show horse living. He won four championships at Louisville, Ky. He was shown six years at all the big shows, without a single defeat, and is still a show horse. Edna May comes next, winning $14,000 in cash, $6,000 in silver plate. She sold for $7,000, which equals $27,000. Kentucky's Choice won $3,267 last year, and his last sale was $7,450. Mr. John Smiley won $1,632 on Bourbon Prince and others last year.

A PLEASURE HORSE. Riding horseback is the most pleasurable exercise available for the modern man or woman. There is nothing else like it. It is invigorating and entertaining. It brings every part, every muscle, the mind and the soul into action. Breathing more fully the beams of sunlight, and the beauty of nature, the song of the birds, the boughs of the trees, the rests the brain and binds the affections the brain and binds the affection of horse and rider. Every boy and girl should learn horseback riding. The mind and body grow much stronger, the years of life grow longer, and those who ride to those who pride in being kind to the American Saddle Horse.

An electric machine has been invented for preparing moulding sand foundries, breaking up the lumps separating the grains and leaving it cool, loose and clean. A KANSAS GIANT TAKES A LITTLE BRIDE. The strangest New Year's wedding in Texas took place in Ft. Worth, on New Year's Day, when Oscar Kreuse, seven feet, one inch tall, married Mrs. Martha Duncan, four feet, eleven inches tall. The midgey bride just reached her giant husband's lower vest pocket.

But for all that, it was a case of love at first sight; both say so. Mr. Kreuse comes from Ottawa, Kansas, and Mrs. Kreuse has lived in Ft. Worth many years. In Kansas Kreuse acquired the title of the "Kansas Giant."

It is impossible for the bride to hug her husband around the neck, except with the use of a stepladder. Kreuse is forty-five years old and his wife is fifty. They met at the live stock show in Ft. Worth in November, but were careful to go out in public but seldom, because of the attention they drew.

PRESENT CONDITION OF MEDICAL EDUCATION

In 1904 the United States had nearly one-half of the world's medical schools. There are 113 in this country. Now there are 113 in this country. The appearance of new medical schools, but more through merging of several small schools into larger places, leaving in each place one large, strong school. This decrease in the number of medical schools has not been to the detriment of medical education, but to its advantage. It has not removed or lessened the opportunities for students to study medicine, but has resulted in giving them better opportunities. It has resulted in reducing the abnormal competition to a smaller number, but a better grade of schools. The statement is frequently made that low-grade schools are necessary so that "the poor boy can get a medical education. This is not true. The fees charged by some of the poorest colleges are larger than those in several of the best schools. Some high-grade State University medical schools have fees as low as $50 to $60, whereas, some of the poorest schools charge fees of from $100 to $200. Tables and reports published recently in the Journal of the American Medical Society show that under existing laws twenty-seven State licensing boards have power to refuse recognition to low-grade schools, while in seventeen States this power is limited and in five States it is lacking. In twenty-one of the States in which the board has the power, it is exercising it by refusing to recognize the graduates of the low-grade schools, which are not so equipped or conducted as to be able to give satisfactory instruction in medicine. These boards should have the support of the public, as all efforts to secure better educated physicians are for the protection of the public health and the prevention and injury to the people.

FALLING HAIR MEANS DANDRUFF IS ACTIVE

Save Your Hair! Get a 25 Cent Bottle of Danderine Right Now!

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable softness and gloss, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp. There are a lot of people who wouldn't mind learning to Tango only they are afraid of the fall-away slide and the toe hold and the half nelson. After you have been married long enough you might as well quit trying to be a Good Fellow at home. When Father feels right and goes home and pats mother on the back and calls her pet name and tries to kiss her, Mother is sure to shout out that if Father didn't spend so much money on his drunken friends she wouldn't be ashamed to send the children to school with shabby shoes and she would have something decent to wear like other women, and— But what's the use.

And if the unwritten law were enforced like the other laws the Morgue would always be filled. Once upon a time a girl went into a shoe store and when asked what kind she wanted she replied: "Any kind, just so they are comfortable." And the poor, but honest clerk dropped dead.

PARIS EAGLES TO GIVE MINSTREL ENTERTAINMENT

At a special meeting of the Eagles Lodge a few nights ago it was decided to produce a home talent minstrel show in the near future. A committee was appointed and they at once secured the services of Mr. J. Willard Rummel, a man with years of experience as minstrel promoter, and who comes recommended as one of the best minstrel directors in the business.

Through the committee and Mr. Rummel they have secured the very best talent in Paris to take part in his big minstrel show. The complete personnel for the end men are as follows: Dr. W. C. Usary, inter-actor; Harry Saloshin, George Browner, Dr. Harry E. Mathers, George Paton, Robert Frank and Dr. Wm. Kenney as end men and it is conceded that the above talent is by far the best minstrel talent that can be secured in Paris.

In addition to the above a male chorus of thirty voices will be used. The best male voices in the city have been secured, and will be supplemented by the Paris High School Glee Club and Prof. Morehead's Male Quartette. In addition to these an orchestra of eight pieces will be used to play the music for the overture, choruses and songs. The second half or olio will consist of high-class vaudeville acts. The first rehearsal was held last night and will continue each night until the night of the show, which date will be announced later.

OUR WEEKLY NOVELETTE.

Sparkingham Sniff's Humiliation. "Oh, dear, what shall I do?" he said. He scratched his cheek and then his head. He hailed the janitor named Lynn. And said "My kingdom for a pin!"

Sparkingham Sniff was a good talker and all that, but in the last analysis, as the essayists say, a dance is meant for dancing, and after twenty minutes or so, beautiful Sybilla Snicketty rose casually from her seat behind the palm and remarked: "Oh, they're playing 'The Brown Mississippi,' Mr. Sniff. It's my favorite waltz—let's finish it!"

He hemmed. The lovely girl insisted. He bowed. "Why—er—to tell the truth, Miss Snicketty," he stammered, "I am rather tired—that is, I don't believe I'll dance any more for a few moments. You haven't got a pin about you, have you, Miss Snicketty?" She frowned off without a word. He felt it keenly, the more so as her ball dress was composed almost entirely of founces.

He sat there until suddenly the palms parted and the fair face of Antonette Sniggs gazed at him. "Oh, Mr. Sniff," she cried. "I thought I would never find you. It's our dance, you know. Hurry up—it's an Abyssinian one-step and you do it so well."

"Awfully sorry, Miss Sniggs," he apologized, "but I—I don't feel very well, somehow. You don't happen to have a pin, do you?"

"No, I ain't!" she retorted and swept away. After that Annadyke Priehlem, Susanne Triggs and Gardena Sniggler arrived in turn and claimed him, but none of them had an extra pin ad they all went away mad.

HONESTY IS NECESSARY IN NEWSPAPERS.

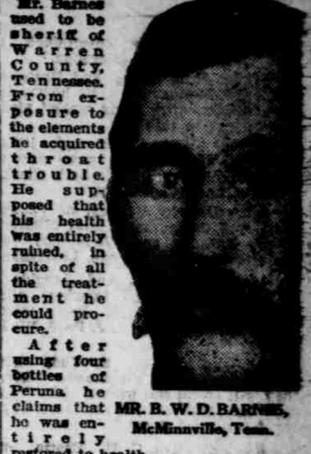

"Suppression of news is more of a wrong than the printing of a piece of news that might possibly better not have been written. By improper suppression, a newspaper sells its soul and betrays its readers. Suppression of news, to my mind, is the high treason of journalism."

So said James Keeley, editor and general manager of the Chicago Tribune in an address before the students in the Course of Journalism at the University of Wisconsin.

"No paper that permits its advertisers of the personal, social and financial friends of its editor to control or taint its news and editorial columns, ever has become a big newspaper that is respected by the people. The man in the street instinctively senses this sort of treason and he punishes," continued Mr. Keeley.

"The sneering belief expressed by so many that the advertisers have a mortgage on the editorial columns of all newspapers is not true. There are free men and there are slaves in our business as there are in all lines of work. The newspaper field is not inhabited solely by saints, neither has any other profession a monopoly of the pure at heart. The average of honesty in the newspaper business, however, will compare favorably with that in any other trade or profession. "The man who thinks he can betray his readers, the man who thinks that he can let dollars supercede duty, the man who thinks that he can let private interests dictate his policy—and doing these things secretly imagines that he can pose as a leader of public opinion, an exponent of right and honesty—is fooling himself, not the public. The day of invisible government in the newspaper world, as in the political world, is vanishing. "Honesty of purpose, and the determination to carry that purpose into effect, is the backbone of a newspaper's reputation. An honest man makes mistakes and a newspaper is operated and produced by finite minds. The decent newspaper wants to print the truth. A lie is a business boomerang. A newspaper's reputation for reliability is its stock in trade. Inaccuracy is the cardinal sin. Doubtless some papers are in need of abolition."

Suffered with Throat Trouble

Mr. Barnes used to be sheriff of Warren County, Tennessee. From exposure to the elements he acquired throat trouble. He supposed that his health was entirely ruined, in spite of all the treatment he could procure. After using four bottles of Peruna he claims that MR. B. W. D. BARNES, McMinnville, Tenn. he was entirely restored to health. Catarrh of the throat is not only an annoying disease of itself, but it exposes the victim to many other diseases. We are constantly breathing into our throats numerous atmospheric germs. Disease germs of all sorts. This cannot be avoided. The throat is healthy the system is protected from these poisonous germs. But if the throat is raw and punctured with numerous little ulcers, by catarrh, then the disease germs have easy access to the system. Keep the throat well and clean. This is the way to protect yourself against contagious diseases. Catarrh of the throat as explained in the new "Tils of Life," sent free by the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Barnes says: "I had throat trouble and had three doctors treating me. All failed to do me any good, and pronounced my health gone. I concluded to try Peruna, and after using four bottles can say I was entirely cured."

"BABY CHICKENS."

As soon as the season opens there is going to be wonderful call for "day-old chicks." One farm alone shipped last season about 50,000 day-old chicks. There are some advantages, of course, to be derived from having eggs that are already hatched "the other man" having the risk of infertile eggs, poor incubators and deformed youngsters. But the purchaser of baby chicks should know his man and even then should require the seller to guarantee the safe arrival of every chick paid for. Another thing to guard against is purchasing chicks from such a distance that the wee ones will suffer on the way, or arrive in bad condition. Distances vary according to the rate of travel, and the number of times the coops have to be changed cars. Buy from breeders near home, but even then secure the guarantee.
