IS IT MURDER?

LINDSAY DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

FROM HIS WOUNDS.

LOOKING FOR HIS ASSAILANTS.

The coroner's verdict--What the Testimony of the Doctors Brought Out.
It is a Strong and Mysterious Case.
An Investigation is in Order.

John Lindsay, colored, died Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at No. 211 Second street, s. e., of injuries received in a fight at Woodland Park on Wednesday last.

On that day a party of negroes collected there and Lindsay got into a dispute with another negro whom he did not know and a fight ensued, during which Lindsay was struck on the head with either a rock or a piece of iron and received a severe scalp wound. He called on Dr. Leigh Buckner who dressed the wound, and the man at once began to improve and did not go to bed on account of it. On Saturday afternoon he was seized with convulsions and in a few minutes became unconscious and never rallied. Coroner Gray was summoned and Sunday evening the following jury was summoned: T. T. Poyell, foreman; F. H. Petzold, W. R. Bell, G. W. Siler, John H.
Peyton and Walter H. Teemer. After the examination of several witnesses, the jury adjourned until 11 o'clock yesterday morning to meet at the office of Dr. Gray, nothing having been accomplished. The adjournment was made in order that a post mortem examination might be held. Drs. Stone and Flery conducted the autopsy and at 11 o'clock gave the result to the jury. They found a few clots of blood in the frontal sinuses and some inflammation of the membranes of the brain in the lower portion of the head. They did not think that the wound was the cause of death, but gave it as their opinion that the spinal accessory had been injured and also that the pharyngeal and pneumogastric nerves had received a shock. This was what they thought produced death.

After a short conference the jury brought in the verdict that "the deceased came to his death from the injuries inflicted by a blunt instrument in the hands of an unknown person."

HOW IT'S DONE.

The Way in Which Roanoke is Being Built up.

A cardinal principle of development in Roanoke is to keep the establishment of manufacturing plants of the population; to do this a constant demand for help. This is the secret of the amazing growth of that town and of others like it.

Let a man who has technical ability in a given line, or who has practically any kind of a trade, and propose to build a factory and ask for assistance. Plumply the question comes to him. How much money have you to do it with? If he has some money, say a thousand dollars, and is willing to put all he has in his enterprise, as an earnest of his faith, then comes as prompt and plumply the answer, "We will subscribe the same amount and if your friends will make it twenty-five or fifty thousand dollars, we will raise that amount." There are no ifs or ands about it; the thing is done, and if there is not time to go around hunting for small subscribers ten or a dozen spirited citizens will guarantee the matter and get the smaller subscribers afterward. --Norfolk Lampmaker.

Senator Heaton Dead.

Hon. Henry Heaton, of Loudoun, died on Saturday night, at his residence in Leesburg, of apoplexy, aged 67 years. He was well known for years the representative of Loudoun and Fauquier counties in the Senate of Virginia, of which body he was one of the most efficient and influential members. In politics he was conspicuous, ardent, and uncompromisingly Democratic. He served in the artillery service of the late Confederacy, and also on the staff of General Jubal A.
Early by whom he was held in high esteem. He was a lawyer of ability, owned a large landed estate in the most attractive part of Loudoun, and was a director in the Washington and Ohio division of the Richmond and Danville railroad system.

To the Voters of the City of Roanoke.

I her-by announce myself a candidate for City Council from the Second Ward. Election to be held Thursday, May 22nd, 1890. Earnestly soliciting your support, I am most respectfully, J. A. McCOSSELL.

THE EXPOSITION.

Two Birds Might be Killed With One Stone if It is Successful.

The latest and most promising scheme for bringing the natural and industrial resources of this section to the attention of the country is a proposition to hold, in one of the great northern cities, an exposition made up of southern exhibits.

This scheme, as we understand it, has been suggested and will be set on foot by progressive southern manufacturers. One of the projectors is quoted as saying that the people of the south propose to make a northern pilgrimage, carrying the products of the soil, mines, factories and forests to such an exposition, well organized so as to cover the industrial south in all departments, and fairly well managed, would do a great deal of good.
If it is organized at all, it should be on a scale proportioned to its importance. By thus invading the north with an exhibition of its products and resources, the south would attract the attention of thousands of capitalists and investors who have no opportunity or inclination to visit the various local exhibitions that are held annually in the south.

The exposition proposed by Vice-President Eddy to be held in this city in 1892 would be a nucleus around which other might be formed, and which Virginia would already be prepared with an exhibit that could surpass any that might be gotten up hastily. The exposition could be organized for a short time and thus two ends arrived at--two birds killed with one stone.

THE SHOW IS HERE.

The Greatest on Earth Will Exhibit in Roanoke Today.

The greatest show on earth came to town in the "wee sma' hours" this morning, when all good people were in bed.

It was wet and muddy and in every way disagreeable, but Barnum is every much like a piece of clockwork and no matter what happens his tents have to go up. The audience last night in Lynchburg was very large, the rain soaked the tents and making the animals scurry as well as giving the fat woman a bad cold.

Long before the hour appointed for the parade the streets through which it was to pass were thronged with children and their mothers, not less anxious than the little ones, probably, to see the show. They stood on the corners, and sat on the steps leading to front doors, and even on the curbs.
Some enterprising youngsters climbed upon the tree boxes, and seated themselves on the unused gas pipes on Main and Church streets, and the whole of Fifth avenue literally swarmed with children. All available seats were occupied at seven o'clock, and by several thousand of young sightseers.

The city today will have more people within its limits than it has had for a long time before, and even last night there were perhaps a thousand more than usual who slept within our borders. The merry-go-rounds are in working order and scores of fakirs selling all sorts of worthless articles.
The managers of the great show were disappointed in getting the crowd that they had first selected which were near the baseball grounds. They were slightly flooded by Sunday and last night's rains and so it was decided to get a site in West End on the Webb farm at the terminus of the street car line, north of First avenue and east of the Rorer Mine railroad.

MEETING OF THE CITY COUNCIL.

Seventy-one Thousand Dollars Will be the Total Cost--What Manager Sands Says--The Subject of Streets Discussed--Alleys Are Talked About.

As the hands of the clock pointed to the hour of eight last night President R. A. Buckner rapped with his gavel on the desk in the council chamber, and the gentlemen threw their cigar stumps into the cuspidors.

It was a called meeting of the City Council, and the following members were present: Messrs. Buckner, Graves, Hanthorn, Mooney, McCone-ll, Ruggles, Scott, Shelton and Trout.

The object for which the meeting was called was the consideration of the overhead bridge question. A communication from General Manager Joseph H. Sands of the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company was read.
Mr. Sands said that Assistant Engineer Charles S. Churchill had furnished him with an estimate of the cost of the work, which estimate accompanied the communication. The approaches for the bridge over Randolph street will cost $12,575; over Henry street $9,800, and Park street $13,250.
Contingencies $75,000; a total of $25,600.
This is the amount the city has to pay out. The railroad company proposes to erect the abutments and spans to the bridges; these will cost as follows: For Randolph street, $12,600; Henry street, $8,300; Park street, $13,200; contingencies, $800; total $25,000.

This makes the total cost of the bridges and approaches $71,000. The council accepted the communication of Mr. Sands and the clerk was instructed to notify him to that effect.

The petition of J. B. Fishburne and others asking for the opening of High street was referred to the street committee.

Mr. C. G. Smith was granted the privilege of building an entrance to the Ponce de Leon Hotel over Second street to the width of two feet provided the entrance is to be ornamental and is allowed for a sidewalk eight feet in width.

The matter of grading Fourth avenue, S. W., was referred to the street committee with power to act, they to confer with the city engineer. The committee then adjourned.

Immediately upon adjournment, President Buckner called another meeting to act upon the recommendation of the city engineer. In reference to changing the name of Fourth and Fifth streets, N. E., he closed and deeded to John H. Davis, provided said Davis deeded to the city a like space for an alley fifty feet east of the present alley.

Resolution asking that Fifth avenue N. E. be graded from the Gainsboro road was granted. Council then adjourned to meet at call of the president.

A Prominent Woman Dead.

Col. Chas. R. Vance received a telegram last night stating that Mrs. F.
A. Ross, of Rogersville, was dead.
Mrs. Ross has, for a long time, been principal of the Rogersville Synodical Female college, and under her management it has become one of the most flourishing female schools in E.
Tennessee or Southwest Virginia.

Several Bristol and Sullivan county gentlemen have been educated there. The death of Mrs. Ross makes a vacancy in the school that will be hard to fill Bristol News.

Prof. Graybill was elected to succeed Mrs. Ross, and in response to a telegram left the city Sunday for Rogersville.

The Tariff and Tobacco.

At the instance of Congressman Venable, of Virginia, Mr. McKinley has agreed to so amend the tariff bill as to provide for the payment of the rebate on the stock of tobacco dealers when that bill shall go into operation.

Mr. Venable also tried to induce Mr.
McKinley to include among the benefits of the rebate provision the small dealers, whose rebate would not amount to ten dollars as provided by the bill. Mr. McKinley assured Mr. Venable that no further reduction in the tax on tobacco would be made than that now provided in the bill.

Children's Day.

"Children's Day" was observed at Greene Memorial church Sunday night. The program consisted of addresses by the assistant pastor, Rev. C.
H. Buchanan, and J. W. Woods, Superintendent of the Sunday school, and songs, solos, duets and choruses by the children of the Sunday school. The program was ably aided by Mrs. Buchanan, and everything passed off splendently. Professor Pauli presided at the organ.

For Mayor.

The many friends of Mr. Geo. Houston are glad to learn that he will allow his name to be used as a candidate for mayor of this city. tid

For Council.

After having been requested by a number of friends, Henry announces himself a candidate for councilman of the Second ward, promising to discharge the duties involved, if elected, faithfully. JOSEPH FRANK.

The First Train.

The first train over the Lynchburg and Roanoke road from Roxboro, N. C., went over the road yesterday. The train was in charge of conductor Taylor Parcell and brought over 500 passengers to Lynchburg and return.

WATCHED BY DETECTIVES.

Railroad Employees Given an Opportunity to Act With Charity.

"No one could form an idea," remarked a railroad employe yesterday to a TIMES reporter, "of the manner in which railroad employes are watched."

"For what reason?" asked the reporter.

"Well, for numerous. Detectives are employed by the railroad corporations, and they adopt all manner of schemes to catch employes shirking their duty or committing some act of violation of the company's rules. Employes in all capacities are watched. I know several instances of the persistence of these detectives. A conductor on a freight train, who possessed orders not to allow anyone to ride on his train, was accosted by one of them not long ago and asked that he be allowed to ride to a certain station. The conductor refused, but the man told such a pitiful tale that the conductor let him ride. The conductor was touched. He told him that he had a mother lying at the point of death and he told how she had begged to see him once more and that his only wish was to be beside her before she passed away. He allowed the moneyless man to ride on his train and his surprise can be imagined when a few days afterwards he was summoned to appear before the railroad officials in an adjoining town. This occurrence happened near Roanoke. I know an unsus
