REPRIATRIATION OF BOERS.
Return to South Africa is Limited by Circumstances.
Washington, August 23.—According to the report of United States Consul Morrey at Colombia, Ceylon, where a large number of Boer prisoners of war have been held captives, the repatriation of the prisoners
is not to take place at once, but will depend on the readiness of the colonial governments to receive them, as the circumstances of the Boer colonies do not admit of the return of unlimited numbers at one time. Foreign prisoners of war who do not claim to be burghers, will not be permitted to return to South Africa. They must be handed over to their country's representatives, who will make special arrangements for moving them. For otherwise they must wait until the British government finds it convenient to repatriate
them.

ROOSEVELT ON THE TRUSTS.

President Roosevelt Discussed the Matter at Boston.

SAID IT WAS USELESS TO REGRET THE GROWTH OF COMBINES.

The Problem of Control Demands Broader and More Effective Laws.

CONFLICT BETWEEN STATE AND NATIONAL LEGISLATION HAS GROWN GREATER.

Consolidation of Legislative Power in the National Government is Recommended as a Method of Controlling Illegal Combinations.

Boston, Mass., August 23.—The week's work for President Roosevelt in his trip through New England began in earnest this afternoon when he departed from the summer home of the justice senator from Massachusetts, Henry Cabot Lodge, at Nahant, and amid the enthusiasm of the greatest number of people he has faced since the Pittsburg visit on July 4, rode into Lynn under cavalry escort and spoke from a platform in the city hall. Then he was taken to Boston by special train and there addressing a great gathering of Boston business men, his speech here was devoted almost entirely to consideration of the trust question. From the hall the president went to the Hotel Touraine, where a little later in the evening he was the guest of Governor Crane at dinner.

Tomorrow morning bright and early the presidential party will start for Maine. MAMMOTH CROWD AT LYNN. Nahant and Lynn today again divided honors in welcoming the president. He spent a quiet morning and afternoon at the Lodge house and at 2:30 o'clock started for the platform in Nahant, where he was to deliver his address. Simultaneously with the starting of the procession a battery nearby fired a salute of twenty-one guns. As the president appeared on the platform he was loudly cheered. About fifteen minutes were consumed in his address. The drive from Nahant to Lynn occupied about twenty minutes. At the city hall the president was met by Mayor Shepherd and a committee and escorted to the city hall by two companies of militia and one of the naval brigade.

Mayor Shepherd introduced the president. It was, perhaps, the largest crowd which he has addressed since his visit to Pittsburg. After thanking the men of the national guard who had acted as his escort, the president stated there was but little he cared to say, because he had come to Massachusetts the less to teach than to learn. He then referred to the ability of Mr. Moody as secretary of the navy. Mr. Moody was on the platform.

"In the navy," he remarked, "we have got to have ships and good guns, but if you have not got anything else, the ships and the guns are worthless. You have got to have a man behind the gun," and at this he turned to Mr. Moody.

RECEPTION AT BOSTON. From the city hall the procession was taken to the depot, whence there was a wait for the special train to take the party to Boston. The president held an informal reception on the platform.

At Boston a brisk shower of rain failed to discourage the crowds that stood along the streets through which President Roosevelt passed on his way to the hall, where he addressed an audience of 5000 persons. From the moment of the president's arrival at the North Union station from Lynn, he was warmly acclaimed. He was officially welcomed by Governor Crane and Mayor Collins. The party was escorted to carriages and guarded by the first battalion of cavalry, proceeded to the hall. Here every seat and every inch of standing room had been taken. To the strains of "Hail to the Chief," played on the great organ, the president appeared on the stage, but the organ was soon silenced by the spontaneous wave of greeting.
