EVENING THE SCORE.

The terrific onslaught of the Allies on the German positions in Belgium is an evening of scores altogether joyous to the people of the allied countries who saw with dismay in 1914 the advance of an enemy greatly superior in numbers and arms and witnessed the newly developed science of shelling trenches by the direction of airships and with the modern large caliber howitzer. The Allies have marshalled since 1914 forces, almost ten times as strong numerically as the armies they were able to put into the field in the early months of the war. They have acquired equipment undreamed of in their days of peace and they now are at the throats of the Germans with the sort of superiority of men and arms and ammunition that make the German advance terrible.

The Kaiser was forced long ago to dig in. Since last February he has been pounded pretty steadily by the sort of guns his military program necessitated in the armaments of the Allies. It looks as if the Allies are going to shell him out of his hole before the summer is over, as far as the western battlefield is concerned.

Strength to their men. The sooner the war is ended the better, but if it is not ended soon America will be in at the end of it!—State Journal.

JERSEY CLOTHES STILL HOLD SWAY

SILK AND WOOL JERSEY ARE USED IN COMBINATION.

COOL SUMMER VOILES APPEAR IN NUMBERS.

NEW YORK, May 14, 1917. All through the spring, one of the materials that has kept steadily increasing in popularity is wool jersey. It has been used for coats and suits, for one-piece dresses, separate skirts and for middie blouses. It has been braided, stitched, and even beaded, just like all the other smart materials. Colored beads combined with silk embroidery is the latest form of decoration to which jersey has taken. As summer approaches, there is not the slightest indication that wool jersey is on the wane. But, on the contrary, one seems to see more and more of it every day. On a dress that could not possibly be too warm for summer, it was combined with dotted crepe in the following manner; pink crepe with white polka dots made the waist and sleeves; the waist extended down to the hip line, and from there downward the skirt was of white wool jersey. There was a small yoke of the white jersey at the neck of the dress. This is one of the novel ways in which this popular material is used.

White jersey suits bound with white silk braid or trimmed with black and white are in very good style as present. They look cool and summery.

All shades of gold and mustard are high in favor and especially so in the jersey cloths. Lavender and purple in jersey cloth are also among the popular colors of the hour.

Gold silk jersey has been combined most successfully with gray wool jersey in some suits and dresses, and with dark tan wool jersey in others. This combination of silk and wool jersey is frequently used by the best dressmakers. In some loose-fitting suits, with knee-length coats, the silk is used for the sleeves, sides and back of the coat, and the wool for bands down the front, as well as for the skirt.

Cool Summer Voiles

Cool and refreshing summer voiles in dainty flowered effects are charming for the informal cotton frocks, of which every woman requires several for the distressingly hot days. Now is the time to get them made. The styles are generally simple. Pleated, tucked or gathered skirts combine with the simplest of waists having a little fullness at the shoulders with an attractive collar edged with lace or machine picot edging.

Soft pleats finished off with a heading at the top of the skirt are unusually pretty, as shown in the sketch. The puffed pockets are a charming novelty especially suited to this type of summer frock. A long collar of white organdy provides the finishing touch in this dainty hot-weather frock.

It is the collar that makes the blouse in a great many cases. Large cape-like collars falling in points over the shoulders and continuing down the front of the waist are now being worn. A blouse with one of these new collars is illustrated. It is fashioned of white organdy, which is being used a great deal for blouses. The skirt that accompanies this blouse is of one of the smart wool plaids. It has pocket sections at the sides, giving a grateful draped effect.

Plaids are lovely for sports skirts and for other kinds of skirts, too. They are worn with short coats of a plain material and with slip-on blouses for sports use.

The New Mannish Shirtwaist

Mannish shirtwaists are growing in favor. Some models of linen are made with finely tucked fronts, like those of a man's shirt. In addition to these tucks, there are little sprays embroidered in colors on some of the waists and turnover collars of pique.

A White Organdy Waist is Smart With a Plaid Skirt

As separate waists and skirts grow more and more important there are always some novelties to be found among them. White tub skirts of cotton gabardine are made with yokes of colored linen, and where the skirt is attached to the yoke there are several rows of machine stitching done in heavy colored cotton the color of the yoke. White skirts with green, blue or orange-colored yokes are quite effective.

A strong military note is observed in suits of mannish cut for women. The coats are short and plentifully provided with pockets like those on a soldier's uniform. These suits are developed in dark blue, and khaki-colored materials. Perhaps the military spirit is also responsible for the combination of blue and red so frequently seen. Blue dresses are embroidered with red beads or red silk, and in some very striking models there are entire sleeves of red with, perhaps, pockets on the skirt showing a bright lining of red. Hats also show the red and blue combination, generally in touches of red on blue straw.

THE EVILS OF CONSTIPATION.

Constipation is one of the main reasons why the average human life is below 40 years. Leaving waste material in the body, poisons the system and blood and makes us liable to sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and muddy skin. When you note these symptoms, try Dr. King's New Life Pills. They give prompt relief, are mild, non-gripping in action, add tone to your system and clear the complexion. At your druggist, 25c.

CLIMBED STAIRS ON HER HANDS

Too Ill to Walk Upright. Operation Advised. Saved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This woman now raises chickens and does manual labor. Read her story: Richmond, Ind.—"For two years I was so sick and weak with troubles from my age that when going up stairs I had to go very slowly with my hands on the steps, then sit down at the top to rest. The doctor said he thought I should have an operation, and my friends thought I would not live to move into our new house. My daughter asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had taken it with good results. I did so, my weakness disappeared, I gained in strength, moved into our new home, did all kinds of garden work, shoveled dirt, did building and cement work, and raised hundreds of chickens and ducks. I cannot say enough in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and if these facts are useful you may publish them for the benefit of other women."—Mrs. M. O. JOHNSON, Route D, Box 190, Richmond, Ind.
