

THE CITIZEN. THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1899.

Will Quay be Admitted. Congress meets next Monday week, and on the question of Quay's admission as a member of the Senate, the Pittsburgh Times says: "That body must soon take up this important question. Even were there not an unbroken line of precedents extending from the earliest years of Federal history down to the last Congress in cases where legislatures had failed to elect it is difficult to see how the Senate can constitutionally seat Col. Quay upon the credentials which he will present to that body."

There are but two ways in which a title to a seat in the United States Senate can be given, election by a Legislature and, under certain constitutional limitations, appointment by the Governor. That Col. Quay was not elected by the Legislature is not in dispute. The Constitution of the United States thus regulates the power of appointment by the Governor of any State.

And if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, during the recess of the Legislature of any State, the Governor may fill the vacancy until the next meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill the vacancy which shall then fill the vacancy.

The vacancy in one of the United States Senatorships from Pennsylvania did not occur "during the recess of the Legislature." It occurred on March 4, 1899, when the Legislature adjourned for a Senator to fill it. In strict purport of the law governing Senate elections, it continued to ballot daily until adjournment. It was a plain, clear case of a Legislature failing to elect, and was in no sense a case which made it proper and right for the Governor to appoint.

So plain and clear was the case that Gov. Stone himself recognized it. The Constitution of Pennsylvania thus provides: "In case of a vacancy in the office of United States Senator from this Commonwealth in a recess between sessions, the Governor shall convene the two houses, by a joint session, to elect a Senator to fill it."

This is the constitutional mandate. Gov. Stone did not "convene the two houses, by proclamation, on notice not exceeding sixty days, to fill the vacancy." He did not "convene the two houses, by a joint session, to elect a Senator to fill it." He did not "convene the two houses, by a joint session, to elect a Senator to fill it."

The administration has taken a forward step of far-reaching importance in directing the American ambassadors to obtain from the governments of France, Germany and Russia written assurances that our trade with China will not be made subject to any special tariff or other disadvantageous treatment.

The Goebettes tried to have the whole vote of Louisville, thrown out, because Gov. Bradley ordered out the militia.

The official vote of Kentucky gives Taylor, Rep., for Governor, a majority of 2,322 over Goebel.

Samuel Salter, deputy coroner of Philadelphia; Joseph G. Rodgers, lieutenant of the police, of Washington, D. C.; and Clarence M. Moore, employed in the copyright division of the Congressional library, were last Friday held in $1,800 bail for trial on the charge of conspiracy to make fraudulent election returns in Philadelphia. The arrest of the three men was the outcome of testimony adduced at the hearing last week of several residents of Washington, who had been arrested in Philadelphia on a similar charge.

Voting machines were used at the recent election in Buffalo, Rochester and Ithaca, N. Y. All these reports are the most favorable and satisfactory results. In Ithaca, for example, the full returns were known within 17 minutes after the polls closed.

Over in Westmoreland county the Prothroner and leaders of both parties put on five watchers who stayed up all night and watched the Prothroner's office in order to see that the election returns were not tampered with. On account of the closeness of the Judicial contest it was presumed that an effort would be made to change the returns.

Ex-Lieut. Gov. L. A. Waters attended the meeting of Independent Republicans at Philadelphia, Tuesday, and afterwards expressed himself as follows: "As the gathering was one of Republicans who are anxious to bring about a better condition in the politics of the State, I attended the meeting, believing it to be that the necessary steps for better methods in the conduct of public affairs. I may have something definite to say later on."

LYDITE, a new explosive used by the British in the shells which they are throwing at the Boers which surround Ladysmith, causes frightful havoc. We are informed that "Boers fell dead in heaps at every explosion of one of these shells, but the Boers were dismounted, and so awful was the slaughter that General Joubert sent a formal note to General White protesting against the use of Lydite as unfair in war between civilized nations."

THE AFRICAN WARR. A native who arrived at the English camp at Estcourt last Thursday, reported a severe engagement as having taken place on the 10th, during which the Boer's General Joubert was killed, but it was afterwards denied. The Boers captured several armoured trains from the English, and were yet bombarding Ladysmith, while a large force was moving south on Estcourt where a great battle will probably be fought.

THE PHILIPPINE REPORT.

The preliminary report of the Philippine Commission is by far the most important contribution that has been made to our knowledge of the situation in the archipelago and towards a right understanding of our obligations and duties there. It was written after a thorough investigation by men who wished to find out the truth. It is authoritative and, for present purposes, final. To our thinking, it leaves no room for further controversy.

The conclusions of the commissioners are not a mere matter of opinion, but are supported by a large mass of evidence which will be presented with their final report. The most important facts shown are these:

- 1. We made no alliance with Aguinaldo.
2. He deliberately provoked war with us.
3. His insurrection is not a struggle for independence in any such sense as the struggle of the American colonists was; for if he could succeed in war, his success would be followed by anarchy.
4. The inhabitants of Luzon, as well as those of the other islands, are yet ignorant of the true situation of affairs.
5. The beginnings of self government are not yet in evidence in any of the towns where it has already been inaugurated.

6. The only honorable and possible thing to do is to hold the archipelago, and to develop both its people and its resources, which are valuable.

There can be no doubt that the argument, it seems to us, about these fundamental propositions, which are all fortified by Mr. Worcester in this number of the Weekly, Mr. Worcester is the highest authority that we have on the condition of civilization, as well as on the natural history of the archipelago. He is a student of the people whose language he speaks and whom he has known for many years, and of the resources of the islands. He was once opposed to our permanent occupation, but he now regards it as our duty.

The testimony of such a man is worth a hundred testimonies of any other kind. It is the testimony of a man who has been in the Philippines for many years, who has seen the people and their life, who has seen the people and their life, who has seen the people and their life.

This wonderful ability of the Japanese is shown by the fact that almost everywhere in that country English and American instructors in the colleges and factories are being supplanted by natives. They wish it plainly understood, says Commercial Intelligence, that Japan is for the Japanese. A student at the university planned a work of great interest. He conceived the idea of building a canal to connect two lakes of different altitudes. He tunneled mountains and overcame other difficulties, and he succeeded in connecting the two lakes. He is a man of great ability and energy.
