New York spends $1,000,000 a year to keep her streets passable. There are no tramps or beggars in Key

Professor John R. Proctor, geologist of Kentucky, predicts great things for Bowling Green, in that state, which he claims is in every way the exact counterpart of Sheffield, Ala, so far as its nearness to a coal and iron supply and water and rail transportation are concerned. He says there is enough good iron near Bowling Green to supply fifty furnaces for 200 years.

A citizen of Chapin, Ills., who is 70 years old and who supports himself by doing chores for his neighbors, learned a short time ago that a certain woman in New York had been left a widow and had received $10,000 from insurance policies on her husband's life. He wrote to the widow, proposing marriage. Although the woman had never heard of the man before, she accepted his offer, shipped two trunks and a sowing machine to his address, and a few days later appeared in Chapin berself ready to be married. When she saw the prospective bridegroom and learned that he had not a dollar in the world she refused to marry him, and took an early train for

LIFE IN COREA.

Coal has been found and is being mined in Corea. Heretofore all coal used there was from either Chinese or Japanese mines.

The Coreans are good draughtsmen and publish books containing excellent wood engravings, though the artistic qualities of the pictures are decidedly oriental.

The king of Corea has just finished his winter palace and furnished it with $18,000 worth of American chairs and beds and tables. He has also bought an American steamer for $28,000.

Corea, once the producer of fine pottery, is swered. - New York Sun. now potterless. The Japanese couldn't bear the idea of the Coreans making better vases than could be made in the island empire of the cast, and forced all the potters of Corea te emigrate to the mikado's land.

The mission teachers in Seoul, Corea, needed office desks not long ago, and asked a native earpenter if he could not make some like a sample desk in their possession. Now the making of American desks is an industry of no mean proportions there, and desks that would cost $30 here sell for $5 there. The people of Corea do not like to servforeigners at first, but soon become good and even devoted servants. Their wages are very low, though they are paid all they ask Sometimes they make amusing blunders. A cook who was given a can of peas to cook without special instructions, set it on the stove without opening. The result was an explosion, which frightened everybody and mattered the poes in all the other dishes.

JOHN ROACH.

The Well Known Shipbuilder, Who Died Monday Morning.

A great many interesting anecdotes are related of John Roach, the well known builder of ships, who was but a short time ago announced to be suffering from a malignant and fatal cancer of the throat, and who died Monday morning. Although he learned the machinists' trade when a young man, when he had saved up $1,000 he decided to go west, buy a farm andgrow up with the country. Taking half his money with him, he purchased and settled

He then took his old friend in a carriage and they reached the sheriff's office in time to redeem the property. The workman's contribution to a dying man was thus repaid with interest. One of the sons of Mr. Roach afterward married the daughter of his old friend. John Roach's home, which is pictured here, is a substantial four story and basement house on Fifth avenue, New York. It is a homelike looking structure and has no doubt been the meeting place in years past of many of the public men of the country and scene of many a momentous discussion. It may be a comfort to smokers to know that Mr. Reach never used tobacco. The story of Mr. Roach's life is still fresh in the minds of newspaper readers.

A Gritty Knight of Labor.

Haves owes his prominence in the body to his grit. Some years ago he fell off a car, on which he was serving as brakeman, near Rahway. The car passed over his right arm. Hayes picked up his arm with his left and coolly walked to the Rahway station, where he fainted from loss of blood. When he came to there were a lot of people standing about him, proposing all things, doing nothing, and Hayes says it made him mad. So he shouted, "Why, in something or other, don't you tie a cord about the stump? Don't you see I am bleeding to They took him to his home in death?" New Brunswick. He lay down and held out the stump for the safrgeon's knife, and to get shaved. In a month he was busy learning telegraphing which his left hand. He also learned to write a clear, distinct hand with the left. "That was grit," said Bailey, one day, while telling the story to "Nonsense. It was noth-Hayes' presence.

grom Bad to Worse?

If you ask an experienced newspaper man if it would not be possible to secure public support in New York for a journal that should rigidly exclude divorce suits and similar scandalous matter from its columns the chances are he would tell you that such a journal would fall flat. His defense, when you tax him with publishing articles that are not fit to be read, is that they are read, whether they are fit to be or not; and he will insist, moreover, that they are read by the very people who would be least expected to read them. He may be right in his cynical view or he may be wrong. The fact remains that most of the papers seem to be going from bad to worse in this respect; and no one can contemplate the probable effect upon the morals of the community of several years of this pandering to the vilest instincts of human nature without a feeling of serious concern. - New York Cor.
