ALL FOR A NICKEL.

Anyone who fails to get a copy of The Pittsburg Dispatch next Sunday, July 1, will miss a rare treat. Everyone knows The Dispatch is the "best of all," but there are some reasons why Sunday's paper will sell for a nickel, other paper in this or any other territory.

First, a beautiful picture, 10x15, worth framing and fit to adorn the wall of any room in any house, will be given absolutely free.

Next Sunday's Dispatch will contain the first part of "The Lady Evelyn" by Max Pemberton—a novel of charming romance, lightning action, extraordinary mystery. It cost $100,000 to secure the right to publish this novel and eleven others before they are published in book form. The Dispatch was successful in securing the right to publish one of its territory—our complete novel every month.

The Four per cent. Negotiable Certificates of Deposits issued by the Pittsburg Bank for Savings, of Pittsburg, Pa., are deservedly popular. The readers of this paper having funds on hand and desiring a safe and profitable investment for the same should write the bank for a free copy of their booklet—Certificates of Deposits. Mention this paper when writing.
