MISSISSIPPI REPORT.

Records From Nitta Yuma, Edwards, Clinton and Champion. Jackson, Miss., October 4.—The State board of health today issued the following: Immediately on receipt of a telegram last night from Health Officer Hall, announcing four cases of yellow fever at Nitta Yuma, the board wired to Mr. M. M. Gilles, general manager of the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railway, to run all trains on the main line from Rolling Fork to Land, thus avoiding running through the infected districts. Mr. Gilles kindly consented to do this.

The board instructed Rev. George C. Harris at Nitta Yuma to put a cord of guards around the village and not to allow anyone to go in or out. Dr. Harris replied that the instructions had been complied with and asked for a physician, as the resident physician had refused to treat the cases, being non-immune. Dr. H. Metcalf of Natchez was requested to go at once to Nitta Yuma and take charge of the patients. He consented to do so and General Manager Gilles furnished him a special train. Dr. Harris at Nitta Yuma reported Miss Thompson as extremely ill today.

A suspicious case being reported at Union Church, Jefferson county, Dr. Carradine, health officer, was called to investigate the case and report at once. Dr. Carradine reported that all patients are doing well and does not think the disease is yellow fever. The following report was received from Dr. Dunn at Edwards at 6 p. m.: The situation here is fairly good, considering the circumstances. There have been reported eighteen new cases, seven white and eleven colored; ten cases seriously ill; two with black vomit; two deaths. Rev. Father Prendergast is doing nicely. The days are quite warm and night cool.

Dr. Purcell, at Hampton Hill and found several cases among the negroes. Purnell reports four new cases (whites) in town and two deaths—Mrs. W. G. Redfield, Sr., and an infant son of P. H. Mount.

Dr. Burdett reports two new cases—Mrs. Colmyer and Estia Harris. Dr. Waldauer reports seven new cases—one white and six negroes; seriously ill, 4; one case of black vomit.

Another effort was made to get Dr. Dunn to Clinton, but the board was informed by Mayor Coleman that the sick in the quarantine district did not want Dr. Dunn, because he had come from an infected district and would not receive him in their homes and that the authorities of Clinton corporation, acting lawfully, did not want Dr. Dunn at Clinton at all.

THE BLOOM REPORT.

Fever Going Back Over Ground It Had Passed. Bloom, Miss., October 4.—The situation today is not materially changed save that the indications point to the fever going back over the ground traveled early, to get all that have been overlooked. It will be recalled that the fever was first located in that portion of the city known as Point Cadet, that for several weeks the locality has been free of any sickness. The Fever at Scranton. Ocean Springs, Miss., October 4.—Furzeon Murray returned today from Scranton and reports between forty and fifty cases of fever there with three deaths yesterday and one today. Many of the cases have been covered up. WILSON FAVORS THE SOUTH

Secretary of Agriculture Recognizes Her Great Resources.

INTERSTATE REFRIGERATING SYSTEM

A Transfer to Protect Perishable Products Proposed—The Negro Snubbed by McKinley.

Washington, October 4.—(Special.)—Another highly interesting talk with Hon. James Wilson, secretary of the agricultural department, on Southern matters pertaining to his branch of the government service, was had by The Post correspondent last week.

The secretary is one of those broad-gauged Northern men who, enthusiastically believing in the wonderful resources, the limitless possibilities of the Southern soil, would do all within his power to practically demonstrate his views. When in congress some years ago, a member of the house committee on agriculture, Mr. Wilson was a zealous advocate of a practical governmental policy toward the farming classes which he has now inaugurated as head of the agricultural department and to which he will devote his administration.

Unlike his predecessor, he was born and reared upon a farm, continued to be a farmer, and is enthusiastic on the subject of farming because he has made that vocation a life study, and has been highly successful in its pursuit.

Referring to his contemplated Southern trip, an account of which was exclusively published in this correspondence, Secretary Wilson said he would not be able to leave his desk here before November, owing to the preparation of his annual report, which must be printed and in the hands of the president before the opening of congress. His trip will probably be the secretary's first objective point, in reference to the proposed entente of the sugar beet in the volunteer State, the secretary believes the soil—the irrigation and the fertilizer—is highly adapted to it. He will also visit the sugar beet fields in the very best quality of sugar beet seed and in quantities to meet all demands.

"They are now very successfully producing the sugar beet in Virginia," said he. "I have just received an elaborate report on a beet sugar farm near Richmond, where this beet seed was planted as an experiment. The report is most gratifying. As a result of this experimental crop the beet is now being raised in the Old Dominion and neighboring States."

"There is another important subject upon which I am engaged—one that is of great importance to the gulf States. There is an interstate refrigerating transfer system by which the perishable food products of this section of the country can be shipped with safety and with profit to the farmer. Except for butter—not including margarine—there is at present no such arrangement. The establishment of this kind of transfer, if the refrigerator cars from boat to car and vice versa will be worth millions to the truck producer in the gulf States, whose market is now very limited by reason of this greatly needed auxiliary to successful shipment."

"As this department acted in the case of butter, in order that the world may be opened as a market for all the products of this great food producing section, it is my intention to expend as much as possible in the appropriations for this department in the introduction of a refrigerator refrigerating shipping system for all perishable products, so that the agriculturist may follow this object lesson of the government as he has so successfully done with his butter, and profit by it."

This administration has had more trouble over the distribution of its patronage in the South than it has for any other—perhaps all other—sections of the country. But of all the trouble of this kind given to McKinley and Hanna, the single State of Mississippi stands pre-eminently as the most consistent, persistent and pugnacious nuisance among the sisterhood of States. Much has been written concerning the different tribes or factions of the Mississippi republicans, and the dramatist Hoyt could not choose a more ludicrous theme and a faro comedy than the history of the Mississippi republicans for the traditional Federal pie.

From the 4th of March up to the present time Mississippi appointments have been a source of embarrassment to President McKinley. The Lynch crowd on the one hand and the Hill crowd on the other has been the cause of it all. Both Hill and Lynch have remained in Washington all the while, and like buzzards, were ready to swoop upon the administration and feed upon each other in their eagerness to get the biggest picking at a moment's notice. The result has been that in several instances the president has been misled and induced to appoint men he afterward discovered were not fit for the office. Mr. McKinley finally became convinced that these two negro bosses felt little if any interest in the public service, their desire being only to secure offices for their henchmen.

Mr. Henry Kernaghan, one of the ablest and staunchest republicans in the State, was a candidate for the office of postmaster at Jackson, Miss. He was supported by the best people in the State, but as he refused to recognize the leadership of these two bosses he was stubbornly opposed by both. Ex-Senator Bruce, who is recognized as the National leader on his race side, who, by the way, is honored and respected by all classes at Washington—carefully avoided engaging in this factional warfare and advised the president to appoint only the best people in the State of Mississippi, men who enjoyed the confidence of the people and whose appointment would reflect no discredit upon the administration. Mr. McKinley, taking Mr. Bruce's views, thereupon announced the appointment of Henry Herrington to be postmaster at Jackson.

Lynch and Hill, the negro bosses, who have heretofore dominated Mississippi politics, are rapidly losing their influence, and hereafter all recommendations made by them will be closely scrutinized. Ex-Senator Bruce is now McKinley's chief Mississippi adviser. It can be said to his credit that he is clear-headed and conservative and rarely makes a mistake in recommending men for office. He has been in public life for many years, and is one of the most agreeable men of his race, being known here as the negro Chesterfield. It is generally believed he will be appointed register of the treasury, a position he held for four years.

THE LUETGERT TRIAL.

THE DEFENSE PUT ON SEVERAL WITNESSES OF IMPEACHMENT.

The Controversy Over the Classification of Bones Was the Incident of the Day—Bone Sawing.

Chicago, October 4.—An unexpected turn of affairs occurred in the Luetgert trial during the afternoon session of the court. The defense suddenly dropped its line of expert testimony and put on witnesses to impeach the evidence of witnesses for the State. It was apparent that ex-Judge Vincent, chief counsel for the defense, had at last tired of the expert evidence, from which nothing was being gained and the controversy had become tiresome to the jury. The counsel for the defense observed this and stopped. This afternoon ex-Judge Vincent, Attorney Phalen, Arnold Luetgert and others who are interested in the defense, held a consultation relative to whether or not Luetgert should go on the witness stand. At the close of the conference tonight Judge Vincent said he had not decided upon the matter. It was intimated that Luetgert will be called to the witness stand tomorrow. In fact, it is expected that Luetgert will be called to explain matters and the leading counsel for the defense seems to fear the witnesses will talk too much if he goes on the stand and injure the case. State's Attorney Deenen said three weeks more ought to see the end of the case.

Professor Plummer of the Chicago Medical college, the second witness of the day, gave evidence much to the liking of the defense. After a brief examination of the temporal bone introduced by the State and positively identified by Professor Dorsey of the Old Columbian museum, as the right temporal of a woman, Dr. Plummer, with emphasis, declared the bone was not the temporal of a human being.

The battle of the bones was waged all day, one set of experts disputing the identification and theories of another. One of the points of the trial today was the sawing of a woman's head by Dr. Pierce and Dr. Rice. The operation was watched by Assistant State Attorney McEwan and ex-Judge Vincent. The bone sawing was done in a waiting room near the court house. The surgeons were slow and Judge Tully's growling impatient, sent a balliff after them remarking, "Those fellows have been out there long enough to saw a cord of wood."

Professor Hall of the Northwestern dental college and other experts in chemistry gave it as their opinion that the potash solution in the vault of sufficient destructive power to seriously affect the teeth.

Druggist B. F. Krueger, at whose store at Clayburne and Ashland avenues Frank Black bought a bottle of Hynudya water on the night of May 1, testified that Luetgert had desired one of six parts of this water. Thus it was sought to be shown why Luetgert sent for the water when he had nine bottles in his factory. There is a rumor to the effect that the woman had been found who will go to the witness stand and testify that she was the woman seen by the police and others at Kenosha, Wis., on May 2 and 4.
