The Allee Case

Special to the Gazette. AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 10.—The taking of testimony in the Allee case began this morning. Dr. J. W. Williams, who examined the body of the deceased, Bowen, on June 20, testified as to the number and character of the wounds inflicted.

Albert Lewis, a rancher, testified to a conversation between Allee and Bowen, in Cotulla, May 9, when Allee told Bowen to keep his name out of his paper or he would hunt him down like a coyote.

Capt. Almon Millet testified that a few days after this quarrel he rode with Allee from Cotulla to San Antonio, and remonstrated with him for his abusive language to Bowen. Allee seemed to regret it and said that he had made no threat, and that if he could sell his cattle, he would go away.

Hedspeh Caught.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 10.—Marion Hedspeh, the noted Missouri desperado, wanted in St. Louis for connection with the Glendale, Mo., train robbery, was arrested at the postoffice today by Capt. Lees and a detective. Hedspeh was taken to Capt. Lees' office, where two revolvers, a roll of greenbacks, aggregating $300, $200 in gold and a number of diamond rings and other jewelry were found on him.

The El Reno Lot Jumpers.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Feb. 10.—Secretary Nobles telegraphs that Forman has been granted a rehearing in the case involving the title of all El Reno property and purchasers under his hold possession now and will be given title by special act of congress in case Forman's title is cancelled.

Sensational Charges.

DENVER, Col., Feb. 10.—A very sensational document was filed in the district court by the American water company in the form of a complaint sworn to by C. H. Venner, vice-president of the company, and chairman of the finance committee. It asks for recovery of a large sum of money from Dennis Sullivan, who, for several years, has been vice-president and a director of the company.

He Was Acquitted.

NEWPORT, Ark., Feb. 10.—Luko Cortney, who killed a man named Wilson at Blackwell's sawmill two months ago, was yesterday acquitted. The evidence showed that Cortney killed Wilson for uttering vile things about his (Cortney's) mother.

Over the Bridge.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 10.—Yesterday afternoon as a large number of attendants of the East St. Louis races were returning across Eads bridge, one of them, an unknown man, suddenly mounted the railing and jumped into the river, reviving several times in the descent. The body was not recovered. It is believed he was a heavy loser on the races.

Instantly Killed.

SEDAVIA, Mo., Feb. 10.—William Parmelee, an attorney of this city, shot and instantly killed J. W. Conner, a Missouri Pacific brakeman, yesterday. The trouble grew out of a quarrel which had been going on for some time between the two men.

Chinese Throats Cut.

PHOENIX, A. T., Feb. 10.—Two Chinese, Lee Wong and De Mong, had their throats cut from ear to ear by a Chinese railroad camp last night and their watches and several hundred dollars in money stolen.

A Green Goods Man.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 10.—Richard Clarkson, alias Cronin, giving his address as Brooklyn, N. Y., was arrested here on a charge of swindling, January 29. A. G. Luder of Weightville, Ga., by means of the green goods game, when Clarkson was searched green goods circulators were found upon him, also a telegram from

J. G. Ecklar, Jeffersonville, Ky., making an engagement to meet him in this city. Ecklar was found in Hotel Waverly and placed under arrest and taken to headquarters, where he is held as a witness.

Saloon Man Stabbed.

WACO, Tex., Feb. 10.—Jim Williams, proprietor of a saloon here, was stabbed late last night by Charles Heidem, a Norwegian carpenter. It is alleged that Heidem had been loafing about the saloon all day creating a disturbance by loud and boisterous language. About 11 o'clock last night he entered the saloon, and drawing a ugly-looking knife, said to Williams who was behind the bar: "I have come to settle with you." During the scuffle which ensued Williams was stabbed twice, once directly over the heart and once on the left arm. Heidem was placed under arrest and confined in the county jail. Williams' wounds are serious, although not necessarily fatal.

Trouble in Mississippi.

PORT GIBSON, Miss., Feb. 10.—The most intense excitement has prevailed for the past three days at Brandywine, this county, over a sensational robbery of Mrs. N. J. Cannon by three negroes. Two negro men were arrested by Sunday and hanged until unconscious. In an effort to extort a confession, they were afterwards lodged in Martin jail, but were brought here for safe keeping. Rumors of a mob forming at Martin to storm the jail inspired the sheriff to convey the prisoners to Vicksburg. More trouble is feared.

ABOUT A MILLION

Dollars Went Up in Flames in Cincinnati.

FINE PAINTINGS DESTROYED.

Carved Furniture From Rome Burned. Bank Building Crushed by Falling Walls—Prisoners Taken from the Station House.

Huge Fire at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Feb. 10.—A fire which in destructiveness is one of the most far-reaching of any ever in Cincinnati, started early this evening in a building occupied by Eschel & Bornheim, auctioneers and storage commission dealers. Next door north was the warehouse of the American oak leather company. The two buildings constitute a block and are five stories high. Fire thoroughly destroyed the portion occupied by Eschel & Bornheim and badly wrecked the portion of the building occupied by the American oak leather company. On Main street south of Eschel & Bornheim is the Commercial bank. Also next south of the building was the Hammond street police station. The roof of the Commercial bank was crushed in the same manner. These two buildings were the scene of the great mid-winter fire in 1878, when occupied by Pollak Wilson. The loss on the two structures will be probably $300,000. In the Eschel & Bornheim building the goods consist of consignments of goods from all parts of the country for sale. Among these is a large consignment of carved furniture from Rome, Italy. The storage department contained household goods of 150 families who are absent abroad. It also contained a large collection of valuable paintings, the work of Henry Mosler, the artist. Eschel said tonight that he could not estimate the value of the goods in the store and on consignments, but said the store and basement were crowded. Men who have an opportunity to know estimate the loss of Henry Mosler at $20,000 at least. One painting in his collection is valued at $10,000. The Eschel & Bornheim insurance company's stock is $100,000. Insurance in auction and storage rooms was made principally by owners and consignors. Other insurance is not obtainable at present writing.

NAVAJOS

MAKE A BREAK AT COWBOYS NEAR COOLIDGE.

First the Boys Run, and Then When They Get Reinforcements the Indians Quietly Steal Away.

COOLIDGE, N. M., Feb. 10.—Serious trouble thus arisen between the Navajo Indians and cattlemen in the vicinity of this place. For some time past the renegade portion of the Navajo have been off the reservation killing and driving away the cattle of the cattlemen belonging to ranchers in the country surrounding Coolidge. The superintendent of the "Bix" ranch and other cattlemen had an interview with Mariano, the chief of the Navajos, and he promised to keep his Indians off the cattle ranges and prevent further killing of cattle, but requested ten days to remove them. This was granted him. He, however, soon returned and requested leave for his Indians to go upon the cattlemen's ranges in order to obtain supplies from the trading store at Chavez station. This was refused and on Tuesday when three Indians were seen coming down the trail towards Chavez, a gang of cowboys, under the leadership of Harry Cody, and his inmates, followed them to turn back. This action angered the Indians, and they immediately ascended the bluff near, built a fire signal and called on their tribes for assistance. It was not long before forty more Indians arrived on the scene and presented a war-like front to the cowboys. As the latter were outnumbered they did not precipitate a fight and succeeded in pacifying the Indians. The Indians claimed that the cowboys had burned their camp on cattle ranges which they had been forced to leave, and swore that they would obtain revenge. They then left Chavez, going in the direction of San Antonio ranch occupied by a man named Coddington, and which they threatened to burn. Harry Cody, his mother and two men were the only ones at the ranch when the Indians arrived. They were greatly terrified when the latter while riding by began yelling and shooting. No one was hurt. The Indians, apparently being satisfied with the way they had done, silently rode away. Harry Cody mounted his pony and rode sixteen miles to Coalinga for assistance. In a short time fifteen cowboys started for the ranch, arriving there late at night. All was quiet when they reached there and nothing more has been seen of the Indians. The cowboys remained at the ranch till noon to-day when they were relieved by Lieut. Wallace of troop H, Second cavalry and ten men from Fort Wingate. The soldiers will remain there as long as necessary to protect the ranch and its inmates from any hostilities on the part of the Indians. It is thought that they will return to their reservation when they have time to consider the folly of their action. Everything is quiet at Chavez and its vicinity this evening.

THE GREAT DODGER.

Garza Seemingly Out of Harm's Way on the Border.

THE FORCE IS LARGE ENOUGH

To Catch Him if Properly Distributed and the Troops Used to the Best Advantage—Gen. Mabry on the Situation.

A Will o' the Wisp.

Special to the Gazette. AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 8.—By this time the adjutant-general is once more in Austin, after some decidedly interesting experiences in the field with his rangers and other allied forces, looking for that revolutionary will o' the wisp, Garza.

The forces under Adjutant-General Mabry have brought their present foray to an end by making a most successful march up into the country about Lagarto. There is the point where Garza was to be met, and gathering last week, the point which would have been the scene of his capture, had not some one "let his foot slip."

As it was, the rangers, some forty strong, accompanied by Sheriff Shanley and several deputies, made a hurried march up the neighborhood of the rendezvous, and though the fugitives had been warned of their coming, they succeeded in capturing twelve or fifteen prisoners. They captured them and then they turned back, losing again, a programme which seems to have been easy to follow, for though the men were caught with guns in their hands there was no proof that they were revolutionists, and though there was a moral certainty that they were on their way to a meeting with the revolutionary chiefs, there was no way of fixing it upon them, and there was no alternative but to order their release.

Most valuable information was gained by the adjutant-general, however, in no question but Mr. Garza will suffer from it should he attempt to get his friends together again in the near future, as there is little question but he will.

The adjutant-general stated to THE GAZETTE correspondent that he was fully satisfied there

ARE ENOUGH MEN now in the field to successfully cope with and capture the fugitives if they were only arranged in strategic positions with an eye to their especial fitness for the different kinds of field work for which they are trained.

He says he has already talked with several of the United States captains now in the field and they not only agree with him, but have expressed their intention of bringing the matter before the attention of Gen. Stanley at San Antonio, with a view of getting his opinion on the subject.

This arrangement would have suggested the propriety of increasing the force of rangers in the field, but Gen. Mabry is positive not a man more is needed. He would station one company of Federal troops, Los Angeles, one at Realitos, one at Rendato and one at Palmito Blanco, where they could all be in touch, prepared to act at a moment's notice, all working in concert and all co-operating with the state troops.
