Facts Presented in Prose and Poetry About the Grandeur and Beauty of the South Land—Industrial Agents of the S. A. L. Have Reason to Feel Proud of the Success of the Convention.

SECOND DAY'S SESSION.

Southern Pines, N. C., April 20.—The second day's session, was opened Wednesday at 10 a. m. by Rev. T. H. Gregory, who presided.

He called upon Rev. G. R. Hanson to deliver a prayer, which he did in a most earnest manner. Several choice selections were rendered by the band, after which Mayor P. H. Beck was introduced, who delivered a welcome address.

Ladies and gentlemen, also visitors to Southern Pines from both North and South: On behalf of the people of Southern Pines, I extend to you a hearty welcome to our Southern home. The time has come when there shall be no North, no South, but one country!

IN THE UNION (From Collier's Weekly.) (THE SOUTHERN VETERAN SPEAKS.)

I've faced the fight with Jackson, I've marched along with Lee; I had some words with Sherman as he galloped to the sea;

Exchanged brisk compliments with Grant when victory seemed in view, My old steel bayonet glittering at many a breast in blue.

I say, I've been with Jackson, and Lee—he knew my name; And sometimes, when the fight was on, he called me by the same.

I followed fierce and fearless where Long street led the way; To fields whose bloody daisies were bleached with blue and gray.

But now I'm in the Union; I see there—overhead, The flag our fathers fought for; her rippling folds of red; All glorious and victorious—the splendor of her stars—

And I say: "The blood of heroes dyed all her crimson bars." I'm for that flag forever 'gainst foes on sea and shore, Who shames her? Who defames her? Give me my gun, once more!

We'll answer when they need us—when the war fires light the night; There's a Lee still left to lead us—to the glory of the fight!

See how the old flag ripples and flaunts her folds in scorn; Her stars and bars will be the joy of nations yet unborn; And though she waves o'er new-made graves, 'neath alien sod and dew, There, in the stately silences, the gray sleep with the blue.

We're one in heart forever—we're one in heart and hand; The flag's a challenge to the sea, a garland to the land. We're united—one great country: Freedom's the watchword still; There's a Lee that's left to lead us—let the storm break where it will!

—FRANK L. STANTON. Office of the Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Mrs. D. Osborne, a talented lady of Greensboro, N. C., read a lengthy paper on the "Advantages and Beauty of Greensboro," which she styled a new El Dorado of the South.

The morning session closed with an address by Colonel George Grogan of Edgerton, Ga., who is known as Georgia's silver-tongued orator. He spoke on the subject, "Lasting Union of the North and South" and kept his audience spell-bound for over an hour.

At the close of his remarks a recess was taken until 3 p. m. The Northern gentlemen present flocked around Major Grogan, warmly shook his hand and said: "Such expressions as you have uttered will do much to cement the union."

Afternoon Session. The afternoon session was called together at 3 p. m. The first speaker was Captain A. M. Clarke, president of the Board of Trade of Southern Pines, N. C., who gave a short description of the Pines, its growth, etc.

He was followed by Mr. Killebrew, immigration agent of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, who spoke of the advantages of the South for investments, and especially in the State of Tennessee.

Mr. A. Jones, chairman of the Board of Commissioners of Polk county, N. C., and S. H. Huggins, Mayor of Salsburg, N. C., spoke of the advantages of western North Carolina and extended invitations to visit that section.

Mr. Ira J. Carter, Mayor of High Springs, Fla., gave a very interesting talk of Florida and its advantages for settlers. He said that that State had advanced more in the past fifteen years than any other in the South.

Mr. J. H. Stevens, editor of the New Bern Journal, on the advantages of their section. A general discussion then ensued between the Northern and Southern gentlemen, after which they adjourned.

At 7:30 p. m. Governor Russell, accompanied by his wife and Major Davis, his aid, arrived, and were shown to their rooms.

Much to the regret of a great many, and especially the visitors, the Governor's reception was a cool one. He sat in the corridor during the evening and took no part in the exercises whatever.

Evening Session. The evening session, which was called together at 8 p. m., was devoted to interchange of views and short talks by Northern and Southern gentlemen.

Thursday's session opened at 10 a. m., and the following subjects were discussed: "Industrial Development of the Upper Cape Fear"—Hon. E. J. Hale, editor Fayetteville Observer, Fayetteville, N. C.

"Developed Resources of North Carolina"—W. S. Primrose, president North Carolina Home Insurance Company, Raleigh, N. C.

"The Old North State"—His Excellency, Daniel L. Russell, Governor of North Carolina.

"The Past, Present and Future of North Carolina"—Ex-Governor Thos. J. Jarvis, Greenville, N. C.

"The Sand Hill Section of North Carolina"—C. J. Brown, banker, Southern Pines, N. C.

"At the Base of the Blue Ridge"—Will R. Jones, editor of Polk County News, Columbus, N. C.

"Mining in North Carolina, with Exhibit of Gold, Copper, Iron and Manganese Ores"—Col. Fred H. Stith, Concord, N. C.

General discussion after which they adjourned. At 3 p. m. the entire party took the electric cars to Pinchurst, passing through the vineyard and the great peach orchards of that section.

On arriving at Pinchurst, we were extended the courtesies of the town, which were greatly enjoyed and appreciated. Yesterday was known as "Governor's Day," and was intended to be the biggest day of the three, but a number of the people left for their homes early in the morning.

At night a banquet was given at the hotel, and notwithstanding the number of guests present, showed himself equal to the occasion. There were about four hundred persons present, representing the States of North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi, also New York, Massachusetts, Vermont, Maine and some of the Western States.

They were representatives of banks, factories and other industries. They were well pleased with what they saw and heard and there is no doubt but what the convention will result in much good to our Southern land.

The wonderful growth of Southern Pines seems phenomenal. The Virginian-Pilot was the recipient of numerous courtesies at the hands of the Seaboard Air Line and Mr. Charles St. John, of Piney Woods Inn. This year has had the best season, this year since its opening and the owners are so much encouraged that extensive improvements will be made before the next season opens.

The residence of Mrs. A. Jones, on Berkley avenue, was the scene of a beautiful wedding last evening at 9 o'clock. The contracting parties were Mr. Joseph Oliver Grimes, a popular young man of the town, and Miss Marguerite May Jones, daughter of Mrs. Jones.

The wedding march was sweetly and skillfully played by Miss Daisy Nicholas, Miss Berta Jones, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mr. George W. Jones, her brother, was best man. The bride was handsomely attired in a blue tulle and the groom in the conventional black. A reception followed the ceremony. The bridal gifts were many and handsome. Mr. and Mrs. Grimes will reside on Main street.

Republican Candidates. THE TICKET COMPLETED BY COUNTY CONVENTION YESTERDAY. The Republican Convention to nominate candidates for the Norfolk county officers, to be voted for on July 24th, was held at Providence yesterday at noon. Mr. L. M. Nichols, chairman of the County Committee, called the convention to order, and Mr. S. B. Carney was selected as temporary chairman, with B. P. Parsons, colored, as temporary secretary. These officers were subsequently made permanent.

The nomination of candidates was announced as in order, whereupon Thomas Brooks, colored, made a speech of considerable length, endorsing the district nominations already made. He censured the management of the parties because the white and colored patrons were required to take different sides of the boat. He concluded by placing Mr. Averb H. Martin in nomination for clerk of the County Court.

Daniel Harper, colored, nominated the following: L. M. Sylvester, for clerk of the Circuit Court; S. M. Lyons, for treasurer; John D. Moore, commissioner of revenue for First district; L. N. Nichols, commissioner for Second district.

Jordan Thompson, colored, of Suffolk, made a lengthy speech, complimenting the men placed in nomination. He steered clear of the Bowden-Wise controversy, and was very conservative in his remarks generally. He endorsed the negro in war and spoke hopefully of his future.

The entire ticket named was nominated by acclamation, the delegates rising. A committee of five was appointed to notify the nominees, who were brought before the convention. Mr. Martin made a short address, in which he stated that he entered the clerk's office 24 years ago, and had always endeavored to faithfully discharge the duties devolving upon him.

He made it a point to treat everybody, white and colored, with courtesy, and was grateful to the people of Norfolk county for the confidence reposed in him. He suggested that no nominations be made for the positions of Commonwealth's Attorney and Sheriff, and spoke in complimentary terms of the present incumbents, Capt. R. C. Marshall and A. C. Cromwell. The Democrats had shown commendable liberality in declining to put up candidates for clerks of the courts, treasurer, and commissioners of the revenue, and should do just half way. The convention adopted his views. In the District Convention Wednesday Mr. E. M. Tilley, of South Norfolk, was nominated for supervisor, and not justice of the peace, as was stated.
