

GOOD LIVING

Quite often results in bad health, because what is termed "good living" is usually the gratification of the palate without reference to the nutrition of the body. When the good liver is a business man, a full meal to plunge at once into work requiring mental effort the result is almost sure to be disastrous, because digestion draws upon the same reserves of force which are employed in thought. In time the stomach and each becomes diseased, the processes of digestion and nutrition are imperfectly performed, there is a physical breakdown.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures all cases of indigestion, flatulence, gas, and other ailments of the stomach and bowels, and eliminates the effects of indigestion, which originates in the system as a consequence of imperfect digestion. It gives sound health to the whole body.

It is such to say to the world that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved a great blessing to the human race. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands of cases of indigestion, flatulence, gas, and other ailments of the stomach and bowels, and eliminates the effects of indigestion, which originates in the system as a consequence of imperfect digestion. It gives sound health to the whole body.

FARM AND GARDEN

NITRATE OF SODA.

Effect of Frequent and Liberal Doses on Cabbages.

The New Jersey agricultural station has made some interesting field experiments with nitrate of soda on cabbage, celery, tomatoes, sweet corn and other crops. In the case of cabbage the land was productive and each became diseased, the processes of digestion and nutrition are imperfectly performed, there is a physical breakdown.

The first application of nitrate of soda is to be made in the case of those crops which grow from the seed when the plants have made a good start. In the case of crops growing from transplanted plants the first application of nitrate is to be made when the plants are set. The time of the second and third applications is to be determined by the character of the season and the growth of the crop, and this period may vary from two to four weeks. There were five plots which yielded as follows:

Plot	Weight of heads, lb.	Total gain per acre, lb.	Gain per head, lb.
Plot 1	340	27	$2.15
Plot 2	1,179	13	$2.15
Plot 3	1,179	39	$2.55
Plot 4	1,179	35	$2.83
Plot 5	2,179	35	$2.83

The average gain for all the plots was 1,257 heads per acre, or more than three times as many as on plot 1. The influence of amount applied is also strikingly illustrated. The average gain from the application of 400 pounds of nitrate per acre was 1,450 heads, and the gain from the application of 300 pounds per acre was 1,125, an increase from the extra 100 pounds of 325—that is, the extra 100 pounds, while not causing the same rate of increase in the number of heads as did each 100 pounds of the first 300 applied, did cause a more perfect development of plants. In other words, the larger application resulted in the most satisfactory crop even though the plants did not economically use the larger amounts applied.

Pleanty and Often Does It.

The method of application may be partly responsible for the difference in the yields from the different quantities of nitrate. In fact, the combination of extra quantity and extra application on plot 5 resulted in giving the largest number of marketable heads, the largest average weight per head and the highest selling price.

Waste of Corn Fodder.

In Missouri it is safe to estimate that something like 1,000,000 tons of corn fodder are grown in the average year. Certainly 3,000,000 tons, or one-half of all that is produced, is wasted. The average hay crop of the state is scarcely more than 3,000,000 tons and is estimated to be worth on the farm over $20,000,000. Yet a large proportion of this hay is timothy, a material that supplies the same class of nutrients for our stock that is found in corn fodder.—H. J. Waters, Missouri.

Canadian Wrinkles With Slilage.

The Canadian method of preventing the souring of silage is said to be to fill the bottom of the silo to a depth of three feet with corn cobs. There will be no loss, as the straw will be eaten by stock as readily as it will be silage. Another method is to scatter pieces of marble (carbonate of lime) the size of an egg on top of each four feet of filling. The carbonic acid gas generated will expel the lighter oxygen and prevent fermentation.

A Tip on Soft Corn.

Leave your soft corn on the stalk until it is very dry, and then cut it. It will become withered in drying or else be apt to rot or sour. With proper care there should be no loss in soft corn, as the green stalk furnishes sufficient substance to mature the ear or nearly so without much withering. Keep it dry and it makes the finest feed for stock, says West Virginia in National Stockman.

The Paris Monstrous.

Paris has been described as a gigantic metropolis with three doors labeled, respectively, hotel, cafe and restaurant. The city has about 10,000 hotels. There are restaurants in every block, and you can find cafes at almost every step. At almost any restaurant you are sure of good cooking. You can eat well anywhere and at any price. There are scores of places where the meals cost as high as in the better restaurants of New York and hundreds where you can eat for a very fair dinner for 50 cents, or if you would have wine, for 10 cents additional. There is one stock company which does an enormous business in supplying cheap and good food for Parisians. It was founded by a butcher who has his shops still in different parts of the city. This company has 100 or more restaurants where you can always be sure of good, hot, and good food. You pay for what you eat and you pay for everything, but the prices are low.

Napoleon's Temper.

A story is told of a sudden rage into which Napoleon I. fell one day as he was at dinner. He had scarce partaken of a mouthful when apparently some inopportune thought or recollection struck his brain to madness, and, rising from the table without rising from his chair—his small stature permitted that—he upflung his foot—dash went the table, and the emperor sprang up, intending to pace the room. Quick as a flash his white cravat fell a magic symbol on the floor, and the emperor's check had grown more than double. Napoleon appreciated the delicacy of his situation and said, "Thank you, my dear friend," with one of his lightning smiles. The hurricane had blown over.
