

W. B. Palmer, the American Newspaper Agent, is this week's Assistant for this paper in the cities of Boston, New York and Philadelphia...

A DOMESTIC DUETT, AS PERFORMED AT BREAKFAST TIME.

Romantic Husband—'Thou art my love—I have none other But only thee—but only thee'— Sensible Wife—'Now Charles do stop this silly bother, And drink your tea, your cooling tea'—

Romantic Husband—'Your eyes are diamonds,—your hair is gold, Your teeth are pearl, your hair is gold'— Sensible Wife—'O nonsense now—I know you'll find Your cutlets add,—exceeding good'—

DEATH WARRANT OF JESUS CHRIST.

Of the many interesting relics and fragments of antiquity which have been brought to light by the persevering researches of modern philosophy, none could have more interest to the philanthropist and the believers than the one we publish below...

The above sentence is engraved on a copper-plate on one side and written thus: 'A similar plate is sent to describe. It was found in an antique vase of white marble, while excavating in the ancient city of Aquila, in the kingdom of Naples, in the year 1829, and was discovered by the Commissioners of Arts of the French army.'

Young ladies are like jellies—as they are moulded so they will turn out. A coquette treats a lover like a bouquet—carries him about a certain time for amusement or show, and then picks him quietly to pieces.

Compliments are the sugar and sweet stuff which ornament the head of a cake in society. A wrinkle is the line by which Time generally travels. She who is too easily pleased with herself rarely succeeds in pleasing others.

The wheel of Fortune turns faster than those of a Hanscum cab. Don't sneer unless you're frightened. The last dance is the shortest and the sweetest. Ceremony on a Christmas Day is as out of place as a bonnet at the Opera.

Nothing falls so fast as a cold visit—excepting an amiable snuffler. The reins of a dog-cart should never be seen in the hands of a young lady. The worst ribbons you can handle are those of a four-in-hand.

Aspirations of a Hebeard—Oh, that the fashions would last as long as the bonnet. Chemistry of the Constitution—As soon as the Queen dissolves Parliament, the Parliament evaporates. The Wealth of the Nightingale—Notes and a Bill. Delicacy—An American young lady, a weekly newspaper having been left on her toilette table, refused to dress herself because there was an Observer in the room.

A Paradox—As ugly as a which is a proverbial saying, yet the Lancashire witches are the finest women in England, whilst it is not the fact that the smartest men are to be found in the county of Bucks. Police Society—The Institution of Civil Engineers. Cab—Vehicle of abuse. Hebeard—A slave of the ring. Corsage—Peculiar harmonizers. Exaggeration—Truth in a drop. Drunkenard—A victim to hydrophobia. Plagiarist—A thief in the world of authorship. Etiquette—French polish for English dinner-tables. An old maid is an odd boot—of no use without a fellow. Flowers of speech—For the most part are Passion flowers. The First Law of Gravity—Never to laugh at your own jokes. Passing Strange—A human lady, who supports herself without stopping. Lawyer—A human aptly, who supports himself entirely by his skill. A Regular Bookworm—'Her Majesty's Pipe' at the Docks is a chimney that actually smokes tobacco. Education—Dr. Andrew Bell founded National Schools, and a great Bell-fundatory too. Locust—Cicero said that nobody dances while sober. If Cicero was right, every dance is a reel.

NASHVILLE UNIVERSITY—NEW BUILDING. To-day week, April 7th, the corner stone of the new buildings of the University of Nashville will be laid, with Masonic ceremonies. It is supposed these buildings will be completed within eighteen months, when the University will be re-opened, and a new feature added to the prosperity of our city. We shall look with much interest to this event.

On the occasion of laying the corner stone, our friend, J. A. McEwen, Esq., will deliver an oration. We anticipate an effort worthy of the occasion. We learn that the different fraternities of the city, the Firemen, and the Military, will turn out on the occasion and give additional interest to the ceremonies. Of course, our citizens generally will take a lively interest in the matter, and turn out in a manner worthy of the occasion.

THOMAS RITCHIE, Esq.—This veteran democrat has written a letter to the Washington Union, contradicting the newspaper report that he had been an applicant for the place of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. He says he has been an applicant for no office, and would not accept one if tendered to him. He had signified as much to the President and members of the Cabinet.

GOODY'S LADY'S BOOK.—The last No. of this Magazine has been on our table for several days. The steel engraving, "Wayside Gossip," is very pretty, and the other embellishments highly creditable. The "table of contents" presents quite a variety, but we have not had leisure to look into the merits of the pieces.

DEBOW'S REVIEW.—The March number of this Southern publication is filled with substantial articles. As long as it is conducted with its present ability, it cannot fail to command a generous support. LADY'S PEARL.—The April No. of this home publication is out. It is well filled and neatly printed. Messrs LANGDON and PROVINE deserve much credit for the taste and ability they display in its columns. We wish them success.

MELANCHOLY OCCURRENCE.—We learned verbally, yesterday, of a very unfortunate occurrence in the city of Nashville, near Murfreesboro. It appears that Mr. SAMUEL ROCKEER stabbed his brother-in-law, Dr. SMITH, with a sword-cane, and that the latter died in a very short time from the effects of the wound. The particulars of the occurrence are not known, as it is supposed that no witnesses were present.

A Vermont sheriff recently undertook to search a dwelling in Bradford, when the woman of the house mounted him with a poker and an axe, which being wrested from her she pulled the most of his hair out of his head, threw a boiler of hot water upon him, and concluded the programme of exercises by cutting a three or four inch gash in his head with a stove griddle, after which she was secured, and a large amount of stolen property was found in her possession—a partial illustration of "Woman's Rights."

RIOT AT A FUNERAL.—As a funeral, escorted by some Benevolent Society, with staff and regalia, were passing through the streets of New York the other day, their line of procession was broken by a car, whereupon the members beat the horses with their staffs, and attacked the driver. A mob collected and threw stones at the car. Nobody was seriously injured. Two of the parties were arrested. Human passions will show themselves even at the portals of the grave.

PETTIBONE TUNNEL COMPLETED.—We are informed that the Pettibone Tunnel, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has been completed, and that a strong force is now engaged in laying the ballasting and cross-ties. The laying of the rails will be commenced and completed in a few days, and by the first of April it is expected that the first trip of the cars will be made through its immense subterranean passage.

There is an interesting couple in Cincinnati who have been engaged to be married for the last five years, but no time had occurred within that period when they were both out of prison at the same time.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD.—The work on the Pettibone tunnel has so far advanced as to require only the laying of the rails, which is now in progress. The Baltimore Sun, of Wednesday, has the following in regard to the future prospects of the road:

The condition of things on this road is rapidly improving. An average of about twenty-five large tonnage cars is now forwarded over the whole length of road, each way, and all the trains are running each way, with much punctuality. The passenger trains particularly are making good time. The Pettibone tunnel will be completed by this day week, and the necessity for working the zig-zag road over the mountain will cease. We learn, however, that this impediment has not contributed as much as has been generally supposed to the recent embarrassments of the road in its freight and passage business. Other causes operating to a great extent upon the old road east of Cumberland have had a large share in producing these difficulties, and among them has been the want of motive power, occasioned by the delay in the delivery of engines and cars contracted for—a delay with which the late "strikes" had much to do. Indeed the obstruction at the tunnel, so far as it may have kept back the Western trade waiting for transportation over the road, has really been a shield to the old part of the line from the torrent of trade which must have been precipitated upon it. The company are taking some steps which promise to give their route additional and peculiar advantages over other rival lines between the East and West.

ARREST OF A NEW HAMPSHIRE M. C.—The Washington correspondent of the Concord Democrat relates the following incident: "Major Gen. Samuel G. Chase is well known in your vicinity. It was but a few mornings ago that an M. C. was arrested from his chambers in Washington, by an officer before the magistrate. 'Is your name Peaslee?' asked the catclap, as that astonished gentleman very cautiously opened the door. 'Oh! said he, stating through it directly, 'he is a crazy man.' 'No matter for that,' said the officer, 'I know nothing about it; I must do my duty.' And so, after reluctantly allowing the M. C. to swallow his breakfast, he was taken before the magistrate on the charge of felony, for wrongfully holding certain properties in that corporate body known as the Concord Railroad. Messrs. Hale and Norris soon appeared and testified to the lunacy of Chase, who is here in constant attendance on the Supreme Court, and who so successfully imposed upon the magistrate as to get a writ for the arrest of Peaslee."

NEW YORK, March 24.—The brig Yarmouth, from Gibraltar for Salem, founded at sea on the 15th of January. Twelve persons were on board, three of whom, the Captain, steward and one seaman, were picked up by an English sloop-of-war and carried to Gibraltar. The rest are supposed to have been lost.

THE PHILADELPHIA TRAGEDY. While young Spring was undergoing his examination, his manner was modest, intelligent, and respectful throughout, and he endured the test to his feelings with heroic fortitude. When the crowd of attorneys was about to ask him if he had a hand in the murder, Mr. Reed said: "Arthur, I am now going to ask you a question, and I want you to answer it truthfully. Did you assist in committing the murder?" The lad replied, in a manner evidently filled with emotion and truthfulness—"No, sir, I did not."

While the prisoner was in conversation with one of the officers yesterday, he was asked "what was his belief? Whether he believed in a future state of rewards and punishments?" He replied: "Yes, I do." He was then asked, "What he thought would be his lot after death?" He replied: "I would go right up to heaven; I am aware that nobody can effect this but God; but Priest Sorin can intercede and pray for me."

He was taken out of the court-room last night in the same manner as the night before, by the marshal's officers, without any difficulty occurring. We were informed that some of the crowd remained around the court-room until 12 o'clock last night, and a few all night. At 6 o'clock this morning they had begun to assemble. Many of the crowd endure both hunger and thirst for the entire day, rather than depart to their homes and lose the gratification of gossiping about the matter. Excitement answers for the time, instead of food. Last night when the prisoner was taken back to the prison, he sunk very much. He had to be held up by the officers, and a stimulus was administered to keep him from fainting. He is in rather a depressed condition this morning, and seems to realize the danger of his condition.

He, however, continues to protest his innocence, and asserts that the murder of Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Lynch was perpetrated by his son Arthur, young Fenney, and two or three other boys.—Bulletin. The telegraph has already advised us of the conviction of Spring. The prisoner's counsel urged him to confess his guilt, warning him that his case was hopeless, as there was no testimony to rebut the evidence against him. Spring still asserted his innocence, and strove to fix the guilt upon his own son, who was the main witness against the father. Toward the close of the trial the hardened murderer expressed himself ready to be hung, and when the verdict was declared, manifested great indifference. The Philadelphia Bulletin says:

It is certainly a strange affair throughout. The prisoner and the witness against him (his son) are both left-handed, and the crime was obviously committed with the left-hand. The witness charges the prisoner with having committed the murder, and the prisoner in turn fixes the dreadful charge on the witness. Each claims to have exercised a restraining influence upon the other, and each maintains his own entire innocence, and the exclusive guilt of the other. The crime was dreadful enough, but the effort upon the part of the guilty party to drag his own flesh and blood to the gallows to expiate his own crime, is, if possible, still more terrible. We doubt whether the criminal records of any country in the world can exceed this tragic affair either in its inception, its shocking consummation, or in the future where the father and the son criminate and mutually condemn each other.

The public, too much stung out from the enjoyment of the pleasures of travel as well as books, will get both, in a modified form, through the instrumentalities of art. This opens a new era, in the history of Panorama painting, which may be productive of the greatest benefit.—New York Evening Post. This Exhibition continues to be well patronized at Odd Fellows' Hall; open again to-night.

Judge Brown, of the United States District Court of Tennessee, who recently died at Nashville, was great-grandson, on the mother's side, of the Stuart who fled from Scotland after the battle of Culloden, in 1745, and settled in South Carolina.—Memphis Appeal.

BALTIMORE, March 27.—Advices from Buenos Ayres to the 20th of January state that the city is still besieged, and that nearly the whole of the population are engaged in an endeavor to drive off the insurgents; but that there is no prospect of the siege being raised.—Charleston Courier.

WASHINGTON GOSPEL.—We take the following from the Washington letter of the New York Courier:

By a skillful intrigue the barnburners have gained an advantage over their opponents in the New York appointments, and the probability is that the collectorship will be offered to Gen. Dix. If he should decline, it will probably be offered to Co. Nelson W. Lawrence.

J. L. O'Sullivan is prominent in the arrangements for the naval office at New York; Dickinson for assistant treasurer, B. S. Libby for post-master, and Edward C. West for district attorney. The Hon. M. Peck, of Vermont, and ex-Senator Merriek, of Md., are the chief competitors for the office of solicitor of the treasury, but the probability is that the former will succeed.

Col. Black, of Pa., will probably be nominated for Governor of Minnesota. Wm. P. Ritchie, editor of the Richmond Enquirer, will, it is supposed, be nominated as consul to Havana or Paris. Mr. Henry A. Wise, of Va., is to have the nomination of minister to France.

The Senate has been engaged upon the treaty of amity with Switzerland. One of its provisions is that unaturalized foreigners may hold real property. Tailors.—J. BROWN, Merchant Tailor, is now in receipt of his spring styles of gentlemen's dress goods. Mr. B.'s acknowledged taste in selecting gentlemen's togery is known and properly appreciated by the beau monde.

Messrs. MYERS & McGUIRE are now receiving a handsome and well selected stock of Furnishing Goods for ladies and gentlemen. Bex. M. NOEL & BUN, sell groceries this morning.

Complete in 1 volume handsome Crown 8vo, extra Cloth, various covers. The Memoirs of the Mother and Queens of Henry VIII, contained in this volume, comprehending the period from 1485 to 1548, present so striking a picture of the stormy era of transition from the middle ages to modern times, that they may be regarded as forming a ground by themselves, and little inferior to any of the best of the series. Strickland's "Lives" is best by detaching them from Miss Agnes Strickland's "Lives of the Queens of England," of which they form so interesting a portion. The Publishers, therefore, deem it necessary only to say that they have suffered no mutilation or abridgement.
