

KEEP YOUR CHICKENS ON YOUR PREMISES.

If the frequent complaints that have been coming to the police of Paris regarding chickens running at large on the streets are acted upon, it may become necessary for them to issue such an order as above. Once upon a time the city of Millersburg was torn from center to circumference over the question of whether or not chickens should be allowed to run at large on the streets, meaning of course, feathered chickens, not the ones from the city or the female college.

We do not know if there is an ordinance prohibiting owners from allowing their poultry running on the streets or getting the range of their neighbors' yards, but it is a fact that the complaints have been frequent in regard to the destruction of property by chickens wandering from their own domains and poaching on neighboring territory. These complaints are apt to become more frequent with the advent of the spring gardening season. Chickens in a newly-planted garden can cause much damage, and in a short time play havoc with the results of a weeks' hard labor.

Keep 'em tied up, if no other way can be found, and thereby promote the peace and quiet of the community in which they have the misfortune to live.

MINSTRELS FAIL TO ARRIVE.

There was no performance of the Price-Bonell Minstrels at the Paris Grand Opera House, Wednesday night, owing to the fact that the company failed to arrive.

Manager Fred Erd, of the Grand, received a message from the manager of the company, at Cincinnati, stating that, owing to the railroad strike, they had been unable to fill their dates, and consequently, could not make Paris. It is said that the company was organized at Cincinnati, and had been unable to get any further. The Ohio River being at flood stage, also, probably kept them from crossing.

JIM ALLEN, HE SAYS:

In the Cynthiana Democrat, Editor Jim Allen's "Pert and Pertinent" column has the following:

"A colored centenarianess at Paris, Ky., says she attributes her long life to hard work and minding her own business. Taunting. Minding one's own business is hard work."

"The Women's Clubs of Paris are starting an agitation for better streets in Bourbon's capital. If they want to see streets 'as is streets' let them not fail to visit Cynthiana."

SPRING ARRIVED OFFICIALLY ON WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21.

While the recent snow blizzards were raging and the snowdrifts were piling up, many Paris people wailed: "I don't believe Spring will ever come." For their consolation it may be remarked that Spring is here, officially, at least. Spring, according to all well-conceived theories, arrived at precisely 11:20 o'clock Tuesday night, preceded by a heavy shower, and accompanied by a display of lightning, with the thunder god putting on the loud pedal.

The departed winter was about the worst ever known in Paris, according to unanimous opinion. So, it's a rare consolation to know that Spring is here. Although the temperature did not fall lower than "somewhere in the 40's" the early birds longed for the ear muffs that have been laid away in moth balls, and the frogs which were startled out of their winter sleep by the thunder storms and electric display of Tuesday night paid their neighborly calls while wearing rubber boots and keeping a watchful eye on the fast-moving clouds.

The fine weather of yesterday brought out a large number of shoppers, who inspected the nice things on display in the store windows, and the new things for Easter came in for their fair share of attention from the fair sex.

NOW'S THE TIME.

Why not have the house wired for electricity before the Spring House Cleaning? Electricity is cheaper, cleaner and in every respect better for lighting purposes than any other method. No dirt, smoky oil, no chimneys to buy, no mantels and shades to replace, no disagreeable heat in the summer months. It's so convenient, too, for many other little comforts, such as attaching the electric iron, the sewing machine, washing machine, electric fan. If you ever used electricity you will never be without it. Let us figure with you to-day on wiring the house. No better time than now.

BOURBON CIRCUIT COURT.

The entire time of the Court was taken Tuesday in the trial of two small suits. The first was a suit brought by Booth & Strother, for the recovery of $480 on a note alleged to have been lost. The jury returned a verdict for the defendants.

The second suit was that of Thos. C. Mynes against Hay & Anderson, on appeal from the Bourbon Quarterly Court. The suit was the outcome of a controversy involving the sale of a lot of hay. The jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

In the case of Ella Waters, who was sentenced Wednesday, is the first conviction of a woman, followed by sentence to the penitentiary, that has occurred in the Bourbon Circuit Court for a period covering twenty years of court history.

Four prisoners, convicted at this term of the Bourbon Circuit Court, were brought into open court Wednesday and sentenced to the Frankfort Reformatory for varying terms. Ella Waters and George Cravens, both white, charged with stealing brass, etc., from the Paris Gas & Electric Co. were sentenced to three years each.

George Carrett, colored, alias "Snow," was given a life sentence under the habitual criminal act. Proof was presented showing that Garrett had been "sent up" once from Shelbyville, once from Lexington, and once from Ohio. He had been out of the Frankfort Reformatory but ten days when the crime for which he was sentenced Wednesday was committed.

Jasper Groves, a negro under 21 years of age, charged with forgery, was committed to the State Reform School near Lexington, for two years. James Ross, colored, of Millersburg, was given one year in the Reformatory for forging a check on which he failed to obtain the money. O'Leary Lee, colored, was fined $50 for having liquor in his possession for purpose of sale in local option territory. George Connors, colored, of Millersburg, was fined $200 for setting up a game of chance, namely, running a "crap" game.

The time of the Court was taken up yesterday morning with trial of the case of Renaker & Garnett against Rufus Kenney and E. T. Mullin, involving an action for alleged breach of contract in the sale of a crop of tobacco. The jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant in the sum of $140. This was the only case on trial yesterday, and the Court adjourned until this morning, when the cases of T. J. Flora, etc., and J. H. Stivers, etc., against the Paris Water Company for damages, will be heard.

These are cases involving property loss sustained in the destructive fire of two years ago on South Main street, when the lumber yards and other property of the Stivers Lumber Co., and of Mr. Flora were burned. Due, it was alleged, partly, to insufficient water pressure.

MEETING OF WOMENS' CLUBS.

The members of the different Womens' Clubs composing the Federation of Clubs of this city, held a very interesting meeting in the rest room of the First National Bank building, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Fanniebell Sutherland, the president, presided over the sessions at which there was a large attendance.

In opening the proceedings Mrs. Sutherland stated that the meeting had been called at the request of the Paris Commercial Club, the members of which were desirous of the co-operation of the club women of the city in providing better streets and the proper maintenance of same.

The Commercial Club was represented at the meeting by Attorney John J. Williams and Mr. John F. Davis, Mr. Williams acting as spokesman on the occasion. He stated that the Commercial Club had two questions of vital interest to the public at present—the paving of the streets and the completion of the sewer system of the city, but that only the first would be considered for the present. Mr. Williams invited the earnest co-operation of the Club women of Paris in the movement, and urged them to attend the mass meeting to be held at the court house to-night (Friday) at 7:30 o'clock.

SUGGESTION FOR BEST ROAD UP-KEEP METHOD.

County Judge Chas. A. McMillan and County Road Engineer Ben F. Bedford are in receipt of letters from Rodman Wiley, Commissioner of Public Roads, recommending that when constructing or re-constructing macadam or gravel roads this year that that material be left along the road about every 1,000 feet, such to be used in maintaining the roads after they are built. He states he is positive this is a cheaper and easier way of repairing roads than to haul the desired material later, or to be moving crushing plants from place to place after exhausting a rock quarry.

SAVING PAPER.

(Christian Herald.)

It has been said that the best way to save money is not to spend it, and users of paper are adopting similar means to prevent waste of this rapidly depreciating commodity. Department stores and mail order houses in many of the cities have found it possible to use less paper in wrapping packages without decreasing in any degree the protection of the contents. Grocers have found it possible to use much less paper, or, to put it another way, to put up more goods in the paper they did use, one element of waste which has been eliminated being the wrapping of boxes which are already weather tight. The school board of New York City has found it hard to secure the usual pads of "scratch" paper for the 800,000 school children of the city. It has been reported as considering a return to slates. People are urged to keep paper instead of burning it, but as yet we have not seen a practical suggestion as to how this paper is to be profitably collected and returned to the channels of industry.
