

THE CITIZEN

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1922.

Butler has a population of about 10,000. It is the County seat of Butler County, with...

New York Weekly Tribune-Free. By special arrangements made for our...

New Advertisements. O. C. Sale, estate of Henry Keogh. Pappas's Holiday Goods.

LOCAL AND GENERAL. The new comet looks like a foot-ball. Everything sold well at the Donthelmsale.

Every other show-window in town has a pair of shoes. Schall Bros. & Co. advertise extra-ordinary bargains in clothing this week.

Criminal Court and the Institute. Nearly every man who is a fool has a fair opinion of it, but in trying to prove that he is not a fool he gets in deeper.

It's bad enough to be a fool, but it's even worse to be a fool on a man's head, but his woe is to find him over there.

When out hunting if you see a sign "No Trespassing," don't imagine it is put up simply for ornamental purposes.

Mayor Gourley, of Pittsburg, has ordered the Chief of Police to close all the disorderly houses in the city.

Mr. C. N. Boyd, the druggist, issues a handsome "Bulletin" this week, in which the merits of many household preparations and articles are set forth. Read it carefully.

We direct attention to the prospect of the publications of Harper & Bros. of New York. We can claim any of them with our paper at a reduced rate.

Foot ball was the great feature of Thanksgiving Day throughout the country. The best ball of to-day is a rough and tumble fight.

And now the pumpkin pie blooms in the pantry, and the small boys come along and cut it down in the midst of all its glory.

The Island district of Butler should be attached to the 3d ward, and the movement in that direction is right and proper.

The concert given by the Imperial Concert Co., for the benefit of Company B, N. G. P., was greeted by a large audience, and everybody was well pleased with it.

According to an exchange, twelve young ladies met on the first day of the present year, and were ready to marry; two were married before seven months, and two others have breach of promise suits on hand. The other one is dead.

The Stockholders of the Butler Co. Agricultural Association will hold their annual meeting at the office of the President, W. H. E. Riddle, here, on next Tuesday at half past one o'clock.

An Allegheny Co. man of 48 and a Butler Co. woman of 65 took out a license to marry, this week. The women of Butler Co. are wonderful stayers; they retain their vitality and attractions to the end of the chapter.

There is no law in this State regarding the erection of barbed-wire fences, but the law has held that an animal injured by such fence, the owner of the fence may be held liable for damages, according to the nature of the case.

Mrs. D. T. Pape is ready for the holidays. Her counters and show-windows bear abundant evidence of the fact. If you can't find something nice or something new for a Christmas present at Pape's, you can't anywhere.

The Farmers' Institute held in each county desiring such institute, under the auspices of the State Agricultural Society, will be held for this county, sometime during the month of January next. As the State makes a small appropriation for each institute, it is hoped that the county enterprising farmers of the County will take an interest in it and make it a success. Further notice of the time and programme will be given in the county papers.

B. F. Rynd, the Allegheny lumber merchant, who recently failed for over $100,000, and who is charged with having conspired to defraud the Allegheny Co. of $200,000, and which it is said by some, will when all the returns are in, amount to over $50,000, has not fled to Canada or any other country to keep from criminal prosecution, but is confined in an eastern asylum suffering from a serious and probably incurable case of insanity. In addition to the money that has been lost by several banks by reason of the forgeries made by Mr. Rynd, there are several firms which will lose probably the full amount of their claims against him, and among them is the Freight Lumber Co., for $1,800, and S. G. Purvis & Co., of Butler, for $3,000.

Mr. M. H. Sitter of Jackson township, makes a business of shipping milk to the cities, and when in Butler a few days ago told us if his method of cooling or aerating the warm milk before canning. It is done into a vat and an instrument somewhat similar to a large wash-pan, punctured full of fine holes, and with a handle attached to the bottom, is pushed down through it. The confined air escapes through the small holes and rising through the milk cools it. This is repeated as often as necessary.

Another method is to pump air into the bottom of the vat with a pump arranged for that purpose. Milk so treated can be canned and shipped a reasonable distance without danger of spoiling, while milk cooled without being cooled, or a mixture of warm and cold milk, always spoils. It may not become sour immediately, but the confinement of the animal heat in the can gives the milk a putrid taste, and the milk-germing of the animal heat in the milk generates the poison called tyrotoxin. Aerating milk does not interfere with the rising of the cream, makes the milk keep longer, and the cream from it makes better butter.

H. W. Koonce of The Peoples' Store is just opening up a large assortment of holiday goods suitable for presents. Before buying examine our goods and prices.

Always stop at the Hotel Waverly.

LEGAL NEWS.

Court met Monday noon for the trial of civil cases, and since our report of last week the following cases have been disposed of: D. B. White and A. J. Alcorn vs. Benj. James McMahon, of Allegheny twp., slipped and fell last week and broke one leg in two places.

Mrs. Sarah Beck, of Worth twp., fell and broke one of her limbs, last week.

Wm. Tannehill, of Centreville, met with an accident a few days ago that might have cost him his life. While up in his hay mow he fell through, and both feet caught in the floor or poles, and he hung head down for some time before his cries were heard and he was released.

Dr. Wm. Linnenbrink of Zelenofe was struck by a train in Rochester, Pa., on Monday of last week, and died soon after. The news says: He left home on the morning train to go to New Castle. Once there, he decided to continue to Rochester to visit his brothers and sister. After his arrival in Rochester, he was engaged in conversation by several parties at a social conversation in life. He was last seen alive about 7 p. m., when he started to his brother's home (old homestead) using a common foot-path—a slating in the yard near Rochester. This path being hand fast to a main track, of which change Dr. Linnenbrink was in ignorance. He later on the plot of the engine, indicating the instrument of his sudden death. He was found in an unconscious condition about 8 o'clock. A deep gash was cut in the back of his head, his left arm crushed and very likely that his right arm rendered helpless by his injuries. Despite all attention and skill, he never regained consciousness. His remains were placed on Friday afternoon, Nov. 25, from the home of his brother Albert Rev. Durst, the official organ of the Society, by the family lot in the Rochester cemetery.

P. L. S. Reunion. The Penn. Literary Society of Butler celebrated its 10th anniversary, in the Y. M. C. A. building, last Friday evening by a reunion and banquet.

Mr. Wm. McDowell, President of the society with other members, and proved himself a second Chaucer Deput. Miss Wing made the address of welcome and John G. McFarland the response, which were followed by recitations, essays and vocal and instrumental music.

Professors were then served and before leaving the tables each person present drew a selection from some author, after which all repaired to the recreation room where the merry exercises were continued. The reading of the Penn. Wiper, the official organ of the Society, by Dr. H. Vincent of Slippery rock, was a number of the organizers and all had a good time.

The Witch. Thrusday, Dec. 1st.

Maria Hubert Friedman will play a return engagement at the Opera House.

"The Witch" is a play that is American in every line. It has been produced in the United States Senatorial, although she declines to make a "scrabble" for the place. She is the first female candidate for the upper house of Congress, and has received many letters of encouragement from the men of Kansas, although but one woman's name was written to her. She will not withdraw from the race.

Empire William wants to increase his army of our millionaires. He is a man of peace. According to the chronicles of Mark Twain, the great West once produced a man named William who loved peace and who would have peace if he had to fight for it.

Wilson Kennedy of Adams twp. has been appointed collector for the township.

J. A. McFarland who is the twp. to attend to the charge of manure in connection with the Homestead riots, in the Allegheny Co. Court, last week, is a son of Jesse Critch. He is a former member of the Pennsylvania Critchlow, who lost a leg in the battle of Homestead a few days ago, is a son of Jesse Critchlow, dead, and brother of Rev. J. O. Critchlow, who dropped dead in Pittsburg, some years ago.

Mrs. M. E. Lease, the Kansas woman who has figured with such picturesque prominence in the recent political history of that State, is a person of very positive character and masculine bent. When she identified herself with the Farmers' Alliance and took the stump, it was, as she said, "because the men had no room for a woman." As a speaker she is forcible without being eloquent. She is now an active candidate for the United States Senatorial, although she declines to make a "scrabble" for the place. She is the first female candidate for the upper house of Congress, and has received many letters of encouragement from the men of Kansas, although but one woman's name was written to her. She will not withdraw from the race.

"Sunshine" by Dr. Willis, Monday evening. "Into no single night in the memory of the writer has he ever had so much of the light, vitality, and abundance of the true philosophy of pure, sweet 'sunshine' life compressed into his experience. The speaker is a living representative of his theme; the incarnation in words, life and thought of the thing, vitalized, and glowing with the action to the word, his familiar appropriation of the poets, his ready adaptability of expression, suiting the word to the action, his rational common-sense views of the true state of happiness, with his pleasing, and impressive manner of presenting his subject, made it of the most fascinating character. Above all this, his reverence for the sacred word which seemed to permeate his entire theme, added a deep charm to the attractiveness of the thing. It was a sensible thing, which should illuminate every household in Haverma; its influence must be elevating and ennobling."

Schuman Lady Quartette for Friday evening. "The quartette is not surpassed by any other club. The four voices which seemed to render the ladies seem to be made of very substance.
