A Singular Incident. Messrs. KERRICK—Allow me here to relate an incident which took place in its quiet village about twelve miles from Butler. A few weeks ago a lady and her daughter looked the outside door, leaving the key in the lock and retired to bed in a few minutes they heard the click of the lock as if unlocked. The young lady went and found the door unlocked. She opened the door and looked out but saw nothing. She locked the door leaving the key in the door and retired again, soon to hear the sharp click of the door unlocking. She arose, found the door unlocked, looked out as before, again locked the door and retired, not to be disturbed. At this time sleep seemed to have fled. The locking and unlocking was repeated at short intervals until midnight. A short time after midnight the lady, after locking the door, put the sewing machine against the door but did not prevent the unlocking. About midnight the door was locked and remained still morning. These facts were told me by the young lady herself and corroborated by her mother, and both are trustworthy. Nocturnal.

Prospect, June 25, 1888.

According to an article in Harper's for this month the second and not the fourth of July should be celebrated as independence day. It was on the second of July, 1776, that the Continental Congress adopted Lee's resolution of independence, though the famous Declaration, written by Jefferson, was not approved until the fourth, and that is how it came about that the fourth and not the second is now celebrated all over the United States—except in Butler. We would suggest to our merchants and hotel and restaurant keepers, that, looking at the matter from a business standpoint (which it would pay them and pay them well to take advantage of the holiday to draw a crowd to town. An appropriate day-time parade, a bit of a speech and a balloon ascension, and a few fireworks at night would do it.

The Carbon Centre oil field, or Oxbow oil field as some call it, after the man who put down the first oil well there, is rapidly coming to the front. There are now eleven pumping wells there, with productions ranging from thirteen to sixty barrels each per day, or about 4000 barrels daily.

On account of bad management the Glass Company, of Parker, has become embarrassed. The last number of the Phoenix speaks as follows: "At a stockholder's meeting of the Glass Company, limited, held in the Oil Exchange on Friday last, a statement was submitted by the Treasurer of the company to the stockholders, in which it was shown that the company has been doing business at a great loss. The amount of the indebtedness exceeds the credits and also the plant by several thousand dollars. The prospects of continuation under the limited partnership is not at all feasible. What the outcome of the affair will be is hard to tell; there seems at present no alternative but that the property will be sold out under the Sheriff's hammer."

Chrolithion.

—It was a dull, hot "Fourth."

Chrolithion.

—All the oil exchanges in the country now close at 3 P. M.

—The P. & W. R. Co., is removing its shops at Parker and Zellenpote to Allegheny City.

—The rose bug promises to become as great a pest as the potato-bug. It is eating away at everything.

—Just as one of our livermen was becoming an expert coon-tamer, his coon turned on him and gave him a fearful scratching.

—Every lady should give Day's Soap one trial. By this means they will learn of its intrinsic value without running any risk of deception.

—During the greater part of last week the mercury stood at about 90° in the shade. The week before it ranged from 60 to 80.

—The "Solid Comfort Hunting Club," of Mercer, is at present on a visit to the wilds of Canada. P. W. Lowry Esq., of this place, accompanied them.

—By a recent act of the Legislature the practicing dentists of the State are compelled to register in the Prothonotary's office, as are the physicians.

—A lamp explosion occurred at the residence of Major Reed a few evenings since, but the burning oil was extinguished before serious damage was done.

—The James Bondland farm, in Butler township, was sold by C. W. Waller, Esq., to John P. Focht, of East Brady, a few days ago for $6,000.

—During show day in New Castle a Hickory township farmer had his pocket picked of $150 by a nice young man who met him on the street, called him by name, took him to the show, etc.

—A small piece of paper or linen moistened with turpentine and put into the wardrobe or drawers for a single day at a time, two or three times a year, is said to be a preventive against moths.

—The most disappointed person we have seen during the present century was the young man who took sixteen pieces of music to a friend's house, and who was not asked to sing during the whole evening.

—A post office called "Flick" has been established at Flick's store, in Middlesex township. Mr. Flick was appointed postmaster, but as he is almost blind he refused the office, and an effort is being made to have Mr. John Gillespie appointed.

—The new coroner of Red Dog, Arizona, held the usual inquest the other morning and rendered the following verdict: "We, the jury, do hereby find that the deceased died by his death the injuries of God, for hevin kaled Bill Jaxon a Jew."

—One of the fish-ways of the Columbia dam across the Snakebama river was the scene of an accident a few weeks ago by which a Butler boy came near losing his life. The boat he was in was drawn into the fish-way by the current and upset, and when he was taken from the water life was apparently extinct.

—Mr. George Harbison of Buffalo twp., had $27,400 stolen from his clothes, while they were hanging in a wardrobe at his father's house, a few nights since. A peddler was suspected, arrested and searched, but none of the missing money was found upon him.

—The hot weather sends the small boy to cool and shady places along the creek, not for the purpose of going in swimming, but to kneel and pray that the town council may soon allow of such sport. The council should amend the ordinance to provide for the small boy who goes there in the morning. He should have the privilege of bathing wherever he pleases.

—The Presbyterian congregation of Freeport celebrated the semi-centennial anniversary of its organization on Tuesday last week. Rev. W. F. Keen, who had charge of the church from 1840 to 1869, and Rev. J. J. Francis, whose pastorate extended from 1869 to 1879 were present and took part in the services. Rev. Samuel Caldwell, the first pastor, by reason of disability was unable to be present.

—The hum of the loom is no longer heard in the land. The birds destroyed vast numbers of them. The small branches of the tree strung by the female locusts have already begun falling to the ground, and with them fall the small grubs which will enter the ground and remain for another period of 17 years.

—Mr. Nicholas Slape, of Jefferson township, was severely injured on the 20th ult., by the fall of scaffolding upon which he was working. He was repairing the roof of his barn and at the time was fixing the eave of the roof, standing upon the scaffold, which gave way and caused him to fall a distance of 60 feet, severely, but not fatally injuring him. Being well up in years and a large man the wonder of his neighbors is that he was not killed.

—The survey for the branch of the S. & A. connecting link, to run from a point on the new road near McGrath's Mill to Red Bank, was begun last Tuesday, and work will begin on it as soon as the main road is completed. This is likely to be the beginning of an east and west line across the county. From this place it connects with the main road, west down the Mud-dy-creek and to New Castle there is an almost level road-bed, or a location for one.

—The annual statement showing the amount of the taxable property in Butler county, as returned by the assessors and equalized as far as possible by the County Commissioners, appears in this issue. The law requires its publication and it is always interesting to the taxpayers of different townships. It would have appeared sometime ago had not the Fairview township litigation in regard to the assessment prevented.

—The Triumph Truss Company, of Philadelphia and New York, whose advertisement appeared in another column has opened an office in Pittsburgh, at the Hamilton Hotel, 205 Penn avenue. The office will be in charge of Dr. Englemann, the great Herma Surgeon. They offer for $1,000 for a case of rupture they cannot cure. They have over 30 styles of trusses. A lady attendant will be constantly on hand and it is a rare chance for the afflicted to avail themselves of the means of relief at a moderate price.

—A supply of the new postal notes has not yet been received at the Butler P. O., but money orders can now be had for any sum under $100. Foss are also reduced to the following rates: Not exceeding $10, 8 cents; from $10 to $15, 10 cents; from $15 to $20, 12 cents; from $20 to $30, 15 cents; from $30 to $40, 18 cents; from $40 to $50, 20 cents; from $50 to $60, 25 cents; from $60 to $70, 30 cents; from $70 to $80, 35 cents; from $80 to $100, 45 cents.

—On account of bad management the Glass Company, of Parker, has become embarrassed. The last number of the Phoenix speaks as follows: "At a stockholder's meeting of the Glass Company, limited, held in the Oil Exchange on Friday last, a statement was submitted by the Treasurer of the company to the stockholders, in which it was shown that the company has been doing business at a great loss. What the outcome of the affair will be is hard to tell; there seems at present no alternative but that the property will be sold out under the Sheriff's hammer."

—The body of W. M. Fitzsimmons, a young man, son of Wm. Fitzsimmons, Dec'd., and Elizabeth Fitzsimmons, (nee Graham) now of Jefferson township, this county, was found on the track of the Allegheny Valley R. R., at Heights run, last Monday morning. He has lately been clerking at the store of the Etna Iron Works, and at the time he met his death was on his way to his home in Sharpsburg, Pa., on a visit to a young lady living near the Water Works. His body was brought to his mother's home yesterday.

—Prof. J. A. Cooper has now completed his twentieth year as principal of the Great Normal School at Edinboro, Erie county, this State, and he has just issued a catalogue which is of special value to all persons thinking of preparing themselves for teachers. The school is now one of the most prosperous in the country, the catalogue showing a total enrollment of 651 students. For further information copies of the catalogue, etc., address the principal, J. A. Cooper, Edinboro, Erie county, Pa.

—All the glass workers of the United States and Canada, who belong to their Union, quit work at 4 o'clock of Saturday afternoon the 30th, ult. This includes the hands employed in the glass works here, and the firm had to hunt up a few non-union men to keep going through the night. What orders are in plans for the new ten-pot furnace and works to be run in connection with the present works, have been made, but the contract for building has not yet been given.

—The house of Mr. Albert T. Pearce in Butler township, with all its contents, was consumed by fire on Friday morning, the 29th ult. Mr. P. and a young son were the only persons at home that day. He arose early that morning, made a fire in the kitchen stove, and went to the barn. Returning shortly he discovered that his house was on fire and burning rapidly. He rushed up stairs and saved his boy, who was yet asleep, but was unable to save any of his household goods. The fire originated from the kitchen fire, and there was no insurance on the house.

—The act repealing the tax on patent medicines has been signed by the Governor, and no further tax on these articles will be collected. According to a circular sent by the Department to County Treasurer Miller, any taxes on these articles for 1883 that have been paid since the 5th of June will be returned to the parties who paid them, but those paid before that date will be retained by the State. The act was approved on the 5th of June, and in this case prompt payment means the loss of your money. The order is unjust and may be rectified.

—The arbitrators in the case of the Sheriff, with force of Emma J. Rea, vs. ex-Sheriff Hoffman gave the plaintiff an award of $310.25 in the case of John Dickson vs. Thomas M. Dickson awarded in favor of the plaintiff for the land described in the writ. The arbitrators in the case of Ludwig Birch vs. Tobias Dietrich and wife awarded in favor of the defendants with costs. In the award of the case of R. P. Scott vs. C. A. Sullivan, Cross and Sullivan, Slater, and J. A. Lidecker was in favor of the plaintiff for $150 and costs of suit.

—The house of Mr. Henry Sanderson, of Clay township, with everything in it, excepting a little of the parlor furniture, was consumed by fire last Friday morning. The fire originated in a bed room on stairs, over the parlor. Mr. H. was in the room a few minutes before the fire was noticed and can only account for it in the supposition that he tripped upon a pile of his and his family's, as well as three railroad hands, who were boarding with them, lost all their clothing. The house was insured for a small amount in the North Washington Mutual.

—The Franklin, Pa., Press enlarges on our prayer meeting as follows: "A Butler churchman hit upon an excellent expedient for moving him who tarries too long with the daughters of the household. A young sister, who had been invited to attend, was late and when a large section of the night had worn away, and the family longed for rest, she came in upon an excellent expedient, and by asking him to lend in family prayer. The young man, not having any petition of his own, was forced to recite the prayer which he was called elsewhere, and soon withdrew. It was another instance of the moving power of prayer. Parents pastors and lingering sparkers may find in prayer, the means of filling a long-felt want. Make Charles Augustus pray or paddle."

—The shooting of David Nittle, at the picnic, on the Fourth, was a singular accident. Dave was standing between the refreshment tables in a walk to the right and twenty feet back from the track. The ball that is supposed to have struck him, missed the target, passed through an inch board, and must have changed its course nearly 45 degrees. It entered the fleshy part of his right shoulder, passed downwards into his abdomen and has not yet been extracted. The doctors think it will do him no harm at present and that it would be dangerous to cut it out during this hot weather. Dave was moving about the house yesterday and was feeling well. In the woods across the creek, that day, some parties were shooting and it is possible that the ball came from one of their guns.

—Our bankers are now allowing but 85 cents for trade dollars deposited with them. This movement against the trade dollar was originated in New York city a week or two ago, by money-brokers who expect to profit by buying them at 85 cents and then prevailing upon Congress to again make them a legal tender. For instance a profit of 15 cents each on the $100 million trade dollars said to be in circulation in this country would amount to $750,000, and the same on the whole coinage of thirty-five million in circulation in this country and China would amount to $5,250,000. There is a great difference of opinion as to whether or not Congress should make itself the tool of such brokers. There is more silver in the trade dollar than there is in the standard dollar. Its coinage was authorized in 1873, and the object of the measure was to provide a coin for use in our trade with China, no gold or silver being at that time coined in this country. It was not intended for circulation in this country, but the depreciation in silver, brought it back here and by the act of 1876 its manufacture was stopped and its legal tender quality taken away.

—The new railroad—S. & A. connecting road—will probably be completed by the 1st of next September. The Morehead cut is at McClelland and the cut at the summit on the McClelland farm, in Clay township, will be finished in a week or two. The ties and rails have been laid as far down as the Stone House, in Clay township. This road strikes the narrow gauge railroad a short distance above Mr. Reiber's residence, east of town, and will come to the West Penn depot on the old narrow gauge bed, now out of use. A curve or Y will likely be built at this point for the accommodation of through trains. The new road is being well built. There are no sharp curves and it is the highest grade—that at the summit—is but one foot in a hundred or 52 feet to the mile. We understand that it will be finished in style, with dress cases of style, fine bonnets, kid gloves, &c., combining the sublime and the ridiculous. There was quite a display of fireworks in the evening. Hon. L. Z. Mitchell and James Cubbison spoke. All passed off quietly and but little drunkenness. MILCO.

HARRISVILLE, July 7, 1883.

EDS. CITIZEN.—The Fourth was celebrated here with all the usual sports. The principal part of which was the masque parade. The gents donned the ladies' dresses and bonnets; and some were attired in style, while dress cases of style, fine bonnets, kid gloves, &c., combining the sublime and the ridiculous. There was quite a display of fireworks in the evening. Hon. L. Z. Mitchell and James Cubbison spoke. All passed off quietly and but little drunkenness. MILCO.

WIPED OUT AT A CROSSING.

Five Persons Belonging to one Family Instantly Killed.

CINCINNATI, July 3.—A terrible accident, by which nearly the whole of a family were wiped out, existed, with out a moment's warning, occurred to-night at Winton Place, a crossing on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton road, six miles out of the city. Henry Kraacke, a German, aged 50 years, an invalid, living on a farm at Winton Place, three young children remaining with him. His wife lived in the city and kept a small produce store. A part of the children remained with her. It was the intention to devote to-morrow to making a holiday, and this evening the father drove to the city in a one-horse wagon, returning later with his wife, and their four older children, and Adolph Betsch, a young German acquaintance, who had not yet learned to speak English.

THE PARTY were in excellent spirits, and were chatting gayly over their plans for the morrow, when they reached the crossing near destination at 9:10 o'clock. The crossing is without protection of any sort. The horse was just on the track, when the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio express, due here at 8:45, and behind time, came thundering along, and before any of the occupants had time to more than realize their danger the engine had struck the wagon, thrown the horse to one side and ground the wagon underneath the ponderous wheels of the train.

The father and mother and all the children, were instantly killed and horribly cut up and mangled, the head of Maggie being cut entirely off.

The train was stopped and backed up, and the mangled remains were gathered up and brought to the city, when they were removed to an undertaker's. Only the three children left at the farm remain of the family. The blame is laid on the railroad company, as no safeguards are provided at that point.

Harrisville Items.

June 29, 1883.

EDS. CITIZEN.—Tuesday 29th being the day of the regular meeting of the W. O. T. U., they met at the house of A. B. Gildersleeve, one mile north of Harrisville. Their meeting developed a new and successful mode of filling up the temperance ranks. No one had any idea there were so many temperance women in Harrisville. It is astonishing that in this wonderful anxiety there is no one to do something for the temperance cause when there is a meeting to be held at the strawberry gardens. The meeting was held at 3 P. M. About 2 P. M., the "procession began to move." Hack after hack and buggy after buggy went pouring out to the W. O. T. U. strawberry picnic. Only one man was allowed to accompany the women, and him they "drafted" for a driver. They went in bravely for women's rights. Wonder when they will hold their grand convention to nominate a woman as candidate for President. Why not? The party returned to Harrisville about dark, all sober, but strawberries have been rather scarce ever since.

Some boys, in experimenting with an old cannon yesterday evening, fired it off opposite the Methodist parsonage, just as the Rev. Chesbro was about starting to prayer meeting. They loaded it with a piece of iron, and fired it toward the parsonage. The iron went crashing through the front of the parsonage, doing considerable damage in breaking glass and frightening the inmates badly. MILCO.
