FOR THE ORPHANS. The Institution to be Opened Some Time This Summer.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Baptist Orphanage yesterday, the following were present: Dr. Cooke and Rev. Beale, of Hollings; Mayor Evans, Roanoke, and Messrs. O. L. Stearnes, C. R. Townson, A. G. Duncan and Thomas I. Preston. The session was taken up principally with a consideration of the rules recently formulated governing the conditions of receiving orphans, and copies of the same were ordered to be mailed to each of thirty-seven trustees. Should they meet with their approval they will be used as a temporary guide until they are ratified or amended by the regular meeting of the board of trustees, which takes place at Danville next November in connection with the general association.

The orphanage will be opened some time this summer, and Superintendent Hobbay is making all necessary preparations with that end in view, even to the preparation of a large vegetable garden from which to obtain part of his supplies. It will take a good round sum of money to purchase furniture and other necessities, and, whilst the orphanage officials are not begging for aid, they would suggest to those readers of THE TIMES who have promised subscriptions, that right now there is urgent need for hard cash, though, of course, good checks will not be refused.

A Stubborn Fight. Judge Blair delivered his opinion in the case from the county court of the Salem Improvement Company, who refuse to pay certain taxes on the ground that they are unjust and excessive. The circuit court, in this decision, reverses the decision of the county court in favor of the Improvement Company, and the town and the commonwealth will now probably carry the case to the court of appeals. Should Judge Blair's opinion be sustained, the State will lose $800 in taxes, the town of Salem $1,500, and the town of Salem school district $800, so that a stubborn fight will be maintained.

BREVITIES. Within the past two or three days the Chadwick Two-Wheeler has received orders from Rochelle, N. Y., for two handsome phaetons; from Petersburg, Va., for six doctor's phaetons and business road carts; also a special order from Danbury, Conn., and another from Aux-Cayes, France. The success with which these pretty and handy little vehicles are meeting everywhere is very gratifying to the officers of the company, who desire to build up sufficient trade to employ two hundred hands. Last Saturday the company shipped the carload to California, previously mentioned in these columns.

At a called meeting of the town council Wednesday night, all the members being present except Messrs. Chalmers and Harveycutler, the following business was transacted: Resolved, That the water committee be authorized to lay a two inch water pipe from the main at the Baptist Orphanage, a distance of about 500 feet, on Mount Vernon avenue, to the property of C. R. Townson, provided he supply the necessary means, except the actual cost of the pipe laid down on the ground; said Townson to be allowed to place to the credit of amount advanced by him, such a sum as shall be assessed against him for water tax; the town of Salem reserving the right to reimburse said Townson at any time they may elect to do so.

T. P. Ayres, of Abingdon, was in town yesterday and said that the people of Abingdon and Washington county look upon the verdict of the jury in the Baker case as an outrage, for few people there entertain even a doubt of his guilt, and that no jury could have been found in that section which would have acquitted him. He further said that those who applauded when the verdict was announced were men of the Baker stamp.

There was a meeting yesterday in Secretary Nelson's office of the committee recently appointed by the board of directors of the Hookman Land Company, to take the necessary preliminary steps to wind up the affairs of this prosperous little company. They adjourned to meet next Monday. P. H. Road, of the law firm of Marshall & Road, of Newcastle, is in town on business. Duvall Adams, of Lynchburg, was at Hotel Lucerne yesterday. Miss Hattie Wolfenden is visiting friends in Wythville. Gordon Wells left yesterday for Radford, where he will spend several days with relatives. Charles R. Towson is on a visit to Hollins. Rev. John S. Hansbrough, of Orange Court House, will preach at the Episcopal Church at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Do you want a piano or an organ? If you do, call on Hobbie Music Company, 157 Salem avenue. They handle the best makes and will guarantee lowest factory prices and easy payments. Brooks for cheap photos for a short time. Artists' materials, a full line. Fox & Christian, 105 Commerce street.

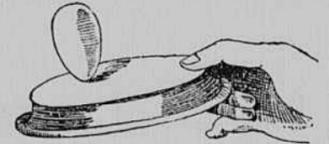

THE DANCING EGG.

A Clever Trick, But It Requires a Dextrous Hand.

Take a hard boiled egg and lay it in the center of a plate or dish, turned upside down, and held in the manner indicated in the sketch. By giving the dish a horizontal movement the egg will move along with it, and as the rapidity of the motion is increased up to a certain degree, the egg will right itself and stand on the pointed end, spinning or dancing like a top.

Why is it that the egg drops on the pointed end and not on the blunt end? The reason for it is this: During the boiling of the egg a vacuum is formed whereby the egg has become comparatively heavier at the pointed end than the flat. In order to harmonize the center of gravity of the egg with its central axis it must be set on its point during the boiling process, and to devise a method whereby this can be done must be left to the ingenuity of our readers.

Our little experiment requires a somewhat dextrous hand. In the first place the necessary force must be applied in turning the plate; then again the movement must be perfectly horizontal and as uniform as possible, because a spasmodic motion would throw the egg from the dish. A good way to succeed is to set the plate upside down on the table in such a manner that it can be easily picked up with the hand. The egg must then be placed in the center of the plate and give a spinning motion with the thumb and forefinger, just as it is done with a coin. While the egg is thus spinning, the plate is picked up and rotated, and the former will keep up its perambulation while the motion of the latter lasts.

A PERSIAN PRINCE.

The Head of a Religious Sect, He Lives in Style at Bombay.

A Persian prince lives in Bombay of whom very little is heard, though he is a power in the oriental world. He wields more authority than many oriental potentates. He is at the head of the Maulai sect of Mohammedans who are widely scattered over northern India and the regions north and east of India. The Maulais regard this refugee Persian prince as their spiritual head, or pope. Col. Tanner, who has described the inhabitants of the Himalayas recently says that were this prince to return to Persia he would speedily lose his head, though he exercises absolute spiritual authority over a vast number of followers in the upper Oxus states in Kashmir, in Burmah, and even in China. The constituted rulers of these countries do not influence those of their people who are members of this religious sect so powerfully as does this far-away prince.

The lowliest Maulai who wanders over the icy plateau of the Pamir feels it his duty to subscribe from his scanty means every year toward a tribute to his spiritual lord. Across the snowy passes which lie between central Asia and India this tribute is carried and delivered, regardless of the difficulties which for many stages beset the embassies on their journey.

The prince, who, by the way, is addicted to horse racing, and is one of the most liberal patrons of the Indian turf, is one of the descendants of the original saints so commonly regarded in olden times by the Persians as persons of the greatest sanctity. He lives in the greatest luxury. His very large income, wholly derived from the annual contributions of the faithful, enables him to occupy a fine palace. He has a large retinue of servants, a stable of fine horses, and all the outward trappings of a very important and wealthy personage. He is far more fortunate than the princes of the upper Oxus states, who, within a few years, have been passing under the rapacious rule of the tyrant of Afghanistan. Under one pretext or another the leading and most influential of the upper Oxus princes have been made way with by the ameer, and the rest are apparently destined to meet the same fate at the hands of the Afghan ally of Great Britain, whose hands are steeped in the blood of every man of note in his dominions whom he considers to be inimical to his rule.

RAILROAD RACKET.

SIBERIA is soon to have a railroad from the Ural mountains to the Sea of Japan, a distance of 4,785 miles, costing $183,825,000.

Twenty-one railway properties, with an aggregate mileage of 3,223 miles, and a capitalization of over $168,000,000, were sold under foreclosure during the past year.—Pittsburgh Catholic.

Over five hundred annual passes, made of filigree silver and worth $25 each, have been sent to the railway magnates of the country by President Otto Mears of the Rio Grande Southern.

If the number of persons daily entering the city of London were dispatched from any given station by train, as many as 1,977 trains, each conveying 600 persons, would be required for the purpose. If the trains were all joined together in a continuous line they would extend 221 miles.

A NEW DISEASE.

It Is Known as "Typewriters Insanity."

And Affects Those Who Manipulate the Typewriter—What a Learned Doctor Says Regarding the Affection.

Pretty typewriters in danger of losing their reason! A new mental disease has been noticed by many physicians in the past few years, and it has increased with the use of typewriters in all departments of commercial and professional work.

It usually begins with a slight but persistent headache. Then gradually the memory fails, so that persons affected become absent-minded to such a degree that they are scarcely to be trusted alone. Dyspepsia, with all its horrors, follows, and finally the patient becomes unfitted for all mental exertion.

This is a description of typewriters' insanity given to a reporter of the New York Morning Journal by Dr. Charles Higgins, of Brooklyn, who has had several such cases under his charge.

"The disease is as real as writers' cramp," the doctor said, "although when its cause was first suggested to be the use of the typewriter it was laughed at as absurd. People laughed at writers' cramp in the same way twenty years ago."

"How can the use of a typewriter cause dyspepsia?" asked the reporter.

"Well, to explain that," said the doctor, "I should have to go over all that we know of that marvelous telegraph plant which every human being carries about with him, known as the nervous system. Specialists who have studied nerve diseases discovered years ago that there were what we now know as reflex actions. That is, that a condition which affects one portion of the body produced a similar or opposite effect on another portion, just as a telephone wire is made useless by the induced current from an electric light wire. Perhaps the most familiar example of this is the fact that a piece of grit or dirt in an eye will cause the other to smart and become inflamed through sympathy."

Here the doctor produced diagrams of the keyboards of half a dozen of the prominent makes of typewriters. "Now, as you see," he went on, "these keyboards consist of round or hexagonal keys, about half an inch in diameter. They are white with black letters in the center, and they stand out against the black background. Many of these keyboards are eighteen inches long by a foot deep, and most of them are larger than the page of an ordinary book. Now I will make a little diagram to show you where the great strain on the nervous system comes from."

Here the doctor drew a rough sketch of the human eye in section and of the keyboard of a popular typewriter.

"You can easily see that in the effort to perceive all the keys at once, when working rapidly, the eye endeavors to adjust itself to a focus that will cover the entire keyboard. But this is impossible, so the mirror at the back of the eye, called the retina, is constantly changing the lenses in front of the eye so that it can get the objects distinctly impressed upon it."

"In the diagram I have only shown four different focuses," continued the doctor, "but when you multiply them by the number of keys on the four rows and count that the spaces between the keys are about an inch lower than the tops of the keys themselves, you can imagine the vast number of focuses that reach the eye and the amount of work the lenses of that delicate organ must do to keep pace with them."

"Prof. Hayes, the expert of Philadelphia," Dr. Higgins went on, "has estimated that in five hours' work on a typewriter an ordinary expert operator will have to change the focus of the lenses of the eye at least forty-seven million times!"

"Now, the human eye was never intended to do this," asserted the doctor, "and the strain on the little muscles which move these lenses is enormous. It soon has a reflex action on the nerves, and this finally irritates the brain to such a degree that it produces typewriters' insanity."

"Is there no cure for this trouble, doctor?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, yes!" he rejoined. "Rest will effect a perfect cure, and sometimes a pair of eyeglasses, suited to the eyes that are naturally perfect, afford a great relief."

"Could you suggest any improvement in typewriters to lessen the strain on the eyes?"

"I think I could," concluded Dr. Higgins. "A typewriter with a keyboard like a piano or something approaching it would be a wonderful thing for this trouble. Pianists become expert on a straight flat keyboard, and I can see no reason why typewriters should not."

Deaths Among Pensioners.

The grip is reaping many victims among the pensioners, and a large number of pension office certificates lie on Pension Agent Clements' desk unsigned, having been returned because of the sudden death of the veterans whose names are contained therein. Since quarterly payment day, January 6, more than forty deaths among the pensioners have been reported to Col. Clements, and in almost every case death was sudden, and from the grip. "I do not remember having heard of so many deaths among the pensioners in so short a time," said Col. Clements.

A Wandering Bottle.

A bottle filled with whisky by a New York liquor dealer, and carried to sea by a New Yorker bound for Europe, lately reached the liquor dealer again, after many months and through a strange channel. A friend of the traveler affirms that the bottle, emptied of its contents, was thrown overboard while the ship was still far from shore, but the liquor dealer is equally positive that the bottle came back to him in a case of rum imported from the West Indies.
