MULE KICKS MAN, KNOCKING OUT EYE.
The mule, long regarded as one of the most fractious animals on earth, has been darned and damned by every class of citizens on earth. General Grant, at the battle of Shiloh, is said to have remarked, "Damn a mule, anyhow!" While hitching up one of these beasts to a wagon on the farm of B. B. Marsh, near Paris, Will Hall, colored farm hand, was badly injured when the animal playfully tapped him with his heels. Hall's right eye was knocked out, and he received severe injuries about the face. A physician was called, and the injured man given attention.

"APRIL FOOL'S DAY."
Yesterday, the first day of April, was the day officially designated in the calendar as "April Fool's Day," being the day consecrated by a practice several hundred years old, to pranks and stunts of the kind calculated to make the day remembered. Of late years it had fallen into disuse to a large extent, though the small boy was right on the job yesterday, and brought out his usual bag of tricks for the amusement of his companions and the discomfiture of his victims. THE NEWS force had their fingers crossed at intervals during the day, and escaped the infiction.

HELP THE BOYS WHO SAVED US
One good turn truly deserves another. The soldier boys saved this country and kept it the splendid place to live in that it is. We are now asked to show our appreciation of their work in making a small donation to help further the interests of the work the American Legion is engaged in. This county's quota has been placed at $357. A. B. Hancock has been designated as chairman of the drive. No campaign should be necessary, and will not be. Our people will rally as one person to raise this fund. See Mr. Hancock as soon as you read this and hand him your donation to the good cause.
