

THE NEWS OF THE CHURCHES.

The New First Baptist Church Completed.

To be Dedicated Next Sunday—The Sermon to be Preached by Rev. Dr. J. B. Hawthorne of Atlanta—Rev. Mr. Duffy Returns to his Work To-day, and Dr. Whisner to Preach at Greene Memorial Church—The Services at all the City Churches.

Like the ideal shrine of the pilgrim stands the New Baptist Church to the brethren of that denomination in Roanoke. The finishing touch of the mason, the carpenter, the painter, the upholsterer and decorator have all been put on, and, like a model of beauty, the new structure rears itself with majestic solemnity above all buildings around it.

A few hours' work by the masons and the stone steps will be complete. The carpet was laid by the E. H. Stewart Furniture Company yesterday. It is dark green mixed with gray, and the texture is the finest body Brussels.

It took just five hundred and seventy yards to cover the floor. A large number of persons visited the church yesterday and were delighted with the large spacious auditorium, the elegant stained glass and memorial windows, the excellent arrangement of the baptismal font and general convenience of the entire church.

It will be dedicated to the cause of God next Sunday by Rev. J. B. Hawthorne, D. D., of Atlanta, Ga., who has accepted the invitation to conduct the ceremony. Dr. Hawthorne is a distinguished pulpit orator, and will attract an immense congregation. He will remain over till Monday night the 30th, and deliver his famous lecture, "Men and Women," by special request.

IN THE CLUTCHES OF THE LAW.

Many Charges Accumulate Against Wesley Hurt, of Railroad Avenue Fame.

Wesley Hurt, a notorious Railroad avenue "bum" and crap shooter, has at last been bagged and is now safe in the arms of the law. He was arrested by Policeman Schancks, who now rejoices. In fact all the police are happy that Wesley will give them no more trouble. Schancks took Wesley in on Railroad avenue for shooting crap. He also preferred the charge of vagrancy against him and the mayor fined him $15.

While sitting in the deck A. J. Sugar came in at the request of the officer and said Wesley was the man he wanted for stealing a ring. H. B. Laskey had the same charge to prefer and two warrants were issued.

The trial came off before Justice Howerton yesterday evening. The evidence went to show that Wesley was playing a sharp game, but it didn't work in either case. He prepared himself with an old ring and attached a tag to it. Concealing it in the palm of his hand, he went into the store and desired to see some heavy gold rings. Being shown a tray containing such rings, he would select one, try it on and dextrously place it between the thumb and palm of his hand, and throwing the old ring on the show case, say he did not wish to purchase to-day.

But Laskey and Sugar were both too sharp for him, and succeeded in taking the ring away. They put Wesley out of the store, and were only too glad to get back the jewelry.

Justice Howerton listened to the evidence and then to Mr. Perkin's defense, at the conclusion of which he only said, "two and four months." This meant six months on the chain gang, and when this time and the forty-five days given him by the mayor expires it will be late in March.

Officer Schancks made a very creditable showing in prosecuting him.

FOREIGN VS. HOME ENTERPRISE.

To the Editors of Roanoke, Va.:

In the issues of THE ROANOKE TIMES and Herald of the 7th of July there appeared two anonymous articles, through which, either by direct statement or innuendo, the impression was endeavored to be created that a "war of extermination" had been inaugurated against the Virginia Brewing Company, a so-called "home industry," by the several brewing companies represented by us, and that the mixture called and sold as beer, manufactured by the said Virginia Brewing Company, was so infinitely superior to the beer sold by us that we "cannot meet it in the field of legitimate competition and with the hope (it is said) of effecting sales, which the merits of their goods cannot command, the foreign companies have reduced the price of their wares from $9 to $4 per barrel."

Such allegations are but the desperate utterances of an already beaten corporation and so entirely without any foundation, in fact that we deem it but simple justice to ourselves and the companies we represent that the truth of the matter should be made known.

In the first place the "galled jade wineed" before she was struck—the article in question appeared before the cut in prices went into effect.

Now this cut in prices was inaugurated from no desire of strangling an infant "home industry," but merely as a measure of protection against the unbusinesslike, not to say dishonorable, methods of this same infant home industry as the following statement of facts will show:

Shortly before this wailing corporation put its cooked and steamed stuff, called by it beer, upon the market, one Scholtz, calling himself manager of the Virginia Brewing Company, at a meeting of the beer men of Roanoke, proposed to Mr. E. R. Woodward that he take the road as agent of the Virginia Brewing Company and sell the mixture professed to be manufactured by them on a certain commission. When asked as to the city trade, "Oh," he says, "I don't propose to allow anybody to interfere with my trade here." This gentleman gave him quietly to understand that he did not propose to be run out of town so easily. It was then proposed by Mr. Woodward, and distinctly and clearly agreed to by Scholtz, that all should sell their beers at the same price, to wit, $9 per barrel, or $2.25 a keg, and each article to be sold on its merits.

This agreement had hardly been made before Scholtz began cutting the price; then, to again use the language of one of the articles in question, making an admission of superiority so infinite that he could not meet our beers in its legitimate field of competition.

In Roanoke he sold at $2.25 per keg, with 5 per cent. off; at Pocahontas for $2.00 and $2.15, ice thrown in; at Lynchburg for $2; at Buchanan at $2 per crate with 10 per cent. off. Scholtz not only breaking his solemn engagement, but discriminating in the sale of his much-vaunted mixtures against that home city which he now so pitifully and whiningly calls upon for help, crying the "baby act."

And this is not all. Still not being able to sell his mixtures, and conscious of an inferiority "so infinite" that he "cannot meet" our beer in the field of legitimate competition, and with the hope of effecting sales which "the merits of their goods cannot command," this wailing, pany, infant home industry, the Virginia Brewing Company, through agents in Roanoke, Salem and probably other points, represented that the breweries for whom we are agents do not employ "union men," and are boycotting us, but their artful dodges did not work, as the following extracts from a few letters show:

Mr. John Alexander, of Salem, under date of June 13th, 1891, writes as follows: "Speaking of our beer," he says: "If I can get it fresh there will be no trouble to turn the Roanoke beer down. The Roanoke man comes to see me every day, and I can see they are afraid of you. He said if I could use his beer he would put it at my bar for $2.10 per keg. * * * Then said your beer was boycotted, and I cannot sell it here, I told him I would show him. * * * Why, this old beer I have on hand now is better than Roanoke, so the people that drink it say."

Mr. R. H. Carter, of Lynchburg, under date of July 7, '91, writes: "LYNCHBURG, July 7.—I hereby certify that I have been offered beer at $2 per keg, put in my house, by the agent of the Virginia Brewing Company, of Roanoke, Va. R. H. CARTER, Mr. John Manning writes under date of July 7, 1891. "I hereby certify that I am buying beer from the Virginia Brewing Company's agent here for $2.00 per keg put in my house."

Mr. M. Kegny writes to the same effect. So does Mr. A. E. Rose, as does also Mr. J. C. Manan, Mr. O. B. Jester and Mr. F. W. Hoppo send us the following affidavits which speak for themselves.

LYNCHBURG, Va., July 9, 1891.—I hereby certify that the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association made no cut in the prices on beer in Lynchburg until after they had positive proof that the Virginia Brewing Company, of Roanoke, Va., had cut their prices.

F. W. HOPPE, Agent Anheuser-Busch Branch, Lynchburg, Va. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 9th day of July, 1891.

W. G. HAMNER, N. P.

LYNCHBURG, Va., July 9, 1891.—I certify that the Robt. Portner Brewing Company made no cut in the prices on beer in Lynchburg until after they had positive evidence that the Virginia Brewing Company of Roanoke, Va., had cut their prices.

O. B. JESTER, Agent, Robt. Portner Brewing Company, Lynchburg, Va. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 9th day of July 1891.

W. G. HAMNER, N. P.

The agent of the Anheuser-Busch Co., on July 1, 1891, proposed to the manager of the Virginia Brewing, to establish a price upon beer for one year and to put up a forfeit in money, to be deposited in any bank in Roanoke. This Scholtz declined. So much as for who inaugurated the war.

The companies that we represent employ to-day more union men than any other like concern in the United States, while the Virginia Brewing Company, with a manager imported from Baltimore, does not employ a single union man, as we are informed.

The Virginia Brewing Company claims that it is a home industry and "an influential factor" in advertising Roanoke.

Nicholas & Woodward are the pioneers in the wholesale beer and liquor trade in this city. They started here nine years ago, in the days of Big Lick, with a small capital. All their money, brought from outside of Roanoke, has been invested here, until now they represent a capital of $125,000. They are now employing directly or indirectly from 20 to 40 men and have paid out in Roanoke city within the past 30 days in cash the sum of $22,000.

In conclusion we say it is not true that we or the companies we represent desire a war of extermination so far as the Virginia Brewing Company is concerned. We want fair and honest treatment and mean to have it, even if it be necessary to wage "a war of extermination."

We make and sell far better beer than is made by the Virginia Brewing Company and challenge that company to a test.

We will wager from $1,000 to $5,000 that our beers are better as to quality, strength, purity or keeping properties than that now being made by the Virginia Brewing Company.

We are willing to fix any price upon the beers sold by us that the Virginia Brewing Company may say is right and proper, and put up a forfeit in any bank in Roanoke of from $5,000 to $10,000 cash, provided the Virginia Brewing Company will sell its beer at the same price and put up a like forfeit, for we cannot and will not accept the word of its present manager.

We are prepared to prove any of the allegations of fact herein contained before any committee of reputable business men.

NICHOLAS & WOODWARD, Agents for Anheuser-Busch and Pabst Brewing Cos.

Alleghany Institute.

THE TIMES is in receipt of the catalogue of Alleghany Institute for the session 1890-91, and announcements for the session of 1891-92, to begin on Monday, September 14. The faculty will be composed of Rev. C. F. James, D. D., principal, Professors A. S. H. Bristow, B. A., Jas. R. Long, B. A., and John T. James, whose ability and success as educators needs no eulogy here where they are so well and favorably known. Alleghany Institute as a preparatory school has no superior. Ninety pupils were enrolled last session and the indications are that a great many more will attend the next. The building is situated on a high hill overlooking the city, and the spacious grounds afford ample facilities for healthful exercise. The boarding department is under the contract of the principals, and students have the benefit of family association and watchful care. For further particulars address Dr. James.

Closing Out to Quit Business.

By reference to an advertisement elsewhere in THE TIMES it will be seen that I. Bachrack, the oldest merchant in Roanoke, is closing out at cost his immense stock of dry goods, notions, ladies' and gentlemen's furnishing goods, etc., at No. 122 Salem avenue, and desires the services of several sales ladies to wait upon customers. His summer goods are offered at from 5 to 10 per cent. less than cost, and he guarantees to save ladies 50 per cent. at least on black silks, torseon laces, lace curtains and embroideries, all bought before the rise. This sale may be relied upon as a positive closing out, as he desires to devote his attention exclusively to his shoe house.

Southwest Virginia Institute.

A post-graduate department is a new feature in schools for young ladies. The Southwest Virginia Institute has post-graduate classes in mathematics, English, mental and moral science, and natural science. This department has been added for the benefit of young ladies who intend to adopt the profession of teaching. Verily, this is a step in the right direction. Why should not young ladies have the same facilities that young men have too fit them for their life work?

A Successful Institution.

We learn by the catalogue before us that the last session of the Southwest Virginia Institute was by far the most prosperous in its history. Every year this school is climbing up. Many wonder at the success of Professor Jones when they consider his charges are so moderate. The mystery, however, is solved when we remember that he is one of the best business men in the Southwest.
