WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13, 1883.

The Watchman Leads.

One of the great advances in the newspaper machinery of these progressive times is the invention and perfection of the folding machine...

with leaves pasted and trimmed, and the edges of which can be read "like a book."

At first these machines were used only by city publishers. They have been adapted to the use of country establishments...

The WATCHMAN, in adopting this wonderful invention, leads the van of the Vermont press...

It is the publisher's pride and pleasure to set them a good example.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS.—A person desiring to subscribe goes to the agency he may prefer. By complying with the terms of the offer he gets his flour, the agent gives him a receipt for the WATCHMAN for one year, and the paper will be sent from this office.

OLD SUBSCRIBERS who have paid up to or beyond January 1, 1883, by exhibiting their receipt or their WATCHMAN to any of the dealers named, can take advantage of this offer.

Subscribers who have not paid up to January 1, 1883, should remit to the WATCHMAN office the full amount due up to that date, or beyond, and get a receipt therefor.

Example!

John Smith has paid for his paper to February, 1883, or James Jones has paid to December, 1882; either of these subscribers by paying in full up to January 1, 1883, or beyond, and by showing his receipt to any of the dealers named can take advantage of this offer, and so with any other subscribers in arrears.

The Reason Why

the publisher is able to make the above liberal offer is this: His arrangement with the dealers named enables him to get from them the price of the WATCHMAN,—thus advancing at the same time the interest of the subscriber, the merchants and the publisher.

This Proposal

will remain open until July 15th, and will be subject to changes in the market price of flour, guaranteeing the buyer always the same relative advantage.

Flour is a staple article of household use. If the barrel is not empty to-day, it may be soon; and the wise man, although not in immediate want, will take advantage of this offer.

Dealers unite in warning consumers that the price of flour will, without doubt, soon advance. Subscribe early and save another penny.

Many acknowledge the great superiority of the WATCHMAN, who nevertheless are induced by low prices to take papers which are manifestly inferior to it in all that constitutes a good local and family journal.

The publisher's liberal offer dispels all such objections. It brings the enlarged eight-page WATCHMAN, with its select, political, family and religious reading, its good supply of local news, and its unrivaled agricultural department within the pecuniary means of every individual.

To know the WATCHMAN well is to take it continuously, as the great mass of its subscribers have taken it for long terms of years. To give strangers an opportunity to become acquainted with its merits, is in large part the motive in making the above proposal. SHOW THIS OFFER TO YOUR FRIENDS.

W. W. FRESQUETT, Publisher. Montpelier, Vt., June 13, 1883.
