IVANHOE
WYTHE COUNTY, VA.
At the junction of the North Carolina extension and Cripple Creek extension of the Norfolk and Western Railroad. A great railroad junction, in the heart of the greatest mining district of Southwest Virginia, and destined soon to rank with the great industrial centers of the New South.

THE IVANHOE
LAND AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY
Offer at Private Sale
Desirable Business and Dwelling Lots at an average Price of $275.

IMMENSE LIMESTONE QUARRIES ARE BEING OPERATED WITHIN THE TOWN.
The No. 1 Furnace of the New River Mineral Company is already in successful operation, while the Ivanhoe Iron Company, under the Presidency of Mr. Jordan L. Mott, of the Mott Haven Iron Work of New York, has been organized for the purpose of erecting another furnace of large capacity. The extensive mines of the Mott Haven Mineral Company adjoining the town, are already giving employment to a large number of men. The IVANHOE ZINC COMPANY, with a capital of $500,000, has purchased immense deposits of exceedingly rich zinc ores, which they are now developing, and will soon erect several zinc furnaces.

A CHILD KILLED.
Another child killed by the use of opiate given in the form of soothing syrup. Why mothers give their children such deadly poison is surprising when they can relieve the child of its peculiar troubles by using Dr. Acker's Sarsaparilla. It cures all such ailments and all liver troubles. It is small, sweet, easily taken, and does not gripe.

I. BACHRACH,
122 SALEM AVENUE.
The Peculiar Ease and Cheapness With Which They Are Mined.
Prof. Shaler writes in the Arena: "The iron ores of the South are not only extremely abundant, but occur in several widely separated fields, The Shenandoah district of Virginia and the neighboring valley of Roanoke, Western North Carolina, Eastern Kentucky and Tennessee, Northwest Georgia and Northern Alabama, all districts belonging to the system of the Appalachians, abound in workable deposits of this mineral. Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, also contain valuable iron ores, but they lie remote from deposits of good coal. The peculiar advantage of the Appalachian district is found in the fact that the ore lies in the neighborhood of excellent coal beds, which, in certain cases, can be used as it comes from the mines, or may be made to serve the needs of the smelter after it is converted into coke. The average distance of the iron ores from the coal needed to reduce it to the metallic state does not probably exceed one hundred miles. The ores of the Lake Superior district have to be transported from seven to ten times this distance to find an appropriate fuel. It is true that the average richness of the Lake Superior ores in metallic iron is probably nearly one-third greater than those found in the Southern States, and the former yield Bessemer iron, which, save in rare instances, cannot be produced from the Southern deposits. On the other hand, the latter ores are generally won with considerable ease. Enough ore to make a ton of iron can at many points be mined and put in the furnace at a cost of between one and two dollars, while to bring the same amount of raw material from the earth about Lake Superior to the smelting point costs, at the present time, from nine to twelve dollars. Moreover, there is a method of making steel, known as the Bessemer process, which for general purposes is as good as the Bessemer system. This method is well proven, and with the expiration of certain patents, which in a few years will cease to be valid, will doubtless come into general use in the Southern States.
The peculiar ores which the Southern ores are mined in good part due to their geological conditions. They are generally in the form of true beds, which once were limestone, and have been converted by percolating waters containing iron into dissolved form into iron ores. Being beds of this origin, the deposits are more continuous than those of other nature, such as those about Lake Superior, where the ore occurs in small, irregularly deposited, and generally in the form of thin layers, which are hidden by the deep accumulations of drift materials which are so common in Northern districts. In part, also, their advantageous conditions are due to the fact that the Southern climate is well adapted to carrying on open pits throughout the year, while such uncovered openings would not be workable for more than seven months of the year in Northern climates."

There's all the difference in the world between a friend in need and a needy friend.—Burlington Leader.
A DUTY TO YOURSELF.
It is surprising that people will use a common, ordinary pill when they can secure a valuable English one for the same money. Dr. Acker's English pills are a positive cure for sick-headache and all liver troubles. They are small, sweet, easily taken, and do not gripe.

A GOOD THING FOR ROANOKE,
The Turf Exchange
A boom for Roanoke.
Yesterday a party of gentlemen were down from Lynchburg to hear the races reported at the
TURF EXCHANGE.
A gentleman was also down from Liberty and two others from Bristol. All came expressly for the purpose of taking advantage of privileges offered at
THE TURF EXCHANGE.
It being much cheaper to come to Roanoke than to make a trip to the track in New York. Every day Roanoke has people attracted by nothing else than the Turf :: Exchange.

Roanoke being the only town in Virginia, outside of Richmond, able to support a Turf Exchange, of course has the advantage of her sister cities, and those desiring to play
THE RACES
Are forced to come to Roanoke.
CALL AT THE EXCHANGE
And hear the Races described by telegraph. We have private leased wires direct to all race courses in the country, and they are all reported in detail by telegraph.
THE RACES BEGIN
EVERY MORNING
At 10 o'clock and continue till 6 p. m.
Persons desiring to invest their money can do so by calling at

Real Estate Agents,
There has been wonderful activity in city real estate in the last two weeks, even for Roanoke. Several hundred thousand dollars worth of property changed hands at handsome profits. One lot for example, which sold for seven thousand five hundred dollars eight days ago, was resold yesterday for eleven thousand dollars. Dozens of similar examples might be given. Have you been making any money dealing in Roanoke
