"Out of the Old Into the New" At Monumental Church Tuesday Night.

This is the theme on which one of the most popular lecturers of the day will descant at Monumental Church on Tuesday evening next. "When We Thinks of What We is, and What We Used to Was"—though not quite so indelicately expressed—was presented in a more pleasing form years ago in the lecture-room of this same edifice by one of Virginia's best beloved, accomplished Christian gentlemen, which contained a fund of merriment rarely heard emanating from plous lips from a sacred rostrum; and yet not a syilable was uttered that the most fastidious could find fault with, the most prudish prude unfavorably criticise.

The habits and customs of our grandfathers in their palmiest' days bristle with much of natural grandeur and innate grace, free and easy independence and a winning sociability that is cherished as one of the happiest recollections of the hallowed past; and out of the dim, misty, murky beyond Dr. Steele will doubtless draw pictures that will send a thrill of delight into the old stagers who lived on the outskirts of the time, ages ago, when they were basking in the bright rosy morn of life, and delight the blushing lads and lassies that have sprung up around us since we stacked arms at Appomattox.

From "Out of the Old Times" will come the humor and the charm of the born chevaliers of the days the Revolution ushered in, and from the depths of the "New" run, sparkling and rosy, serene and bright, that which win show the comeliness of our elegant graced mothers and their steady, prudent, graceful ways, which are guarded well by our daughters of to-day.

The beauty of the lawn of their church, surrounded by costly coping, will soon be farther enhanced by entrance stone steps; and it is for this laudable object a determined effort is being made by the fair lawn-workers to gather in enough to make Monumental indeed a "thing of beauty." Let the generous public remember that wives, daughters and sweethearts—some of them their very own, are working f

TO MAKE BIG IMPROVEMENTS.

Building Revival Will Strike Us
This Spring.

All of the readers of the VirginianPilot remember its exclusive story of the purchase of the building of the Portsmouth Insurance Company by the Merchants' and Farmers' Bank, even to the price paid, and the improvements to be made.

Well, it has come to pass, as then stated. The plans for the great improvements to the insurance building by its new owners are in the hands of the architect, Mr. Edward Overman, who is just as busily engaged on them as he can well be. There will be no change in the size and general architecture of the building, from that given by this paper at the time of the purchase. This much can be added, that the beginning of the improvements will not be delayed on account of the privileges of those who do business therein until September.

Than there is the $10,000 office building which Mr. John Cox will cause to be erected on High street, next to the court couse. Plans for this fine house are being prepared. All of the latest improvements and facilities are to be put in this building for the comfort and convenience of those who are fortunate enough to secure office room therein.
Gas, electricity, sieam heat and other things too numerous to mention will make this a most desirable location.
This paper also knows of four private residences, one in Park View, one in Cottage Place, one on North street, and one on Court street, that will aggregate $12,000, the plans for which are being gotten ready to submit to our contractors for estimates, and which will be begun in a few weeks.

Tom our leading contractors, Messrs.
S. B. Hutchins, C. C. Johnson & Bros.
C. N. Moody, Edward Overman, Semuel W. Hodges, J. Herbert Williams, Frederick Cherry and T. D. Lipes, it is learned that taking the advancement in prices of building material generally into consideration the prospects for a busy and prosperous season are encouraging.

The young ladies say that he at first attempted to hug two of them, but they statempted to hug two of them, but they successfully resisted and it was then duct, as stated. There is no telling what other indignities the man would have attempted but for the Rev. J. W. Mitchell putting in an appearance about this time, which frightened the man and he run up South street.

The ladies were much excited and were so frightened that before they could tell Mr. Mitchell what kind of a lample time to escape. Mr. Mitchell and Mr. J. T. Whitehurst, nevertheless, made an effort to locate him, but were factory at Port Norfolk, rushed down forced to abandon the search, after some time, no clue of any value being discovered as to who the man was.

HE JUMPED OVERBOARD

Mr. Joseph Barron, of Port Norfolk, Takes an Involuntary River Bath.

On the seven minutes to eleven trip of On the seven minutes to eleven trip of the ferry steamer City of Pertsmouth from the other side of the river last night, an accident happened which, for a few minutes, caused a futter of in-tense excitement to prevail. The cry of "man overboard" is always alarm-ing, and that was the cry that stirred up the passengers on the boat of this trip.

up the passengers on the boat of this trip.

The boat had been rung off, the float gates closed and started on her trip across, when Mr. Joseph Barron, a young man employed in the furniture the float, vaulted over the gates and made a leap for the receding vessel. He, however, miscalculated the distance, and instead of landing on deck, he fell into the Elizabeth river, and for a moment was swallowed up. He quickly arose to the surface, however, and swam to the ladder placed conveniently for just such emergencies, and from thence to the dock, where he was taken on board the boat and brought to Portsmouth, and at once sought the comforts awaiting him at home.

In talking about the accident, he said he had often done the jump successful-

He was chilled when he got home, but he was soon in cheerful spirits, laughing heartly at his experience. The captain of the ferry steamer acted splendidly, and the deck hands performed their duty in a most admirable manner, and all hands felt relieved when it was discovered the involuntary bath of salt water received by Mr. Barron was the only hurt he sustained.
