

ACCIDENT?

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death on the man who fell from the window ledge on which he had fallen asleep. But the death was really due to carelessness which made the accident possible.

There are a great many lives suddenly terminated as a result of carelessness, although the medical certificate may read "heart failure."

When a man takes chances with his stomach and neglects the warning symptoms of disease, he is courting a fatal calamity.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, which makes strength. It stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and removes bilious impurities from the blood.

"I had been troubled with a pain in lower part of stomach for three years, so that I could hardly eat. I had a great deal of trouble with it, and I had to take medicine. I used stomach bitters for a time, but it did me no good. I wrote to Dr. E. V. Pierce for advice, which he gave me immediately. I followed his directions, and in a few days I was feeling better. COST OF TRAIN LUXURY.

The Reason That Railway Passenger Rates Are So High.

It may be asked why the railway locomotive does not pull passengers at a lower rate. Because it gives passengers so much room, comfort and high speed that it has to carry a ton of weight for each passenger. A locomotive weighing 100 tons pulls at 45 miles an hour 12 cars weighing 600 tons and containing 700 people weighing 40 tons each, assuming that passengers to be men, women and children, but chiefly men, and to average 131 pounds each; 1,400 pounds of dead weight per passenger when every inch of track has to be made very heavy in order to get the great strength made necessary by high speed.

The railway carries free the passenger's 150 pounds and sends with him toilet rooms, heating stoves and fuel, smoking rooms, dining rooms and bedrooms. These houses on wheels and the locomotive which draws them have to be made very heavy in order to get the great strength made necessary by high speed.

If the railway could dispense with these comforts and luxuries and carry passengers packed closely inside and on top of low roofed, ramshackle, unheated vehicles like the old stage and stage coach, it could pull passengers at one-tenth to one-twentieth the price of the old stage.—Engineering Magazine.

North Pole For Bald Heads.

"Talking of hair restorers," said the captain of a steamer who has been a captain of the arctic regions. A man with thin hair who falls to get a new crop if he goes within the arctic circle is a hopeless case. I have seen whalers who got bald when they stayed at home for a year or two and got a new crop of hair every time they went toward the north pole on a whaling expedition.

"How do I account for it?" The farther you go north the land animals get skinner. It is a provision against the cold. When the arctic winter approaches, the reindeer, the bears and other animals get a thicker coat of hair or fur. Similarly the hair on the human head thickens when you go far north.

"It is a fact. Now, I don't want you to think that once the follicles of the hair are dead new hair always comes, even in northern regions. Sometimes, when a man is apparently as bald as a billiard ball, the follicles are not dead, and he helps for him."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Quaint Old Will.

"My hobby is the collection of strange wills," said a retired sea captain. "I have gathered together copies of over fifty odd testaments, and fine reading some of them are. One over 200 years old, bequeaths what do you think? Why, it bequeaths its maker's soul to God. This is the way it reads: 'In Del nomine, Amen, the year of our Lord 1541, the XXIX day of May, I, Robert Pedigrew, holo of mynd and mem'ry, make my testament and last will, yn forme and manner following: First, I bequeath my soul to Almighty God, and my body to be buryd yn the churchyard of North Cadbury. I bequeath to mye second Richard a cowe, a calf, the second best grass panner, II platters, II dysalls of pewter, and an akar of wheat, an akar of drage, and an akar of medow. To my daughter Alice, a cowe. To my son Theobald, my old ox. The residue of my goods, not bequeathed, I give to Mawde, my Wyffe.'"—Philadelphia Record.

Corals of Our Own Coast.

It is a common notion that corals grow only in tropical and subtropical waters and that no coral reefs are to be found along our own familiar coasts. As a matter of fact, coral formations stretch all along the eastern coast of the United States, although the reefs do not rise so high that they project from the water. Some of the most beautiful of the living coral in the New York aquarium was dredged up from the Atlantic ocean within sight of the city of New York, and there are many coral patches still closer to the shore. Generally the northern coral is snow white, although sometimes it has a delicate brown tint. Pink coral is found occasionally, but it is rare.

A Bargain.

Fred—Kitty didn't marry that millionaire duffer after all, did she?
 Jack—No, he backed out, and she sued him for breach of promise.
 Fred—What damages?
 Jack—Twenty-five thousand, and she got it.
 Fred—Clear case of $25,000 off for cash, wasn't it? I didn't think Kitty was so sharp at driving a bargain.—Comstock.

The Friendly Catfish.

There is a species of fish that never looks at the clothes of the man who throws in the bait, a fish that takes whatever is thrown to it, and when once hooked, the hook never tries to shake a friend, but submits to the inevitable, crosses his legs and says "Now I lay me" and comes out on the bank and seems to enjoy being taken. It is a fish that is a friend of the poor, and one that will sacrifice itself in the interest of humanity. That is the fish that the states should adopt as its trademark and cultivate friendly relations with and stand by. We allude to the bullhead. The bullhead never went back on a friend.

To catch the bullhead it is not necessary to tempt his appetite with a portebouse steak or to display an expensive lot of fishing tackle. A ptm blob, a piece of liver and a chicken pole are all the capital he requires to catch a bullhead. He lies upon the bottom of a stream or pond in the mud thinking. There is no fish that does more thoughtful work than the bullhead for great questions or chunks of liver than the bullhead. The bullhead has a fine india rubber skin that is as far ahead of all other materials for strength and durability as possible.

The Iron Pillar of Delhi.

The famous iron pillar of Delhi is dealt with in Cassell's Magazine. The pillar is a solid shaft of wrought iron, sixteen inches in diameter and of a length of 23 feet. It is reported, the total length is from forty-eight to sixty feet under ground and above, including a capital of three and one-half feet. The pillar contains about eighty cubic feet of metal and weighs about seventeen tons. The metal is, of course, charcoal iron, made directly from ore in small billets; but how it was rolled up no one can tell, not a record exists of any early method of dealing with great masses of wrought iron. An inscription roughly cut or punched upon the column states that Rajah Dhara subdued a people in the Surdhu, named Vahlukos, and obtained with his own arm an undivided sovereignty on the earth for a long period. The date of the inscription has been referred to the third or fourth century after Christ, but on this authorities are at variance.

Another Name For It.

"And now," said the inquisitive person who had been asking all sorts of pertinent questions of the raw-boned mountaineer who sat at his cabin door smoking a corncob pipe—"now I will explain to you why I have been so inquisitive. I am a sociological investigator and I am doing this in the interest of science and humanity."

"How things do change!" remarked the mountaineer as he leisurely stretched himself. "Whenst I were a boy we called you kind o' people der 'nosed meddlers.'"—Baltimore American.
